INDEX TO THE RECORD AND GUIDE.

VOL. XLIV.

JULY—DECEMBER, INCLUSIVE.

1889.

The following semi-annual Index of the Conveyances and Projected Buildings in New York and Kings Counties, as published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE during the last half of 1889, will be found of great value to those of our subscribers who have preserved all the issues of this paper during that period. Great care has been taken to keep the Index up to the same perfect standard which has characterized it in the past. The pages are given on which all the transfers of realty published in Volume XLIV. can be found, and the streets and avenues are so sub-divided that very few references are required. For instance, transfers of property on Broome street appear in nineteen issues during the six months; Broome street, in the Index, is sub-divided into fifteen parts, so that the least possible trouble need be incurred, any transfer being found by referring to five pages at the most, provided it is known between what streets the property is located. Although many of our subscribers have used the Index for years, some of them do not fully understand the completeness of the work. We are frequently told of errors that our readers think they have discovered, which, upon investigation, prove to be errors of the searcher—not of the Index. For instance, in the current number appears the following: Greenwich, south of Rector, 951, 1079, 1108, 1444, the latter being the pages on which transfers on said street may be found. Now, turning to page 951, the average searcher would fail to find the item referred to, because it does not appear in the alphabetical order of streets. A close search shows the item under the head of Broadway, where a plot 162.4x 200 to Greenwich street, is conveyed. The Index is, therefore, in some cases condemned for a supposed omission which is really the strongest evidence of the thoroughness with which it has been compiled. Where such an omission should occasionally seem apparent to the subscriber, he should search the whole page, and he will then find the item which is referred to. The Projected Buildings are indexed in a similar manner, so that it can readily be ascertained on what streets improvements have been made. Those wishing to keep a file for permanent reference should see that all the numbers are complete and have them bound. A suitable binder can be obtained at the office of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, 191 Broadway, corner Dey street; price, one dollar.

CONVEYANCES.

NOTE.—The figures in extra black type—for instance, 1414, under the head of Barclay street—denote that the transaction on the page given is Leasehold, or a lease running for a long term of years. This explanation is made so that subscribers searching for transfers in fee can at once distinguish between the former and the latter without referring to the page mentioned.

VOL. XLIV.

JULY 6, 1889.

No. 1,112

The first week in the new fiscal year is always attended with special circumstances, which, as a rule, disturb, or rather restrict, business and speculation. Of these the July disbursements and the national holiday, together with what may be regarded as the beginning of the midsummer term, are the most important. The past week has been no exception to the rule. The activity of last week in Wall street was followed by comparative dullness, though there was little diminution in the heavy dealings in trust certificates, which was noted in these columns in our last issue as one of the features of the market recently. The general condition of trade is satisfactory, the volume of business being slightly greater than at this time a year ago. In most of the "staples" prices are firmer with somewhat of a tendency to advance. The key to the situation, however, present and prospective, is the crops; and while it is true the reports from some districts are slightly dubious, the area they cover is so limited that they are quite insufficient to seriously qualify the general fact that the condition of the crops is excellent and the outlook promising above the ordinary.

Mr. Gilroy has been making some remarks about asphalt pavement that at least show more openness of mind than the Department of Public Works has been accustomed to exhibit on this subject. They were made upon the proposition to pave Wall street with asphalt from Nassau street to Front street. This is one of the busiest thoroughfares in the city, and consequently one of the noisiest, and the noise is undoubtedly a great nuisance. Mr. Gilroy thought that as asphalt is the more expensive pavement and the less durable the business men who desired the substitution of it for granite have a right to make the substitution at their own cost. The cost is of course a mere bagatelle for the owner of the buildings bordering Wall street, and this proposition will doubtless be adopted. As to expense, the truth probably is that asphalt needs more careful watching and maintenance than granite, and without this falls into dangerous disrepair much sooner. The concentration of the weight of loads upon the narrow ties of our vehicles is also a circumstance unfavorable to asphalt, especially in hot weather. Mr. Gilroy is probably right in saying that as a matter of municipal economy it will be well to confine asphalt to residential streets. Even here it is necessary to provide that it shall not be habitually used for heavy trucking. If this traffic can be kept from it its advantages of smoothness and noiselessness are so great that it will undoubtedly supersede block pavement throughout the whole upper part of the city. The effectiveness of our method of destroying a pavement as soon as it is laid by digging holes or trenches in it is probably about equally great whether it be applied to asphalt or to granite, and has little to do with a choice between the two.

The tendency of conditions is to drive the retail trade of the city north of 14th street. The strength of this tendency is stronger the greater the distance is south of that street. It is, for instance, strongest below Wall street, and weakest between 4th and 14th streets. The trades that first feel this tendency are what may be called the household trades, and the last to feel it are the trades that minister to the wants of the "sterner sex." The ferries, however, have proved to be retroactive agencies in this respect, and have retained in their neighborhood trades which otherwise would long ago have been compelled to migrate elsewhere. The influence of these means of transportation on the character of real estate may be recognized by a glance at the "ferry district" on the west side down town, between Chambers street and Liberty street. Retail stores, even those devoted to household requirements, flourish there, though the resident population is entirely insufficient to support a fraction of them. Some of the largest groceries in the city are there, as well as dry goods stores, crockery stores, fruiterers, household hardware stores, etc. The same may be said of the east side along and in the neighborhood of Fulton street. This condition of affairs is no doubt partly attributable to the fact that the two important markets of the city—Washington Market and Fulton Market—are situated in these sections, but allowing for this, much is due also to the ferries. As a consequence, the future of real estate in these ferry districts depends in part upon the future of the ferries. Every development of these is worth the attention of property-holders.

The probabilities are that all the ferry streets, as traffic over the rivers east and west increases, will become streets of first-class retail stores. For example, the character of Cortlandt street—the line of the great tide of travel to the Pennsylvania ferry—is slowly changing in this direction; and when new improvements are undertaken, especially in the lower part of the street, this fact should not be lost sight of by property-owners. Stores are taking the place of the old warehouses. There are on it already stores for stationery, confectionery, silverware, clothes, hats, boots, haberdashery, tobacco, garden flowers and seeds, etc. In like way the increasing traffic on the New Jersey Central will no doubt bring about the improvement of the dilapidated section of Liberty street, west of Washington, by the erection of stores. Chambers street and Barclay street are also becoming thoroughfares lined with retail stores. As an instance of the importance of ferries the reverse of the foregoing there is the east side of down town where the tendency to perpetuate the retail stores has been weakened by the turn which traffic has taken from the Brooklyn ferries to the East River bridge; though the South Brooklyn ferries and the ferries at Whitehall will probably bring retail stores into their neighborhood. In all the sections spoken of the ferries are important factors in the future of real estate, and it can be seen that anything that affects them affects the latter.

While the solution of the "pavement" problem is receiving so much public attention, and a large appropriation, the uncompleted condition of the sewerage of the city should not be forgotten. In certain sections which may be considered "down town" it is impossible to comply with the law requiring buildings to be sewered into the main street sewer, for there is none, and parties building in those localities are at times compelled to discharge through the rear of their houses into the next street where there may be a sewer. Notably is this the case around Avenue D and 10th and 12th streets, both of which have no sewerage. On the site of the Quintard Iron Works, where tenements have been and are being erected, builders have been compelled to drain their buildings into 11th street, and many owners putting up structures of any kind in that section, and between Avenue D and the river, are compelled to lay long lines of 40 and 50 feet of sewer pipe to reach the necessary connection with the public sewer in the nearest street or avenue. Is there no remedy for this condition of affairs?

The most gratifying aspect of the work of the Tax Commissioners during the year is the probable reduction of the tax rate to about 2 per cent. on the assessed valuation, lower by far than the rate has been for thirty years. This, of course, is not due to any phenomenal increase in the assessed valuation, nor yet to any decrease in the amount of money to be expended. When the budget was completed last December its items aggregated $37,637,069.31. As against this there were unexpended balances of old appropriations in the various departments to the amount of $4,602,760.74, which was converted into a general fund, applicable to the expenses of the year, thus reducing the sum to be raised by taxation to $33,034,309.17, or $766,000 less than that of 1888. This amount was made still smaller by the readjustment of the disposition of certain of the revenues of the Sinking Fund, so that finally the sum for city expenses to be raised by taxation was reduced to $30,390,631.61.

A comparison of the comparative increase or decrease of the total real estate and personal property valuations for the years 1888 and 1889 brings out some interesting points. On the one hand, the increment of the real estate valuations is only some $28,759,412, against $48,327,030 for 1888 over 1887. On the other hand, whereas there was a decrease of $2,525,262 in the valuation of personal property in 1888 from the figures of 1887, there is an increase of $21,637,270 in 1889 over 1888. This comparative decrease in the increase of the valuation of real estate THE RECORD AND GUIDE predicted last year. The increase in 1888 over 1887 was to a certain extent abnormal, being due to the building boom which had prevailed during 1886 and 1887. During those two years there had been 4,097 and 4,385 plans for new buildings, entailing an estimated outlay of $58,479,653 in 1886 and $66,839,980 in 1887. In 1888 the number of projected buildings shrunk to 3,076 and the cost to $47,142,478. It will be noticed that the decrease in the comparative increase in the assessed valuations of 1887 and 1888, and 1888 and 1889, amounts to about $20,000,000, being within less than a million dollars of the increase of the estimated cost of the building plans filed in 1888 over 1887.

The causes of the comparative increase of the personal property valuation are perhaps less easy to define. It is quite obvious that the estimated valuation of either year is nothing like the true valuation. The small decrease in the assessments of 1888 did not mean, in all probability, any real decrease of the personal property of the citizens of New York. Perhaps, however, the comparatively larger increase of the assessments of 1889 over 1888 is more significant. At all events President Coleman, of the Tax Board, seems to think so, for he is reported as saying:

The increase this year in the personal property and corporation assessments combined is the largest in sixteen years, and indicates that our laws are as favorable to corporations and manufacturing companies as they are elsewhere, and that we give better protection at a less rate than is found at other points, and also that money is plentiful and its tendency toward our city.

It will be further noticed that the only ward which shows a decrease in the assessed valuation from 1888 is the 24th. This decrease does not represent any actual decline in the value of the property of that district; it is due to the fact that nearly 2,000 acres have been made exempt from taxation for the new parks—a fact that is also to be considered in relation to the decrease of the comparative increases in the real estate valuation for the entire city of 1888 over 1887, and 1889 over 1888. The whole award for the 3,840 acres of land, of which not much more than twenty-five were in the 23d Ward, was $9,352,101.69. Taking two-thirds of this as the assessed valuation it would make a little over $6,000,000, from which one-half must be deducted, for less than 2,000 acres only were exempted. This would add about $3,000,000 to the valuation of the 24th Ward assessed on the same area as last year. Thus we would get, not a decrease in the valuation of the 24th Ward, but an increase of over $2,300,000, about the same in amount as the increase of 1888 over 1887. It is to be noticed, however, that the increase in the 23d Ward in 1889 over 1888 is only about half the increase in the same district of 1888 over 1887.

Dr. J. W. Jenks has some valuable suggestions to offer on the question of road improvement in this country, in a monograph recently published by the American Economic Association. The importance of this question has been under-estimated. The most diverse and ill-conceived methods have been practiced in different parts of the country to such an extent indeed that, according to the estimate of an expert, the poor roads in the United States added $15 to the price that a farmer had to pay for a horse. All toll roads, Dr. Jenks thinks, should be abolished, with due regard, of course, to the vested interests of corporations. All the highways of the country should be classified in reference to their relative importance. Those most used should be controlled by the county and supported by county funds, and the rest either by the towns or by the town in conjunction with the county. Every county should have in its employ a civil engineer to supervise repairing and construction; and there should also be a State engineer with general supervisory powers. All these reforms THE RECORD AND GUIDE has been advising for years. A law drawn up on these lines has already been passed in New Jersey, and the sooner the other States follow this example the better.

The most casual reader of the newspapers cannot fail to notice what an immense amount of English capital is seeking investment in this country, and latterly what a widely varied set of industries it gets a foothold in. Fifteen or twenty years ago, Englishmen began to make investments in Western and Southern agricultural and grazing lands. About the same time we borrowed a great deal of money for the purpose of building our railroads. Since then the holdings of American real estate abroad has increased very largely, so much so that complaints are being heard in many of the Western States against what is called crowding the American out of America. After the panic of 1873 much of our railroad debt was wiped out; but since 1881 it has increased still more largely until now enough of the stocks and bonds of many of our principal roads are being held abroad to warrant their listment on the London Stock Exchange. Still more recently we hear that groups of English capitalists are buying up many of our largest breweries, and that they are bidding for rubber manufactories and flour mills. According to one authority, some English iron and steel makers will construct steel and iron works, including four furnaces, etc., at a new town at Cumberland Gap, near the line between Kentucky and Tennessee. Over $4,000,000 have already been laid out and upward of 60,000 acres of mineral land purchased. The total investments will aggregate $10,000,000 in cash. This is simply a very forcible illustration of what is happening all over in smaller ways. Indeed, it has become so that there is rumor of some mysterious English syndicate behind almost every big financial transaction, actual or prospective.

Is it not worth inquiring where all this will lead to? One thing is certain. If it continues, as it very well may, we shall in the future have an abundance of demagogic slush to wade through. If tricksters can obtain some following by inciting American workmen against American employers, they can obtain a much larger one by appealing to national bigotry in the bargain. But, apart from such political bearings of the tendency of English capital to flow to this country, the movement has other and more important social and economical bearings. For one thing, it will bind the two countries together by ties of the strongest—ties so strong, indeed, that it will take more than demagogic mouthing to shake them. For another, we shall be obliged to make such large interest payments abroad every year that ultimately our foreign trade may be revolutionized—that is, we shall be obliged to produce as much for the foreign market as the home market. Our already rapid development will be quickened still further by the assistance of this outside capital.

"Single Representation"—Its Benefits to Real Estate.

This has not got anything to do with politics. By "single representation" in this instance is meant: confiding the sale, leasing, renting or managing of any piece of real estate to only one broker.

It is not necessary to point out that the contrary practice is the rule to-day. As a general thing an owner of real estate desiring to dispose of property places it in the hands of as many brokers as he happens to know, or as many as may happen to apply to him for permission to put it "on their books." The more the merrier, he thinks. The consequence is, it is not uncommon to see the names of from three to even as many as ten brokers decorating the solitude of vacant lots, and at times they must bring to the would-be buyer's mind sinister suggestions of scarecrows or a small graveyard devoted to the interment of real estate agents. Most dwellings for sale or to let have the signs of several brokers hung like "banners on the outer walls." The same is true of tenements and factory property, and even in the case of large apartment houses and office buildings a purchaser or renter has often a choice of brokers given to him.

Is this practice a wise one for either the owners of real estate or for brokers?

The owner, no doubt, thinks that the greater the number of brokers who have his property in hand the wider his market, and the greater his chances for a sale. To a certain extent this is true, but it is a most superficial view of the matter in which much that is of far greater consequence is overlooked.

In the first place, by the "many-broker" plan the owner himself reverses the conditions which are necessary to obtaining the highest prices. He puts his property on the market instead of in the market; he gives it more of the character of an article in supply, instead of an article in demand. Every merchant knows the difference which this makes in the price obtainable. Ultimate economic analysis may disclose that supply and demand are merely two phrases of the same thing, for in every sale there is both supply and demand; but in negotiations between buyer and seller the price will be determined to a great extent by which side the inclination to trade preponderates.

An intending investor, as a rule, inquires for property of several brokers, and if all or most of them offer him the same plot or the same building, it is strange if he does not get the impression that the property is being hawked around, that as it is so very "much for sale" it must be either undesirable or the owner very anxious to sell, and in both cases he mentally reduces the price he ought to pay for it.

By intrusting his property to many brokers the seller creates what may be called a "competition to sell;" the tendency of which is to bring him the lowest price at which he will part with his property. His asking price may be, say $50,000. Broker No. 1 may think about $47,000 a fair price. Broker No. 2 may offer it at $45,000. Broker No. 3, knowing that he is in competition with other brokers, may say to an intending buyer: "Make me an offer of $42,000, and I will see what I can do." And so the reduction may carry the price down to even $40,000. All the time it is a scramble to sell, in which the numerous brokers try rather to meet the wishes of the buyer than the demand of the seller. Prices decline, and the advice given to the owner is: "I would take that offer if I were you. I don't think you will do better."

More than this, when a piece of property is in the hands of many brokers there is not the strong inducement to find a good purchaser that there would be if the property were given to only one broker. A broker cannot afford to spend much time or trouble to sell property that may at any moment be disposed of by others, thus rendering his efforts useless.

With "single representation," however, the broker feels sure that he will obtain the benefits of any efforts he may make or any money he may spend to effect a sale. All "inquiries" as to the property from all other brokers must come to him; thus he can gauge the demand and there is no temptation to effect a sale at the lowest figure. He acts for the seller, not for the buyer. The property is not hawked about the city. Investors have to treat with one man. They hear only one price and only one set of conditions, and thus the impression is conveyed that the property is firmly held. All this makes for higher prices. We know of a builder who recently completed a dozen houses in a part of the city where property at present is in little demand, but by dealing through only one broker he has disposed of nine of these to a decided advantage, and what is just as important, with dispatch. "Single representation" did it.

"Single representation" is thus advocated in the interest of all concerned. It will benefit not only brokers, but the owners of real estate of every description. It will increase prices and put the relations between owner and broker on a more solid, satisfactory and businesslike footing than at present.

The Manchester Textile Recorder speaks of the system of profit-sharing as merely the offering of a bribe for good behavior; and in truth it is nothing else. In one way the plan is comparable to that of certain weekly newspapers and magazines, which offer a sewing machine, or a gun, or set of silver, or anything else under the sun down to a set of jackstones for a certain number of subscribers. In one case the employer says in effect to his employes: "I am paying you a certain amount of wages; but I think if you work somewhat harder I can afford to throw in a few dollars a year more." The manager of the newspaper says: "We have an enormous subscription list now; but we do not at all mind making it rather more enormous, and if you will help in this we will smooth your path in life with a set of jackstones." The answer a sensible man would make to the above declaration of the employer might be this: "If I have earned my few dollars a year more, it is due to me and not gratuitously on your part. If I have not earned it I do not want it. All I ask is that you exhibit towards me a spirit of justice. Pay me so far as you can, as much as I am worth to you; but do not offer me bread and molasses for not playing the truant." In the same way, if the newspaper can afford to throw in a sewing machine with a certain number of subscribers, it could afford equally well and probably with far better results, either to reduce the subscription price, or else employ intelligent canvassers and pay them in an intelligent way.

Monopolies of Service in American Cities.

Some centuries ago it was common for governments to farm out their taxes instead of collecting them by means of their own agents. It will be remembered also that the publicans who kindly relieved the State of this disagreeable duty were usually classed with sinners and regarded as outcasts. Perhaps some of the opprobrium that falls to the lot of modern corporations has come to be justified for a similar reason, because they have been assigned public functions and then have been left exposed to almost irresistible temptations to fleece the public. A careful estimate has been made which seems to show that the people of this country are paying 10 per cent. annual dividends on $150,000,000 of fictitious gas stock, and yet our cities go on without change of policy, apparently continuing to think that competition will regulate prices in a business where competition is demonstrably nothing but an expense and a nuisance. Only five cities in the whole country are known to own their gas works—Philadelphia, Richmond, Danville, Wheeling and Alexandria, Virginia. Yet of these five, the one that has managed least wisely has succeeded in obtaining gas at a lower rate than almost any of the cities supplied by private companies, and considerably below the average for such cities. There is no example of sustained and healthy competition between gas companies in the United States. Even a "gas war" that lasts for a considerable time is merely "a fight to the finish," and duplicate gas plants must eventually be paid for by double dividends.

The system of electric lighting came in at a time when the municipalities had learned some of the drawbacks connected with private management of such enterprises, and has, therefore, been taken in charge by a larger number of cities. We published some time ago a list of eighteen cities owning and very successfully operating their own electric light works, Chicago being one of the number. All but one of these are west of the Alleghanies, and it has been suggested that there is a greater tendency to this form of management in the West than in the East. About the only means of testing the truth of this supposition is by reference to the facts regarding the management of water works. These are more generally under public control than illuminating works, probably because the supply of water is more obviously limited, while at the same time an adequate supply, and of good quality, is more absolutely essential.

From facts collected by the American Economic Association we learn that of 1,402 towns reporting, 544 owned their water works, 675 had private works, and 183 did not report the character of the ownership. The returns from cities containing over 10,000 inhabitants show that 67 per cent. of this class own their water works. As to the geographical aspect of the returns, we find that the leading State in the matter of public ownership is Massachusetts, where there are 75 public systems as against 54 private ones. But in the neighboring State of Connecticut there are 15 public as against 26 private establishments. The States where the policy of public works has the strongest foothold outside of Massachusetts are Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois.

The only other enterprise which cities have been much urged to undertake is that of managing street railways. As yet none of our American cities have attempted this with the exception of the Brooklyn Bridge line, managed by the two municipalities interested. This exception is already being pointed at as a suggestive example of what might be. Two Southern cities have been more successful than all others in obtaining special revenue from street car lines. Baltimore was the first American city to avail itself of the value of such franchises, and in 1859, in the ordinance by which the right of way was given, provided for a 20 per cent. tax on the gross receipts of the companies. This has been cut down to 9 per cent., but during the last ten years has yielded on an average $100,000 per annum. New Orleans, the other city referred to, has consistently pursued the policy of auctioning off the street car franchises for a specified number of years. In 1886 the sale of a single franchise met nearly one-eighth of the total municipal expenditures for the year.

These instances of municipal thrift are very scattering, but they take the discussion out of the domain of theory and give us a basis of fact to reason from. Generally speaking water works are less a means of extortion than gas works; and those who have studied the question seem to think that the mixed system, where some cities adopt one way and some another, has been a good thing, each plan affording something of a criterion by which to judge the other. Doubtless, our cities would have taken more radical steps in the direction indicated except that they are governed so largely from the State capitals. The average American municipal charter is a large and incoherent mass of restrictive legislation, which the courts are bound to construe strictly against the corporation. Professor Goodnow, of the Columbia Law School, points out that of the eleven States that allow only general acts for municipal incorporation but three—Missouri, Ohio and Georgia—allow them to erect or operate gas works; and but nine—Arkansas, California, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska and Ohio—allow their municipalities to construct and operate water works.

It will thus be seen that our American municipalities present almost a dead level of thriftlessness in the matter of squandering valuable franchises upon private companies. These franchises are oftenest given in perpetuity and without compensation.

If we desire to find a contrast to this state of things we must look outside our country, but need not look further than England. Of the 155 tramways in the United Kingdom twenty-seven belong to the local authorities, yielding an annual revenue of £81,980. In the financial year 1883-4, which is the last for which the figures are at hand, the amount of money received from water works by municipal boroughs was £1,628,585; by urban sanitary districts, £267,810; by rural sanitary districts, £19,166. From gas works the municipal boroughs received £3,056,559; the urban sanitary districts, £307,489.

It is said that "men are as lazy as they dare to be," and it seems to be also true that cities are as wasteful as circumstances permit. Our American cities are just reaching a point where better and more economical government must be had.

The project of erecting a vast mausoleum in which the disposal of the dead is to be effected by means of dessication is certainly sufficiently novel to direct attention to its proposed methods. The leading idea is, it appears, to avoid on the one hand, the old unsanitary method of interment, and on the other hand, the more modern, though to most people more revolting, plan of cremation, and by adopting a middle course, which would remove all possible objections, cut the gordian knot of a difficulty which has been for a long time puzzling sanitarians and scientists alike. At the recent Medico-Legal Convention an outline of the proposed process was presented in a paper read by the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Harvey, and one of the results already reached is the formation of the new Mausoleum Company with the view to carrying out the new idea. As the title would imply, there is to be a large building in which the sepulchres are to be of concrete. In these the human remains are to be placed and a current of dry air introduced at one end and carried off at the other, laden with the gases and moisture of the body, which are then conducted to a furnace and consumed. So far as the initiatory steps may be accepted as a guarantee of success, there seems to be some purpose behind the movement, but it will be time enough to elaborate the system to be worked out when the undertaking assumes a more tangible shape.

Matthew Marshall points out that the gross earnings of nearly all the street railroads in this city have declined since 1886. For instance, the Broadway & Seventh Avenue Company earned only $1,542,000 against $1,634,944 in 1886; the 8th avenue, $622,000 against $692,000; the 2d avenue, $858,000 against $1,052,000; the 6th avenue, $662,000 against $839,000, and so on almost throughout the list. This falling off is undoubtedly due to the cheaper fares on the Elevated roads; but there is clearly some other influence at work, for comparing the earnings of 1887 with those of 1888, of the cross-town lines so little affected by the Elevated roads, there is a decline. The earnings of the Central Park, North and East River line fell from $604,000 to $581,000, though the burning of the company's stable may account for this; of the Dry Dock, East Broadway & Battery line, from $878,000 to $825,000; the 23d street line, from $670,000 to $643,000, and the 42d street line, from $376,000 to $349,000. However, compared with 1886 in some of these cases, 1888 shows an increase.

The Half-Yearly Record.

CONVEYANCES, MORTGAGES AND NEW BUILDINGS.

The tables given below tell the story of the past six months' dealings in realty, mortgages and new buildings in a clear and concise manner. They show—what our readers have been informed of monthly since the first of February—that business this year has been much larger than last year, both in the way of transactions and the amounts involved, and, furthermore, that business this year until the end of May was larger than during 1887—a phenomenal year for dealings in realty. During the first half of the present year there were 1,843 more deeds recorded, expressing a consideration $37,462,055 greater than was shown in the filings during the same period in 1888. This year's filings exceed those for 1887 by 549 in number of transactions, but there is a decrease of $273,647 in the amounts involved. During the six months ending June 30, this year, there were 5,307 deeds recorded, in which the total consideration was $152,671,483, or an average of $28,767 for each deed. In the same months of 1888 the figures were 4,271 and $117,992,472, an average of $27,626, and in 1887 they numbered 5,436 and $153,652,529 respectively, an average of $28,265. All deeds for nominal considerations and for the 23d and 24th Wards are omitted from the figures showing the average of each deed. Conveyances or deeds beyond the Harlem, in which considerations are given, number 1,122 involving $7,096,202 this year, against 881 for $4,286,158 in 1888, and 1,069 for $6,361,803 in 1887. The average price for each deed in said section being $6,300 for this year, $5,157 last year, and $5,951 for the year before. Business during June shows an increase in transactions over the same month last year, and the dealings in June, 1887, were largely in excess of those during 1888 or 1889. The filings for June show a large increase in the way of deeds and money involved for properties in the 23d and 24th Wards over the same month last year. In fact, the figures for six months disclose the fact that more business had been done in those wards than in either 1888 or 1887.

In the foregoing trades there are expressed considerations aggregating $1,485,500, and for the four pieces quoted as nominal the consideration was probably $470,000, making a grand total of $1,955,500 embraced in ten trades.

- A—The 82d street flats are mortgaged for $105,000, and were sold under foreclosure last February to the David Jones estate at $108,000, which about equaled the sum due on the mortgages foreclosed by the same estate.
- B—These 5th avenue, 132d and 133d street lots were acquired by Mr. Overhiser in April at $49,500, and traded in June at $68,000. They are now mortgaged for $58,000.
- C—This flat was traded last March at about $200,000, when the seller took 35 lots on 5th av, 113th and 114th streets at about $280,000. The flat is mortgaged for $125,000.
- D—There was no consideration mentioned in the deed for these flats, which are mortgaged for $155,000, but it is reported that $200,000 was the figure. Mr. Beaudet has since resold the Boulevard lots to John Nesbit with a loan for improvement.
- E—The figure obtained by Mr. Butler for his Convent avenue houses was recently given in our "Gossip" at $27,500 each. We hear he will improve the lots at Elberon, N. J.
- F—Both parties to this trade frequently appear as traders. Eliz. Coates represents Builder Wm. Noble, and took the 5th avenue lots in trade for a house on Central Park West a month earlier at $50,000.

COSTLY HOUSES.

Here follows a list of the costly houses which changed hands during June:

5th av, No. 854, s 67th st, 30.5x120, to Wallace C. Andrews. Mort. $150,000.	nom
5th av, No. 810, n e cor 62d st, to Wm. Belden.	nom

Lexington av, No. 271, s e cor 36th st, to Lewis C. Ledyard.	70,000

77th st, No. 42 W., to Samuel Colcord. (Exchanged for lots at $80,000).	90,000

There is no consideration given in the deed to Mr. Andrews of the de Sota mansion, but the fact that it is mortgaged for $150,000 certainly entitles it to a place in the list of costly houses.

ALONG BROADWAY.

These sales on New York's great thoroughfare were completed:

No. 714, 25x137.6, to Myer Finn.	$100,000
N e cor 30th st, 105.8x110.6x98.8x72.9, leasehold, Palmer's Theatre } 30th st, n s, 450 w 5th av, 50x98.9.	200,000 to Octavia A. Moss. Foreclosure.

PRICES IN AN OLD DISTRICT.

The following transfers show that good prices are realized for lots in this section of the city.

Washington pl, n e cor Mercer st, 52x91.9, to Samuel and Louis Sachs.	90,000
Bleecker st, n w cor Greene st, 2 lots, to Myer Foster and Leo Schlesinger.	100,000

A mortgage of $45,000 at 4½ per cent. was secured on the first parcel. The Bleecker street lots have been resold at $123,000 and will be improved by the erection of a building to cost about $150,000. Within a stone's-throw of this plot three other new buildings are going up on Bleecker street, which, when built, will materially improve the appearance of the street.

Further down town this corner changed hands:

Grand st, n e cor Wooster st, 25x100, five-story brick (iron front) store, to Thos. Lewis.	$76,000
--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----------

SPECULATORS.

Herman Wronkow, Asher Weinstein, Wm. Buhler, Jr., and Weil & Mayer are among the most active speculators. They have bought and sold many parcels, and are well known in the brokers' office. Mr. Weinstein has resold at a profit several parcels recently purchased. Mr. Wronkow's purchases for the month reached about $125,000. Here is a list of Weil and Mayer's dealings for the month, together with a memorandum of what the several properties sold cost them:

WEIL & MAYER'S TRANSACTIONS.

(E) Lot cost $8,900, Oct. 16, 1888, and new building cost $18,000.

Mr. Buhler bought six tenements on the northwest corner of 2d avenue and 99th street from Henry Chenoweth at $174,000.

Caterer Delmonico invested $36,750 by the purchase of Nos. 4 and 6 South William street.

Robert and Ogden Goellet paid $40,000 for a dwelling on West 32d street, 21x98.9. This adjoins the corner of Broadway, where they are erecting an elegant hotel at a cost of half a million dollars.

CHURCHES AND SYNAGOGUES.

The Congregation Shaaer Hashamoim sold their synagogue on Rivington street, at $70,000, to the New York City Church Extension and Missionary Society M. E. Church, and bought the English Evangelical Lutheran Church of St. James, on 15th street west of 2d avenue, at $80,000.

Maiden lane property sells well. At a recent auction sale excellent figures were obtained for property on this street. The following sale of No. 38 shows that prices are firmly maintained :

Maiden lane, No. 38, s s, 92.5 e Nassau st, 21.3x62.8x18.5x67.4, five-story stone front store, to Wm. Whaley. $66,000

LOTS SOUTH OF TWENTY-THIRD STREET.

In the district south of 23d street there is a great demand for lots by builders who want to erect flats and tenements. The lots are very firmly held, and in some cases as high as $20,000 has been paid for lots on side streets. Here is a sample :

Suffolk st, No. 53, near Grand st, 25.3x100, to John H. Parker (with loan). $20,000

FLATS AND STORES ON THE AVENUES.

Excellent prices have been obtained for desirable flats with stores on the leading avenues of trade, especially for corner properties. Here is a recent transfer and a sample of the high prices paid for such properties :

8th av, n e cor 47th st, 25.5x100, new five-story tenem't with stores. Walker & Lawson to Ellen T. C. Fallon. Mort. $55,000. Sold for $85,000

The lot cost the builders $41,000 in trade in September, 1888, and the plans filed for the new building called for the expenditure of $36,000. Mrs. Fallon has since taken title to Nos. 4 and 10 West 134th street at $52,000.

AGAIN IN THE FAMILY.

In June, 1888, S. T. Meyer sold a plot, 48x117.6, on the south side of 34th street, 141 feet west of Lexington avenue, for $65,000 to George W. Vultee. The latter filed plans two months later for a seven-story flat, to cost $120,000. Among the transfers filed during June is one conveying the above-mentioned property to Arthur L. Meyer, a son of S. T. Meyer, for $250,000, or $65,000 over and above what the land and building cost according to the official filings. Mr. Vultee is engaged by the law firm of Hoadley, Lauterbach & Johnson.

CHOICE EAST SIDE LOTS.

There was not much done in choice lots in the fashionable east side district. Here is one sale which will be followed by a handsome and costly improvement :

Madison av, s w cor 73d st, abt 4 lots. C. L. Tiffany to The English Evangelical Lutheran Church of St. James. $105,000

Further up town this block changed hands :

Park and Lexington avs, 99th to 100th sts. G. F. Johnson to E. A. Davis. Same property. E. A. Davis to Guggenheimer & Untermeyer. $145,000

A SITE FOR THE MUSIC HALL.

A plot of ten lots has been secured by the Music Hall Company, and Architect W. B. Tuthill is preparing the plans therefor. The site and cost is as follows :

7th av, s e cor 57th st, 7 lots on av, 2 on 57th st and 1 on 56th st. Total cost. $305,000

ON THE WEST SIDE—IMPORTANT SALES OF LOTS.

Here follows a list of the most important sales of lots on the west side, with remarks which may be found interesting.

Messrs. Barney & Jencks sold ten lots on the north and south sides of 88th street, 100 feet west of the Boulevard ; five to Thomas Butler at $47,500, and five to N. M. Whipple at $45,000. They also sold four lots on the southeast corner of West End avenue and 88th street to Mr. Whipple at $47,500. The sellers made building loans in each instance.

Frederick Van Tine took title to twenty lots along 96th and 97th streets, east of 9th avenue, at $241,000, and gave back mortgages to the sellers aggregating $468,500.

Frank L. Fisher paid $70,000 for four lots on the northeast corner of 9th avenue and 76th street, and will build thereon.

Brewer Frank A. Elhret secured a fine building site opposite Manhattan square, the southwest corner of Central Park West and 77th street, size 25.8x100, at a cost of $30,000.

Builder Francis Crawford paid $98,000 for a plot of four lots on the south side of 72d street, 100 feet west of 9th avenue. He recently gave $100,000 for the four adjoining, and is now engaged in improving the eight.

T. C. & George Edgar bought four lots on 75th street, south side, 200 feet west of 9th avenue, at $55,750, from Ottinger Bros., who make a building loan.

The block front on Central Park West, between 103d and 104th streets, changed hands at $120,000. The sellers make a building loan to Waldo E. Fuller, the purchaser.

ACROSS THE HARLEM.

The most important sale in this district was that of nearly 15 acres on Jerome avenue, belonging to the Punnett estate, at $88,914, to Henry R. Phillips, of Plainfield, N. J. These lots were to have been offered at auction, but that active broker, Miss A. K. Murphy, stepped in and sold the lots to Mr. Phillips at private sale.

Among other transfers was the Poe cottage, for which W. Fear- ing Gill paid $3,500.

MORTGAGES.

The mortgages show an increase in both number and amount compared with the filings of last year and the year before ; 1889 is ahead of 1888 by 833 in number of mortgages and $22,416,378 in money involved. The increase over 1887 is 375 and $9,242,150 respectively. This year 4,610 mortgages were recorded bearing interest at 5 per cent. or less on $65,929,550 embraced therein. Last year the figures were 3,912 and $48,416,312, and the year before 4,527 and $56,180,320 respectively. In round figures these loans at 5 per cent. or less represent 66 per cent. of this year's total against 62 in each of the two preceding years. The loans by banks, trust and insurance companies are 1,078 in number and $25,636,968 in amount compared with 1,081 and $23,746,685, the figures for last year, and 1,108 and $22,637,169, the filings of the year before. It will be seen that the figures for June are about the same as those for June last year, and much smaller than the figures for June, 1887.

Money is very plentiful, and applications for loans on desirable improved properties are eagerly sought after. The rate of interest ranges from 4 per cent. to the legal limit, and although the loans at the lowest rates generally show conservatism there are many exceptions which lead to the impression that those having charge of the funds of banks, trust and insurance companies, as well as others in care of trust funds and the money of clients, are either careless or criminal in the discharge of their duties. There are facts which show plainly that certain speculators are taking advantage of the cheapness of money and relying on the ignorance, or perhaps something worse, on the part of those having charge of the loaning of money, make it a practice of buying properties at the lowest market rates, taking title thereto in the name of a "dummy" at a nominal consideration if the seller will agree to it, and then turning over the property to a second "dummy" at a figure largely in excess of the sum actually paid therefor, and borrowing as much or even more than was really paid for the property, always quoting the bogus figure as the one that was paid for the property. In view of these facts, it certainly seems in order to say that great care should be exercised by those making loans, and one of the best ways to do this is to keep a record of all sales and mortgages so that proper comparisons can be made before a decision is arrived at. Then, again, it would often prove profitable to look up the applicant, and if found to be a "dummy" extra diligence should be exercised before the loan is closed.

LARGE LOANS AND LOW INTEREST.

The premises No. 116 Nassau street were sold at auction in May for $58,000, title passed last month, and a second deed was recorded simultaneously in which $75,000 was the expressed consideration, the grantee in the second deed being Samuel Trimble, who later on placed a mortgage thereon for $45,000 at 5 per cent. interest. This loan is equal to over 77 per cent. of the price paid at auction for the property. Another piece in which Mr. Trimble figures is Nos. 39 and 41 Ann street, which were purchased by James Adair, turned over to Mr. Trimble at $62,000, and mortgaged by him for $40,000 at 5 per cent.

The Central Trust Company advanced $100,000 at 4 per cent. interest on the stores Nos. 495 Broadway and 66 Mercer street. This parcel recently changed hands at $130,000, so that the loan represents over 75 per cent. of the value.

Frederick Loeser, of Brooklyn, borrowed $125,000 at 4 per cent. from the Title Guarantee and Trust Company on the stores Nos. 102 and 104 Prince street and Nos. 114 to 120 Greene street.

E. H. M. Just placed a mortgage for \$175,000 on the block front of flats on the easterly side of 8th avenue, between and on 134th and 135th streets. The rate is $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., and the Bowery Savings Bank the mortgagee.

The St. Denis Hotel Company borrowed $140,000 from the German Savings Bank on the hotel, on the southwest corner of Broadway and 11th street.

The Duchess of Marlborough and other persons, as executors of L. C. Hamersley, loaned $32,000 at 5 per cent. on West 125th street houses.

Greenwood Cemetery, a corporation, took a mortgage for \$30,000 at 5 per cent. on the tenements Nos. 311 and 315 Rivington street, which changed hands a few weeks ago at \$36,000. This loan, therefore, represents $83\frac{1}{3}$ per cent. of the selling price. Subsequently, the houses were resold at \$42,000.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company loaned Builder John T. Farley $310,000 at 5 per cent. Of this amount $210,000 was advanced on six new and handsome houses on West 72d street, and $100,000 on the Adrian flat, corner 72d street and 9th avenue.

Further up town a building loan of $150,000 was secured by Builder George Beaudet from Eliz. W. Aldrich, to improve the block front on St. Nicholas avenue, between 118th and 119th streets. The same Aldrich family own Aldrich Court on lower Broadway.

New Buildings.

The filings for the first half of this year are largely in excess of last year's figures, the number of buildings projected being 2,170, against 1,647, and the cost $41,084,072, compared with $25,524,678. This year's record is still behind that of 1887, but it is mainly due to the heavy filings in March and April, 1887, when, as we have more than once explained, scores of plans were filed to anticipate changes in the Building and Tenement House laws, and subsequently abandoned. The filings in those months exceeded the filings during the same months this year by 700 in buildings and $8,868,000 in amount, while for the first half year—1887 is only 763 ahead of 1889 in buildings, and $6,231,068 in cost, so that those months being excepted the record for this year is well up as far as the number of buildings go and ahead in the way of cost. The figures are given in the following tables for each month as well as for the half year. In the tables the city is divided into seven sections, and all show an increase in the number of buildings projected over last year except those between 14th and 59th streets, and between 110th and 125th streets, 5th and 8th avenues. The largest increase is shown in the district between 59th and 125th streets, west of 8th avenue, where 520 buildings to cost $12,130,050 were projected, against 215 and $4,447,485 the figures for last year. The average cost in said district being $23,327 this year, against $20,685 last year, and $19,730 the year before.

June shows up well compared with last year and about equals the figures for June, 1887. Here are the tables:

Of the 174 tenements projected 134 will be built by builders, architects, or dealers in building material. In that part of the city north of 59th street on the west side 35 of the 77 buildings planned will be erected by persons engaged in the same lines. Not a single builder appears as the owner of any of the 18 private dwellings to be put up on the east side, the builders who are engaged in that district applying themselves to building flats and tenements; 31 of the 39 dwellings to go up in the 23d and 24th Wards will be frame buildings and only 8 of brick. The average cost of the 39 buildings is $3,421. Over 21 per cent. of the 2,170 buildings planned will be put up beyond the Harlem, at about 7 per cent. of the total cost.

The costliest buildings planned in June:

The Rhinelander estate are among those who will build on the east side, and W. E. D. Stokes, who owns so many west side lots filed plans for ten private dwellings which he will build on West End avenue, 87th and 88th streets, at a cost of $200,000.

Men and Things.

Charles Schooley, former Inspector of Buildings in the Thirty-seventh District, has been dismissed from the Building Department by the Fire Commissioners. He was appointed as inspector in May, 1888, at an annual salary of $1,100. In November, 1888, he attempted to bribe Inspector Naughton, of the Health Department, to permit some work to be done on a building on the west side of Tinton avenue, 184 feet 9 inches north of 161st street, which was in violation of the law. On May 8, 1889, he threatened Naughton with dismissal if he persisted in reporting the bad work, and he further reported to the Building Department that the work had been done in accordance with the law. On these charges he was tried before Commissioners Robbins & Eickhoff, found guilty, and his dismissal ordered to take effect on June 30. The salaries of these inspectors range from $1,100 to $1,500 per annum, remuneration that is hardly sufficient when one considers the number of chances by which a dishonest officer can enrich himself at the expense of the comfort, health and even lives of the community.

John E. Fitzgerald, Building Department Inspector of the Tenth District, died last week. For the present, Cornelius Horgan will take his place.

If Nashville was to be congratulated with having $1,000,000 worth of new buildings in the course of construction, Dallas, Texas, must have a veritable building boom, for with a population under 15,000 against Nashville's 50,000, she is spending over $2,200,000 in new houses. The Dallas News estimates that the assessable values in the city have increased from $13,000,000 last year to $18,347,290 this year. The transfers of real estate for one day footed up 254,000, and for the first fifteen days in June $1,020,808.

The six-story warehouse building which is being erected for an estate by the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company at Nos. 50 and 52 Lafayette place is up to the first tier of beams. It is to have a front of brick, iron and terra cotta, and will be 50x78 in size. There will be a cellar and sub-cellar for machinery and boilers, and two elevators, one passenger and one freight, will be provided. The architects, D. & J. Jardine, estimate the cost at $100,000.

It is to be noticed with satisfaction that the work of replacing the present shabby steps at the entrance to the City Hall is being pushed rapidly. The improvement should not be stopped at this point. The whole building is grimy, and would be greatly improved in appearance if its present weather-beaten aspect was removed.

Plans will shortly be filed for the new church, chapel, school and clergy house which Trinity Church corporation intends to build on 91st and 92d streets, between 9th and 10th avenues. The architecture is to be in the Romanesque, and the fronts will be entirely of stone, Worcester granite and Long Meadow stone being used. The principal entrance will be on 92d street, and the main floor, from which there will be eight exits, will be of fireproof construction. Two prominent features of the design are a side tower 180 feet high and a central tower 120 feet high, the latter being 42 feet square all the way up. The church and chapel will accommodate twelve hundred worshippers, exclusive of the gallery. The clergy house will be three stories high, and the parish school will have a hall on the third floor. The extreme frontage occupied by the buildings on the 91st street side will be 225 feet and on the 92d street side about 130 feet. The vacant ground will be laid out in a prettily-trimmed lawn. The corporation owns twenty lots on the site, having acquired two additional lots since their first purchase. The plans are being completed by W. A. Potter, and the work of construction will be commenced toward the end of the month. Norcross Bros. have received the entire contract. The cost of the buildings has not been definitely estimated. Steam heat, electric light and other modern improvements will of course be provided.

When the Park Department laid out 169th street, between Boston and Franklin avenues, they took off a portion of the southeast corner of 169th street and Franklin avenue, leaving it circular, in arc fashion, instead of square, as at the other corners. When the commissioners came to consider the opening of the street they did so with the plan of the department before them. What the surrounding property-owners now want to know is, where is the common sense of creating the arc of a circle on one corner without making a complete circle by taking in the four corners in like manner. The commissioners in the matter, Messrs. John H. Kitchen, Francis V. S. Oliver and Nevin W. Butler, are now considering the subject of the awards to be granted for the property to be taken for the street. Why do they not apply to the proper authorities to have the map changed, so that the circle can be completed?

The New Haven Road wants to close up the streets along the water front on the Harlem River, between Alexander avenue and Gouverneur place, taking in Alexander and Willis avenues and Brown, Lewis and Gouverneur places. The discussion on a motion to discontinue the proceedings pending to open these streets at the point where they run into the Harlem River will be discussed at the next meeting of the Board of Street Opening and Improvement.

Plans have been filed at the Building Department for a ten-story brick and stone office building for the Central Railroad of New Jersey, to be built on the north side of Liberty street, covering the whole front from Washington to West street. It will have a frontage of 186.10 and a depth of 103.11, and will cost $700,000. Peabody & Stearns are the architects.

In the new Directory of New York City there will be about 360,000 names, an increase since last year of 14,000. According to the usual method of computation these figures indicate that the population of the city is about 1,700,000, and the increase during the year between 60,000 and 70,000.

The stairs at the elevated road station at 72d street and 9th avenue have at last been altered so that they turn into the avenue instead of into the street.

The Board of Aldermen have rescinded the resolution authorizing the paving of Wall street from Nassau street to Pearl street with granite block, and have authorized instead that asphalt be used.

There are 180 streets and avenues in the city wherein the Board of Aldermen have ordered gas mains and lamps to be laid, but in which as yet little or nothing has been done.

It transpires that the first proceedings in the matter of Courtlandt avenue, between 156th and 161st streets, were commenced May 12th, 1884; that new proceedings were begun July 28th, 1886, and the commissioners' report confirmed July 23d, 1888. So that it took over four years to get five blocks on that avenue declared legally open, not to speak of improving the avenue so that it may be fit for public use.

Col. Chalpin, the topographical engineer of the Park Department, does not agree with Lawyer Whalen that a number of surveyors might be appointed in order to expedite the supplying of damage and benefit maps, etc., to commissioners on opening streets. He says he can do all the work himself, and is fully up to the requirements at present, as a reference to his memoranda will show. If this is so the commissioners are really more delinquent in their duties than they were charged with being in our last week's article dealing with the delay in opening streets.

From an estimate supplied to THE RECORD AND GUIDE it appears that 388 miles of streets have been laid out in the 23d and 24th Wards. Of these 183 have been declared open, though they are not all yet improved so as to be of public use. Some thirty streets have been opened in these wards during the past two years, so says Carroll Berry. This is more, he states, than have been opened in the lower part of the city. Well, the fact is that south of the Harlem very few streets now require to be opened.

The Economics of Speculative Building.

WHO PAYS THE PIPER?

That the average speculative builder does not build as cheaply as though he were a capitalist is a truism that none will deny. The latter is able to pay his own cash for land and building material, whereas the former is compelled to rely on the payments, by instalments, of the man who makes him a building loan, and he is unable to go into the market to purchase under the most favorable conditions. He is not likely to make as good a bargain as the man who offers spot cash.

A high cost of building therefore is inseparable from the speculative builder. Firstly, he not only pays a substantial bonus to the capitalist who makes him the building loan, which he must have to operate at all, but he has to pay a little more for the material which is supplied to him by contractors. This, of course, means increased cost of building. Let us apply ourselves to the problem as to what extent it so increases the cost and upon whom the burden of such increase eventually falls.

We will take a recent case as an illustration. A few weeks ago the Aldrich estate purchased, in exchange, some fifty-six lots, comprising, with the exception of the 10th avenue front, the entire block bounded by 63d and 64th streets, 10th and 11th avenues. For this they paid $300,000. They resold fifty-one of these lots to Mary E., wife of Samuel H. Bailey, for $408,000, and the other five to Henry B. Tillotson for $40,000. Thus they sold the property at an advance of $148,000 on the price at which they took it in exchange, and made a builder's loan to each of the two parties to whom they transferred the property. On these the latter will build fifty-six tenements, one on each lot. There will be twenty-four on each street and eight on 11th avenue. They will contain accommodation for 1,096 families, there being four families on each floor, excepting in those buildings having stores, each suite having three rooms, exclusive of the two avenue corners, which will have four rooms each. The architect of the fifty-one houses, F. T. Camp, estimates that they will cost on an average about $17,000 to $18,000 each, as they are to be 25x82 in size. This gives an estimated total cost, at the rate of $17,000 each, of $952,000 for the buildings, which, with $448,000 as the cost of the land, makes a total of $1,400,000.

Of course, more than one builder who reads this will say that the houses can be built for less than an average of $17,000 each. But without entering into a discussion of this point, there is one thing that is quite clear, that the sum of $148,000 is clear profit to the Aldrich estate, and the question we wish to arrive at is, who pays for this profit? Some will say the builder, others the man whom the builder sells out to. Both will be right; but, going further still, it will be found that the one who ultimately pays the piper is the tenant.

An estimate of the maximum rental of these fifty-six buildings shows that it will be about $157,824 per annum. This rental allows for $9 and upwards for the rear suites and $12 and upwards for the front ones, a little more being allowed for the two corners, which will have four rooms per suite. There will be twenty-two stores, eight of which will be on the two streets and fourteen on the avenue. This will give a gross possible rental of $157,824 on a cost estimated at $1,400,000. The following figures will show how this would probably pay the builder:

ESTIMATED ANNUAL EXPENDITURE.

Taxes (on assessed valuation of about $1,000,000 @ $2).....	$20,000
Wear and tear and repairs.....	10,000
Allowance for vacancies, say 10 %.....	15,782
Five janitors, light and sundries.....	8,500
Deduct five suites for janitors at $108 each per annum.....	540
Salaries agent and assistant.....	2,500
Total.....	$57,322

These are reasonable if not liberal allowances, and they leave a surplus of $100,502, which is equal to over 7 per cent. on the sum of $1,400,000 invested. The Aldrich estate, had they undertaken to build themselves, would have saved $148,000, thus bringing the cost to them down to $1,252,000, which, on the basis of $100,502 net rental, would yield an interest of over 8 per cent. on the cost.

Now it is quite possible that the Aldrich estate would have received just as high rentals as the builders, but the probabilities are that they would have looked at it in a different light. They would have asked themselves in the first instance: "How much rent must we get out of these houses to make the money they have cost us, yield a fair percentage, say 6 or 7 per cent.;" and in the second instance: "will it not be advisable for us to charge the lowest rents possible, so that we may keep our tenements tolerably well filled?"

The wisdom of such reasoning is strikingly apparent. In the first place, it would insure less vacancies; in the second place, it would save repairs, owing to the less frequency of removals, which always necessitate cleaning and repairs to satisfy the newcomers. This course of reasoning, if carried out in practice, would cause them to fix their rentals on a basis that would net them 7 per cent. on their investment and would at the same time give them a rental of at least $5,000 more per annum, owing to the economy on repairs and the smaller number of vacancies already referred to, thus giving them a net rental of about $106,000 per annum.

Now observe the point. If they were satisfied with 7 per cent. on their investment of $1,252,000 they would only require to obtain a net rental of $87,640 instead of $106,000. Thus, the fact of the speculative builder doing for the Aldrich estate what the latter might have done for themselves results in an annual rental of $18,360 more being saddled on the tenants, an average of $16.75 on each of the 1,096 families.

Of course, some one will be ready at once to say that the investment of capital and the risk which it involves demands that profits shall be large. That is all very true, and we are not disputing the statement. But the point to be kept in view is—does not a builder's loan mean increased rental to the tenants. Or, to put it another way, would not the Aldrich estate have been able to rent their tenements so much cheaper if they had built on their own account?

Now the moral of all this to capitalists who rarely dabble in property is—why don't you come into the real estate market and invest your capital profitably, instead of allowing it to remain idle in the banks. Why are you satisfied with 1 and 2 per cent. interest, when a tolerably safe return of 7 per cent. or more awaits you. Of course, you will have to exercise good judgment and discretion as to where you build or improve, so that you may be sure beforehand that your property is going to rent well. But there are chances for hundreds of millions of idle dollars to come into the market in down-town and centrally-located up-town property, the possessors of which are at their wit's end to find out where they can invest these vast sums profitably.

School Sites.

The Commissioners in the matters relative to acquiring title to lands on Washington, Albany and Carlisle streets in the 1st Ward, and on the northwest corner of Broome and Ridge streets in the 13th Ward, have completed their estimates and filed a transcript thereof at the office of the Board of Education. The Commissioners will, on August 5th, at 2 o'clock, give a hearing at 45 William street, room 17, to parties who send objections in writing before July 27th. The reports will be presented to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

New Horse Car Lines.

Three new cross-town surface railroads, connecting ferries on the east and west sides of the city, will be built as soon as the companies can satisfy the referees appointed by the courts that they have the requisite number of consents from property-owners along the different routes.

One of the roads will be known as the Fulton, Wall & Cortlandt Street Ferries Railroad. It will start from Fulton Ferry and the East River, through Fulton to South street, along South street to Maiden lane and Cortlandt street to the ferry; returning it will run down West to Liberty street to Maiden lane to South street, thence to Fulton Ferry. Another branch of this same line will start at Wall Street Ferry, through Wall to William street to Pine street to Broadway to the Cortlandt Street Ferry; returning it will run down West to Liberty street to Broadway to Wall street to the ferry. This company has a capital of $700,000. Its officers are D. Kearney, president; D. J. Apgar, secretary. Thos. Boese, clerk of the Superior Court, has been appointed referee to determine whether this company has received the requisite number of consents. Mr. Boese has not, as yet, set a date for the hearing, but it will probably be in a couple of months' time.

A second company has been formed with a capital of $1,200,000, under the name of the Thirty-fourth Street Ferry and Eleventh Avenue Railroad. It will start at 34th Street Ferry, East River, and run through 34th street to 1st avenue, through 32d and 33d streets to 11th avenue, up 11th avenue to 66th street to the park, returning through 66th street to 11th avenue, through 32d and 33d streets to 1st avenue to 34th street and the ferry. This road is being built with an eye to the probable running of a horse car line through the transverse road in Central Park. The officers of the company are: President, D. D. Conover; secretary, D. J. Apgar.

Still another road with a capital of $100,000 has been formed, to be known as the Thirty-fourth Street Railroad. The route will be through 34th street, from the East River to 10th avenue, up 10th avenue to 42d street and the ferry, returning over the same route. The officers are President Wm. H. Page, Jr., and D. J. Apgar, secretary.

The consolidation, under an act passed by the Legislature at its last session, of the last two roads mentioned, is now under consideration. On the motion of Edmund Coffin, Jr., Abram R. Kling has been appointed referee to ascertain whether these companies have received a sufficient number of consents. Mr. Coffin owns a number of lots on 34th street, between 10th and 11th avenues, and he is anxious to have a horse car line pass through 34th street, from river to river. He says that he has given his consent to four different companies to run cars in front of his property, but he is now opposing the roads because they all take winding routes. He has been assured, if he can defeat the building of the various railroads now holding his consent, that there will be a line built to run through 34th street, from river to river. The name or names of the gentlemen who gave this assurance Mr. Coffin he refused to divulge.

A Problem in Lots.*

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The value of a lot, 25x100, being $10,000, and one foot front being worth three of rear, the lot a, b, c, d is worth $4,000, and a, b, d is worth $3,000, and a, c, d $1,000; hence the present value of lot A is $11,000 and that of B $9,000, inasmuch as the lots b, d, h, m and a, f, g, c, being each 20x100, are worth $8,000 each; hence B must pay to A $1,000.

Another Solution.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I would solve your lot problem in two ways, viz.: On the basis that a front foot is worth $400 and rear land one-third as much; hence the 10x100 feet are worth $4,000.

A is entitled to two-thirds of its value or $2,666.67, making his lot worth.. $10,666 67
B is entitled to one-third of its value or $1,333.33, making his lot worth.. 9,333 33
$20,000 00

Again:
A owns one-half of 10 feet front x 50, worth $2,000 or..... $1,000 00
B owns the same in the rear, worth one-third or..... 933 33
Difference..... $666 67
For B to pay A to equalize lots—or present value of A lot is.. $10,666 67
Or present value of B lot is..... 9,333 33
$20,000 00
BROKER.

* The problem was stated in THE RECORD AND GUIDE last week.

Brooklyn Notes.

The much-talked-of electric railroad from Court street along Montague street to the Wall Street Ferry is said to be now assured. The cars are to be propelled by electricity.

Building is booming in the City of Churches. In the first six months of the current year the plans filed call for an expenditure of $15,629,736, nearly $3,000,000 more than during the same time a year ago. How much of this is due to the imbecility New York has displayed in dealing with the rapid transit problem?

Work was commenced this week on the new Roman Catholic Church to be built at Hooper street and Marcy avenue.

The Building Committee have decided to give the commission for designing the new club house for the Riding and Driving Club to McKim, Mead & White, of New York City.

Willing to See One Hundred Streets Opened.

At yesterday's meeting of the Board of Street Opening and Improvement Mayor Grant stated that he was willing at one sitting to take prompt measures toward opening one hundred streets in the 23d and 24th Wards as soon as the Park Department would furnish maps showing the topographical reasons for streets being laid out as they are. The Mayor said he was not opposed to progress in these wards and would favor any action to open the streets. The president of the Park Department promised to present the necessary maps at the next meeting of the board, which takes place on the 19th inst. In a talk with a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, the Mayor expressed himself as being strongly in favor of opening the streets in the two wards named. A property-owner in the 23d Ward, who was present, said that the meeting was a "boom" in favor of the two wards, and said that last week's article in THE RECORD AND GUIDE on the subject had evidently stirred up the authorities to action, Personal.

John R. Foley, Jr., was one of the principals in an important contract consummated on Wednesday. It was not a contract for real estate, as most of those Mr. Foley closes on, but a marriage contract. The fact is, Mr. Foley was married at St. Francis Xavier's Church to Miss Nellie Cranitch, daughter of the well-known Fifth Avenue tailor. The happy couple are celebrating their honeymoon at Long Branch.

Hubert Westell, a member of the firm of Mellen, Westell & Kirby, architects, of No. 55 Broadway, was reported by his friend, Herbert Willis, as having been drowned yesterday morning below Pier 1000 while boating. Messrs. Westell and Willis were temporarily sojourning at Yonkers.

Edward Oppenheimer, the well-known building loan operator, is at Alzey, Hessen, Germany, where he reads THE RECORD AND GUIDE just as regularly as he did in New York. He will return in the fall.

John H. Mahony is summering at Newport.

Fleming Smith, the handsome and genial owner of Riverside Drive property, is spending a few months at Stockbridge, Mass.

Ryam K. Stevens is in Europe, his headquarters being in the British capital.

Van Wyck Brinckerhoff will remain at Irvington-on-Hudson till late in the fall.

Martin Schrenkeisen is spending a few months at Seabright, N. J.

Dr. J. V. S. Woolley is spending the summer at Bayside, L. I.

Washington Wilson, of E. & W. collar renown, will read his RECORD AND GUIDE at Elberon, N. J., during the dog days.

Siegmund T. Meyer is, of course, making his summer home at Long Branch as usual, where he has a pretty villa.

Arnold Lustig, the real estate speculator, is on a European tour, making his headquarters at the Hotel Metropole, in the Austrian capital, till the end of August.

Marx Ottinger, the well-known real estate operator, is spending the summer at Long Branch.

Gustav Staiger, the east side builder, is at Karlsruhe, Germany.

Orson D. Munn, the well-known publisher, has ordered his RECORD AND GUIDE to be sent to his home in Orange till the fall.

Morris Steinhardt is mildly besieged with applications for building loans at West End, N. J.

John M. Pinkney, the wealthy real estate owner, is at New London, Conn.

Julius Beer, the tobacco manufacturer, has ordered his RECORD AND GUIDE sent to him to West End, N. J., during the summer.

Edgar B. Van Winkle does not mean to be caught napping while away from the city during the warm days. He will post himself weekly on real estate topics by reading this paper at Litchfield, Conn. during his stay there.

Thos. B. Gilford, the lawyer, who has built up a block or so on Lexington avenue, near the Grand Central Depot, is at Toms River, N. J., where he is battling with mosquitoes and catching fish.

W. K. Aston has gone to Shelburne, N. H., for the summer months.

Delaying Public Improvements.

Last week we spoke of the delay which has occurred in opening streets in the 23d and 24th Wards, and the instance was given where commissioners were appointed in the matter of opening Tenamont avenue which it will have taken seven years to open for public use from the date when the commissioners were appointed. It was seen as that while most of the commissions on opening streets are to blame for not hurrying on the business they have in hand, the red-tapeism of the system is almost equally responsible for the delay. A remedy was also pointed out, at the suggestion of a lawyer who has had considerable experience on commissions, whereby streets could be opened at once, and the red-tapeism, if it be allowed to exist at all, undertaken thereafter, instead of beforehand.

Clerk Berry, of the Board of Street Opening and Improvement was called on. He said: "I don't think you could take the property and open the streets without first awarding damages. It would be unconstitutional." Col. Chalpin, the topographical engineer, concurred in this view, and said that an injunction could be taken out by property-owners to stop work on any streets opened before the awards were made, despite the fact that the city is amply responsible for awards damages that might be awarded for property taken for street opening purposes.

The Mayor has taken a somewhat resolute stand against opening streets of one mile or more in the 23d and 24th Wards under the present law. His position is that the law saddles half the cost on the city in those wards, while in the lower wards it puts the entire cost on the property-owners. The object of the law originally was to encourage the property-owners to apply to have their streets opened, but that is said not to hold good now, as the city has sufficiently developed and the property sufficiently increased in value to enable the owners to afford to pay the entire cost, as in the other wards.

Adverting to the delays by commissioners and by the inaction of the city authorities generally, in advancing public improvements, two or three prominent instances are now before the public mind. One is the matter of the exterior street which is to be built on the East River from 64th to 86th street. The law creating this street was passed about five years ago, and the improvement is scarcely further advanced now than it was a few months after the passage of the bill. Plans were first drawn for a street 150 feet wide. It was found that this would raise a wall that cost the city $400,000 to build. For this and other reasons application was made to the Legislature to have the street reduced to 125 feet in width. Then the question came up as to what part of the street should be under the jurisdiction of the Public Works Department and what part under the Dock Department, and that was settled. Now the Sinking Fund Commissioners have a set of plans in their hands which they do not seem to be in any particular hurry to consider. Engineer Webster was asked how long it would take to build the exterior street. He hasn't the faintest idea, as the final plans had not been adopted, nor had he made any calculation to ascertain. The matter rested principally with the Dock Department. It might take five, ten or fifteen years before the improvement is finished.

Another matter in which there is some delay, though it is not so glaring as yet, is the Mulberry Street Park case. The commissioners are Messrs. P. H. Kerwin, J. J. Scannell, and Gilbert M. Speir, the latter having been appointed in place of E. L. Parris, resigned. The topographical engineer supplied them with a rule map on May 28, 1888, and they have not yet asked for a damage map, although over a year has elapsed. When is Mulberry Street Park going to become an accomplished fact? The Tenement House Commission should keep an eye on this improvement.

Again, the transverse road through the Central Park has not been taken in hand as vigorously as it might have been. The road ought to have been in operation several months ago, but it took the Park Department a year to find out that it would cost them twice as much money as they asked to be appropriated for it. The Sinking Fund Commissioners now have the matter in hand, and there is no knowing when they will authorize the increased expenditure, if they ever do so at all. It has been reported that the Fifth Avenue Stage Company was going to try to get a franchise to run through the park. If so, it will be a quick and not altogether unsatisfactory solution of the difficulty. Up till yesterday, however, no such application had been received by the Park Department, so President Hutchins told the writer.

These instances might be multiplied. Is it not time that the city officials bestirred themselves a little more where public improvements are concerned? It has been said that the American public is the most long-suffering of any civilized community. It certainly looks like it.

Sanitary and Plumbing News.

There is a growing feeling among architects that there is no warrant in law for the Health Department to require a plumbing plan for old buildings which may be converted into tenement buildings, and that the only requirement necessary in such cases is a compliance with the tenement house test. The law under which plumbing is regulated makes no mention whatever of reconstructed buildings, but evidently applies only to "all buildings both public and private hereafter erected." If a building is reconstructed for any other purpose no plan is called for; and the question arises, wherein lies the power of the Board of Health to require the filing of plans when an old dwelling is converted to a tenement or lodging house. If the plumbing appliances called for under the tenement house law are put in it does seem as though the law is fulfilled without the filing of plans.

It might not be amiss just here to remind our correspondents who complain of the strict interpretation placed on the Plumbing and Tenement House Statutes by the officials of the Health Department that these laws have not been framed for the purpose of being evaded or allowed to remain a dead letter. While, however, their enforcement becomes a matter of necessity, it might help the good work contemplated by the framers, and at least tend to disarm adverse criticism, if there was more of a spirit of co-operation between architects, building contractors and owners on one side and the Board of Health on the other. The mantle of public office, according to general report, tends to invest the ordinary inspectors with an exaggerated feeling of self importance, and this furnishes the pretext for including all engaged in connection with Building Inspection among the defendants at the bar of public opinion.

"How does the pipe testing business go on," was recently asked of a well-known up-town firm of master plumbers. "Oh, it is pretty tough, let me tell you," was the reply. "When you are required to put on a pressure of ten pounds to the square inch and have at the least six upright lines of pipe in the commonest tenement building to prove before the Board of Health Inspector comes round, let me tell you that the biggest part of the plumber's profit is gone. It takes a couple of men maybe a week to test these rising lines before they are perfect, besides other delays that cannot well be avoided." "What are these other causes of delay?" "Well, you see, the cost of providing plugs for the pipe openings is considerable

When we use the air test it is not so bad, but as many of the trade prefer the water test the cost is greater, because we must then have a greater supply." "What sort of plug do you find best suited for the water test?" "The best plug in the market is one which has been invented by an east side plumber. It has two outside arms that grip the hub of the pipe and an inside plug with a rubber gasket which is made tight by means of a screw bolt passing through the outside frame. It will stand all the pressure that a column of water from the roof to the cellar can give. Yes, the day of big profits in the plumbing business is gone, and the poorest new tenement in New York City is better plumbed to-day than some of the old time mansions on 5th avenue."

¶ Sand-holes in the iron pipe are the bane of the plumbers, and complaints are very frequent in the trade that the manufacturer who supplies the pipe will not bear any part of the expense of taking out a defective length when in position and when it is found incapable of standing the test required. The utmost they will do is to exchange the defective piece for a sound one, but the expense attending the change falls on the plumber. They are therefore turning their attention to pipes treated by the Gesner process, by which it is claimed the iron is rendered absolutely rustless and non-porous, and so well fitted for soil pipe testing that the light pipe known as "standard" can bear as great a pressure as the best quality of the "extra heavy" pipe now called for. A committee of the New York Master Plumbers' Association has been appointed to inquire into its merits, and if found desirable to bring the subject under the attention of the Board of Health, with the view of its adoption instead of the "extra heavy" article now in use. Some question has been raised as to the facility for "cutting" it—its closeness rendering it difficult, it is alleged—but this is to be a part of the investigation, as also the relative cost of the article.

The "lowest bid" feature of competing for plumbing contracts received somewhat of a setback recently. A prominent and widely-respected banker in this city, desirous of adding a new wing to his office building, instructed his architect to invite bids from prominent master plumbers on the usual terms. Five or six prepared estimates—the difference of an $11,000 contract between the majority of them being comparatively trifling. Along came another plumber, however—one of the "progressive" order—and put in a bid for about $8,500, more than 25 per cent. less than the others, but did not get the contract because the architect had sufficient judgment to know that the work could not be properly done for that money, and though he was the "lowest bidder" his offer was rejected. He was not to be "sat upon," however, even by a banker known from Nassau street to the Golden Gate, so he sued for $100 for the time and trouble expended in preparing his estimate, but, as might be expected, got left. Meanwhile it may not be out of place to say that the "lowest bid" in a plumbing contract, unless one knows the contracting plumber, is a safe thing in nine out of ten cases to let alone. Even under the strict inspection of the Board of Health, the plumber who takes a cheap contract will do his best not to lose on the work, and will be likely to "skin" when he can with safety.

One of the very vexatious restrictions with which property is rightly or wrongly burdened is that of requiring that lodging houses shall have the same space at the rear not built upon as tenement houses, viz.: 10 feet. A very prominent owner of property on the west side of town speaking recently on this subject said: "While it is very proper that the Board of Health should have full control and supervision of houses occupied as lodging houses, I submit that it is a very foolish requirement that a building so occupied must have this 10-foot space at rear. Let us compare the two classes of houses—the tenement and the lodging house—and see if this argument should apply equally. The tenement is the family home, and the more breathing space which can be legitimately secured around it the better. The lodging house is for the most part only occupied by night, and if there is proper window or other ventilation and the usual safeguards as regards the number of lodgers, the cubic air space for each and the proper sanitary appliances secured, that is all that should be expected. There are many first-class buildings which have not the open space at rear which are every day refused lodging house permits, while old dilapidated structures having that space, but otherwise ill-suited for comfort, can readily procure the license. This is carrying out the letter but not the spirit of the Tenement House Law."

Referring to the quantity of rotten timber and decaying wood on the bulkhead front between 26th and 27th streets, directly in front of and almost under the windows of the hospital, the report is very pronounced. It recommends that all this should be removed at once and the water front kept free and clear of all decaying and decomposing material of whatever nature. Sewage deposits from a very considerable area coming from 26th and 27th streets as far west as 2d avenue, are all discharged at this bulkhead into the slip in front of the hospital.

The Department of Public Works has been also notified that the open drain extending a considerable distance from the main shore line at 56th street and North River is a nuisance and that a covered sewer to conduct the sewage to the water is necessary. It is a good sign of progress in the right direction.

The course adopted by the Board of Health in stirring up the Departments of Docks and of Charities and Correction to a realization of the condition of various city interests along the river fronts confided to their care is one which should have had earlier attention. It is well known to residents along the East and the North Rivers that there was something needed to make residence in these sections of the city commonly endurable, and the action of the Health Department is timely. Some idea of its needs may be inferred from the necessity of prompt action by the following extract from the report presented to, and adopted by, the Board of Health:

Bellevue Hospital being located near the foot of this street, and from which much sewage is received into and discharged by this sewer, the importance of an immediate attention and perfection of this sewer is obvious. The offensiveness of its discharges are but the least of the dangers that may occur at this particular locality. The germs of disease are more likely to lodge and become infectious at this point than at any others on either river front.

Real Estate Department.

The past week has been a very quiet one both on 'Change and in the brokers' offices. This is always so the Fourth of July week, and is often true of other weeks that are broken into by a holiday. Trading is the pronounced feature of the market, and while sales are slow exchanging goes on with increased vigor. To learn how much trading is being done it is only necessary to peruse the columns of conveyances given elsewhere, and the frequent references in the items to "see other streets" tells the story very clearly.

Although the active season is over there is a demand for desirable downtown business properties, but they are difficult to secure except at fancy figures. Another class of property which is much sought after are lots south of 23d street suitable for tenement purposes. Many builders who formerly built on the upper end of the island now confine themselves to this section, and the result is lots have gone up in price. In some of the side streets $16,000 and $17,000 each are paid for such lots, and in a few streets as high as $20,000 has been realized. The quick sales new tenements in this section have met with has been exceedingly encouraging to builders, who are eagerly seeking for more of the same kind.

On another page will be found the tables of conveyances, mortgages and new buildings showing the filings for the past six months compared with the years 1888 and 1887.

The premises Nos. 5 to 11 Broadway and 5 to 11 Greenwich street were sold under foreclosure in March, 1886, for $467,000. There was due at that time on the mortgage foreclosed $441,240. Lucien Birdseye was the purchaser, and title, on account of the foreclosure, was not passed until June 29th, when the plot was transferred to Siegmund T. Meyer at $467,000. Simultaneously with the passing of title appear three mortgages against the plot for a total of $750,000. Of this amount the Washington Life Insurance Company loaned $500,000 at 5 per cent.; Antonio Rasines $50,000 at the same rate, and Jacob P. Marshall, trustee, $200,000, the latter to secure bonds. This property has had its ups and downs, as the following sales show: It first loomed into prominence on November 1, 1882, when it was sold by the Manhattan Railway Company to James Steen for $430,000, the latter giving to the former a mortgage for $400,000, which the company transferred to The Equitable Life Assurance Society. The property then entered upon a career of blissful vicissitudes. Mr. Steen sold it to Dumont W. Clarke for $450,000, subject to a mortgage of $400,000. This showed a $20,000 advance. On September 24, 1883, scarcely a year later, Mr. Clarke had the pleasure of handing over the property to Sidney De Kay for the sum of $600,000. This reflected an advance of $150,000, an increase of 33½ per cent. in less than twelve months. On February 13, 1884, Mr. De Kay had the happiness of transferring the property to Charles H. Bliss for $750,000, taking in exchange the Rutland apartment house on the southwest corner of Broadway and 57th street. This showed another advance of $150,000, or 25 per cent. in about four months and a-half. Mr. Bliss then had the unusual good fortune of handing over the property, on May 31st following, to George F. Stone, a relative of Cyrus W. Field, the consideration in the deed being put down at $1,000,000, this time showing an advance of the handsome little fortune of $250,000, or an increase of 33½ per cent. in about three months and a-half. This showed a total increase of $570,000 in about eighteen months. This is certainly "prodigious," as Scott's Dominie Sampson puts it. But the rise of this property was not a whit more remarkable than its fall. Mr. Stone afterwards conveyed the property to Augustine Stephenson, who transferred it to Morris C. Mengis for $150,000, subject to mortgages of $550,000 and taxes, and to climax all, on March 6, 1886, Lucien Birdseye bought the lots under foreclosure at $467,000, and, as already stated, title did not pass until last Saturday, and then to Siegmund T. Meyer, not Lucien Birdseye.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—After a long and tedious wait dealers and receivers generally seem to feel convinced by the developments and experiences of the past two or three weeks that the season has fully opened. The prospect for consumption, indeed, now that work seems to have reached full swing, is very encouraging, and will in pretty much every instance continue at about pre-ent cost of, but it is said that there are a great many jobs on which work can be curtailed to lower proportions or shut off altogether if prices of brick are allowed to run too high. This week the amount passing into actual consumption has been quite moderate, owing in part to the holiday but mainly to the unpropitious weather, and for the first time in a long while there was an accumulation of stock in first hands unsold. In the matter of weather, however, it was an influence working two ways, as the effect along the line of production was to reduce the amount of work doing, and indeed in some cases it is reported that everything came to a complete standstill. Nor has it been possible to utilize the services of the men in loading cargoes to any great extent, as so many barges were at this end of the route discharging, with shipping facilities at primary points correspondingly curtailed. It does not look, therefore, as though the anticipation of pretty heavy arrivals of stock next week would be realized. Letters at all events are asking full former rates in pretty much all cases, and the position seems to be well sustained throughout. Pales have again found a good general run of demand from pretty much all regular sources, and prices are firm.

LATH.—Consumption is said to have been pretty full and reasonably well diversified during the past two or three weeks, and the necessary distribution of supplies from dealers' hands, it is naturally assumed, kept accumulations comparatively low, and accounts for the absorbing of the heavy line receipts. Demand still continues good, and has not only exhausted all the supply offering on the spot, but has under engagement a considerable portion of the best stock afloat. We have not, however, heard that $2.15 per M was exceeded, and quotations remain as before.

LIME.—Demand still appears to be full enough to take care of the supply about as rapidly as it comes to hand, and while buyers exhibit no great anxiety they could and would find a place for an additional quantity of fair magnitude. It is generally supposed that prices rule steady all around.

LUMBER.—In addition to the usual slight contraction of business always found at the turn of the month, the National holiday has this week been a factor increasing the dull tone somewhat, and especially on the distributive outlet. The conditions, however, are not unexpected, and no extra measure of complaint is to be heard, nor do changes appear to have taken place of any particular advantage to either buyer or seller. At this juncture something of a retrospective view of affairs is not unnatural, and in an epitomized form we find the conclusions to be, as a rule, to the effect that allowing for the consumption of the open winter and the fuller movement that has developed itself during five or six weeks past, the first half of the year has exhausted about an average quantity of stock, with the possible exception of hardwoods, while in a wholesale way, though trade has in a very few cases—the matter of white pine, for instance—been a little disappointing, dealers have on the whole furnished some very good custom. Values in no case have fallen off, and in some instances show a gain.

Eastern Spruce in a general way, it is thought, promises very well. The market probably would not stand any extra heavy run of arrivals, or more properly speaking, should a fleet of vessels happen along the dealers are in a position to take advantage of such an event and work it for all it may be worth, yet we notice a strain of much confidence among all receivers regarding their ability to quickly recover lost ground, and the idea of any serious or permanent reduction in the line of value is promptly scouted. They say the stuff is wanted at this end to the full limit of probable output at manufacturing cost, and are especially emphatic in reiterating promising claims for white and long stuff. Later advices from Bangor report the water mill workmen as refusing to strike, but those at the steam mills still out. It is probable, however, that a settlement is anticipated, as manufacturers were better inclined to accept orders for specials.

Piling does not appear to be meeting with much new demand at the moment and as not uncommon experience in such cases there is a little grumbling over the market. Such feeling, however, does not extend to the larger operators, apparently most of whom repeat the expression of belief that there is no more stock here or likely to come than will be wanted and they are holding at a steady line of valuation.

Hemlock has not attracted the full local attention calculated upon through the influence of the shortage in one particular section of the producing district, yet the market retains a reasonably satisfactory tone. Indeed some agents who have made very good contracts through the interior, and in Philadelphia profess more or less indifference toward this market, and a few say they could not at the moment accept orders if tendered even at the fullest rates asked. Northern stock in the meanwhile secures a due measure of attention and commands satisfactory rates.

White Pine is commented upon in the usual irregular manner, and after hearing a report of a good or quick business in one quarter, the very next operator will most likely indulge in very pronounced complaint over the condition of trade. It looks, however, as though strictly staple stuff, such as first-class box and good shipping assortments, were finding a demand about equal to the immediately available supply, and the rest of the offering rather dragging. Dealers have had a great deal of attention all the season and while agents, through discouragement over failure to place any large quantity are less pressing at the moment, they have left their address with an earnest request to be notified should any new wants arise.

Yellow Pine in most cases is said to be about steady, that form of report appearing to be the favorite with most operators. Occasionally, however, there is a little variation and its tenor is to convey an impression sellers are probably a little more anxious to enter upon fresh negotiations than buyers. Thus far this year there has been quite a large amount of stock placed, buyers have experienced no difficulty in obtaining reasonably prompt attention for average orders, and do not see any necessity for a display of more than average interest except probably on special bills. A charter of more than ordinary interest has been concluded during the week, it being the Morgan Line steamer, Morgan City, to load at Mobile for New York, with about 1,000,000 feet lumber. The terms of the engagement are private.

Carolina Pine continues in good demand, and it is not uncommon to hear reports of production called for not only up to but beyond the immediate capacity of the mills. That does not come altogether through demand from this immediate quarter, as some of the manufacturers have secured a great deal of trade in other localities, but anyone who adheres to a proper standard of grading, drying and dressing is pretty sure to find a desirable slice of our local custom.

Hardwoods can hardly be called more than moderately active in any case, and for a great many kinds of stock the market for the moment is dull. There is also evidence of more or less irregularity in price, of a minor character, yet sufficient to admit of bull or bear talk as interest may happen to suggest. Contradictory statements regarding poplar are still quite common, but weighing up and balancing all reports it looks as though $33 per M. had been the average cost during the past month. For export purposes walnut in various forms continues in fair favor, and there is also now and then quite a little shipment of oak, maple, ash, poplar, and even hickory.

The exports of lumber, exclusive of hardwoods from the port of New York during the month of June were as follows:

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From the Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Notwithstanding the fact that late heavy rains in many parts of the Northwest have started the drives along and made supplies of logs at the mills absolutely certain, the chronic pessimists are working the exceptions to the rule for all they are worth, insisting that there will be a short log and lumber crop. There is no law to prevent rain in regions where it has been lacking, and without another drop to help logs along there will likely be cut this season all the lumber that ought to be produced for the welfare of the market. The high-pressure rate of white pine manufacture cannot always be maintained.

The demand for bulk stocks is less than was anticipated earlier in the year. There is nowhere any extraordinary demand. Such movement as there be is of stocks that must be had for immediate consumption. The great buyers, who in former years secured large blocks of lumber in advance of requirement, are either purchasing in smaller lots this year, or procrastinating their buying altogether. The impression appears to have seized them that prices will certainly not be higher, and that they will probably be lower. They have become dissatisfied with the profits of the past year or two.

The general demand for forest products is this year suffering from the lack of the railroad requirement, which fell off last year from the boom of 1887, and is this season at its lowest point. In accounting for the weak pulse of current trade this fact should not be lost sight of.

It is also well to reiterate the fact that yellow pine is seriously cutting off the demand for white pine, especially in the Western States. This is again and again mentioned, because the average white pine mill operator and dealer has become habituated to discussing the importance of the yellow pine invasion. Without doubt the lack of urgency in the demand for white pine, which is a notable feature of this year's business, has resulted from yellow pine competition. It has not only furnished a portion of the supply for building and manufacturing material, but it has disturbed the conditions of trade. Chiefly it has forced a damaging competition on the Chicago market, the largest focus for white pine stocks, and the greatest distributing market in the country. It would be impossible to thus thrust a pronounced disorganizing cause into so vast an interest without a serious effect on trade and prices in the country at large.

Looking further we shall see that while Yellow Pine has shaken the foundations of the White Pine trade, it has not accomplished that result without damage to its own interests. Southern manufacturers are complaining even more bitterly than their Northern competitors. The Yellow Pine trade is being carried forward with little profit to producers.

The Timberman as follows:

Lumbermen in Eastern Michigan wear more pleasant countenances than for some time past. Whether this is attributable to the flattering reports concerning the stage of water in the logging streams or to other satisfactory and flattering conditions is hard to say. However, they appear to be more generally

Proposals for materials and work required for the laundry and kitchen plant, plumbing and steam heating, etc., in the addition to the Workhouse, Blackwell's Island, to be used as dining-room, kitchen and wash-house, will be received at the office of the Department of Public Charities and Correction, No. 66 3d avenue, until 9.30 o'clock A. M., Friday, July 12.

Proposals will be received by the Executive Committee of the Normal College, at the Hall of the Board of Education, No. 146 Grand street, until 3 o'clock P. M., Wednesday, July 10, for making general repairs, painting, etc., and for sanitary improvements at the Normal College buildings.

hopeful regarding the prospects for logs than they have been for two months past; and, in fact, some of the more conservative assert, more hopeful than the circumstances warrant, for the reason that the Upper waters have flooded the main streams excessively, while they have failed to release the logs from the tributaries, and as a consequence log running on the large streams has been attended with great difficulties, and they further incline to the belief that when the water recedes it will be as sudden as the rise.

The cargo market at Chicago as follows:

There is a lack of excitement at the foot of Franklin street. The receipts have been light. The past week has been very nearly like its predecessor—even the special features, or, rather, in the lack of them. At closing time on Saturday afternoon the cargo docks did not present an altogether clean appearance. Two or three loads were left over. Only sixteen cargoes were offered for sale Monday morning, and the inquiries neither showed the buyers to be anxious nor the commission men weak. Clear strips were wanted from the opening to the closing day of the week, and not more than one or two cargoes were known to have arrived during the seven days.

And at the yards:

Good lumber is increasing in demand every day. Some manufacturers who have been substituting cheaper hardwoods for pine in fine work, are returning to pine. There is a small stock of sash and door lumber on hand now, just when the manufacturers are really in need of it. The prices of good lumber have not advanced, but are very firm as quoted below.

Common lumber is being sacrificed. Common boards, that are easily worth $14 per thousand are being sold at $13.50 in large lots. A lot of 12-inch cull boards, that were badly needed, brought $13. Some sizes of short-length piece stuff are moving into consumption at $11.75. There is not the least possible hope that this stock can be replaced in the different yards at that price. The reason for doing this is a twelve-fourteen-fifteen puzzle to all those who stand on the outside and watch the operation. Sidewalk plank are in good demand at $12 for tops, surfaced one side, and $10.90 for stringers.

STATE.

According to recently-published advices there has been a very heavy deal in standing timber in this State. The report says it involves the purchase of what is known as the Durant tract in the Adirondacks, including nearly all the spruce timber in that region, covering an area of about 350,000 acres. It is estimated that fully 1,500,000,000 feet of spruce and pine will be cut from this region. The purchasers are R. K. Hawley, of Cleveland; Henry Patton, of Albany; Titus B. Meigs and George E. Dodge, of this city, and Thomas H. McGraw, of Poughkeepsie. The price paid was something over $500,000.

SOUTH AMERICA.

The Rio News says:

Pitch Pine.—Receipts nil and the market nominally unchanged 34$000@35$000 per doz. Receipts in May were 289,030 feet against nil in May last year.

White Pine.—Receipts in May were 120,273 feet against 436,074 feet for the same month last year. The market is nominal, without receipts since our last.

Swedish Pine.—Receipts nil since our last and also for May last and in 1888. Red deals are still quoted at 35$000@36$000 white at 34$000@35$000 per doz. and the market firm.

Spruce Pine.—Nothing whatever to report.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LONDON.

American Black Walnut, Whitewood, Oak, etc.—In all of these a satisfactory trade is being done; there is a fair stock of all descriptions and prices generally are well maintained.

Sequoia.—We notice an unusual shipment of this wood has just been landed at the West India Docks, comprising a parcel of finely figured fitches, which appears to have been very carefully selected, and certainly contains some particularly striking specimens in the way of figured wood. From the polished samples which we have seen there is no doubt some very handsome furniture could be made from them.

GLASGOW.

The necessity of importing timber from so distant a country as British Columbia, which we announced in our last week's issue, brings very prominently before us the wisdom of the warnings that have been given to us for years, that we would some day be brought face to face with a threatened exhaustion of our timber supplies. In this matter of timber production we come upon the fact that we are pressing upon the borders of a little world, and knowing that we have no unknown continents to discover, and no new forest regions to destroy, something must be done to maintain the supply of our timber wants. This is the country with the greatest interest in the matter, and why we should have hitherto exhibited such an amount of apathy in everything that concerns forestry is a puzzle to all who think of the matter. This country ought to have manifested the highest example. However, it is not yet too late, and it is satisfactory to know that the public have been brought to see their position by recent events.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot remains in much the former general condition, so far as the product of the Lake companies are concerned. Producers seem to be working in harmony and meeting the demand readily, with the cost kept at about 12c., and it is said they are working quite a fair amount of stock into consumption. On casting brands, however, considerable irregularity has prevailed and business said to be taking place from 11½c. to 10½c., though 11c. average inside figure. Manufactured Copper moves to about an average extent on all ordinary outlets, and without indication of jumping much one way or the other from regular rates. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 21c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 22c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 23c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 24c.; do, under 8 oz., 25c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 13 to 14 oz., 2c. for 15 to 16 oz., and 3c. for 17 to 18 oz. Sheets, not above 30x36 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 21c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 22c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 23c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 24c.; do, under 8 oz., 25c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 13 to 14 oz., 2c. for 15 to 16 oz., and 3c. for 17 to 18 oz. Sheets, not above 48x36, 16 to 24 oz., 20c.; do, 16 to 20 oz., 21c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 22c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 23c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 24c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 25c.; do, 6 to 8 oz., 26c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 20c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 21c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 22c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 23c.; do, 6 to 8 oz., 24c. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 18 oz., 23c.; 4 oz., 25c.; 12 oz., 27c.; and 10 oz., 30c. Bolt copper, 3/8 inch diameter and over, 20c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 20c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1 1/2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 23c. per lb. Iron Scotch Pig meets with about an average demand for small lots against which the offering is fair and prices very well retained. We quote at $19.00@21.00 per ton, according to brand, delivery, etc. American Pig is without change, notwithstanding the cock-and-hull story some of the alleged market reports have been giving out regarding an advance by leading companies. Deliveries and offerings are going right along just as they have for weeks, and while the position is steady enough, there is no inclination to force it in any way. We quote at $16.00@17.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $15.00@16.00 for No. 2 X do.; and $14.50@15.25 for Gray Forge. Old material of late has been selling with rather less freedom, the more prominent buyers evidently having secured a supply. They have, however, left a reduced supply and that affords a supporting basis upon which full former rates are asked. We quote at about $22.00@22.50 for old rails; $20.00@20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $14.00@16.00 for cast scrap, and $17.50@18.25 for car wheels. Steel rails are less active, the heavy orders having about all been booked, and demand now running principally to small lots, as wanted on special call. Prices remain quite steady, and some of the larger mills, with capacity well engaged ahead, are taking rather firmer. We quote at $27.50@28.00 per ton at the mills and $28.50@29.00 do., at tide water. Manufactured iron secures a fair average degree of attention from pretty much all regular sources, and has a firm market for standard assortments, with no great amount of stock allowed to accumulate. We quote at 2.10c. from store and refined at 2.00c. @ 2.30c.; Rods, round and square, 2.10c. @ 2.30c.; Bands, 2.20c. @ 2.30c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4c. @ 4c.; and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.77@2.80c. for common Nos. 19@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1.00c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD.—Domestic Pig meets with a somewhat irregular demand from consumers who cannot as a rule be induced to anticipate their wants, but altogether the market seems to be under very good control and full rates maintained without much difficulty. We quote at 4.05@4.10c. as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 4 1/4c.; pipe, 5 1/2c.; sheet, 6 1/2c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c. on same terms. TIN.—Pig has a more or less unsettled status, subject to the influences of fluctuations in the foreign market, and on the whole was a little tame in tone with the present line of valuations more or less nominal. We quote at about 15 1/2c. @ 15 3/4c. for round lots and 15 3/4c. @ 16c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plates show no great change on the general line of values. There has been a fair business in charcoal and roofing terms, but other grades without much movement. We quote prices as follows: L. C. Charcoal, 1/2 cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.50@5.52 1/2, each additional X add $1.50; L. C. Charcoal, 1/2 cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.70@4.75, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terms, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.60@6.65; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.20@13.25; Worcester, 14x20, $4.87 1/2@4.90; Worcester, 20x28, $9.87 1/2@9.90; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.40@4.50; Deane grade, 20x28, $8.37 1/2@8.55; Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.65@4.67 1/2; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.30@8.30 1/2; L. C. Coke, Penian grade, $4.35@4.37 1/2; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.30@4.32 1/2; L. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.60@4.65 basis; L. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.65@4.70. Spelter is moving into consumers' hands to a fair extent but shows no unusual activity and prices appear to be just about steady. We quote at $4.95@5.05 for ordinary brands of common.

NAILS.—The market is held in quite a steady position, and reports are more or less cheerful regarding the present and prospective business. It is, however, difficult for manufacturers to work values up as they desire in the absence of any increased cost of material, and with the tendency of buyers to curtail orders on the least intimation of an advance. We quote at $1.80@1.85 per keg for car lots, and $1.90@1.95 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Demand is not active or general at the moment, and buyers refuse to hurry. Neither will they invest beyond the positive requirements of the hour, even in standard grades of stock, and there seems to be a great deal of caution or indifference in the demand. Stocks, however, are well held, and offered only at about former rates, with especial strength shown on leads, etc. Linseed Oil moves into consumption steadily, and the market is firmly held at 58@59c. for Western and 60@61c. for City. Spirits Turpentine meeting with about former average demand, and ruling steady in price. We quote at 37 1/2c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, &c.

TAR AND PITCH.—Demand fair for this time of the year, but no special feature in the market worthy of note. Supplies are equal to the outlet, and available at former rates. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.45 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

LUMBER.

Appended quotations are based almost wholly upon prices obtained for goods from first hands. Yard rates necessarily range much higher owing to the expenses attending sorting out and grading cargo and even car lots, besides which must be added the cost of handling and carrying until consumers are ready to invest. Terms of sale also prove important factors, and, altogether, it is impossible to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable in character.

HILL'S PATENT INSIDE SLIDING BLINDS.

These blinds require no hinges, all trimmings are supplied. They do not interfere with curtains or window ornaments, and are so constructed that light and air can be admitted from any part of the window. Being easily and rapidly operated they neither rattle nor get out of order. They economize space by doing away with pockets and the necessity of furring out, and can be removed and replaced instantly without even drawing a screw. They require no special frame as they can be attached with equal facility to any window. For workman ship or style these Blinds are not excelled by any in the market.

Call and see them or send for catalogue. Mention "Record and Guide."

Also Improved English and American "Venetian Blinds" in any desired wood beautifully finished

The market in Wall street during the past week has been a waiting one; but, unlike most waiting markets, the tendency of prices has been upwards. The course of values for the present hinges to a great extent upon the outcome of the presidents' meeting in Chicago. The advance on Thursday was due to the rumor that everything was proceeding smoothly, and it can hardly be doubted that the meeting will not help the situation materially. At worst, it is not likely that the conference can do any harm; and it may do a great deal of good. In other respects the strength of the past week has been justified. There is a revival of activity in the iron trade, crop prospects continue to be good, railroad earnings are satisfactory, and there is a stoppage of the gold shipments. The comparative inactivity of the trust stocks is also a healthy sign. Altogether the bulls have not very much to complain about.

The statement that the tax rate in New York City this year will be only 2 per cent. is in itself an undoubtedly pleasant piece of information, and in this case taxpayers are to a certain extent justified in congratulating themselves about it. But such information in itself can never be a sufficient basis for a rational judgment, and unfortunately the public are coming more and more to regard the tax rate alone as the final test of municipal management. This is a misfortune. In the case of New York this year the low tax rate expected is due principally to a large increase in the amount of personal property as assessed, to unexpended appropriations standing over from last year, and to a change in the disposition of certain sums from the Sinking Fund to the appropriation account. How fallacious a test of good management and economy in municipal affairs the tax rate may be is apparent when we consider that all that is necessary at any time to decrease the rate is to increase the assessments. Double the assessments and the tax rate is reduced one-half, yet the amount taken from property-holders remains as large as ever.

What then should be the test? The total sum expended? While not sufficient, it certainly is a better one than the tax rate. It should be observed that though the rate is lower this year than last in this city the appropriations are larger. Indeed, in forming any sound judgment, the total amount of a city's expenses for all purposes needs to be carefully considered; but in itself the expense test is not sufficient. Any inclination to make small expenditure the final test of wise management establishes parsimonious management, the results of which may be even more disastrous than those of extravagance. What should be done is to supplement the expense test by a consideration of what the needs of the city are and what is obtained for the money spent. By going back to gas lamps to-morrow the city could, no doubt, reduce its expenses; but no one will say the economy would be a wise one. The evil in most cities in this country is not so much that too much money is spent as that too little is obtained for it. The last question which a city like New York should ask regarding a proposed expenditure is, "Can we afford it?" and the first should be, "Is it needed? Will it pay?" Every improvement that is needed, that will pay, should be undertaken. For example, an adequate system of rapid transit might cost the city $50,000,000, but there is no question that the expense would be a wise one, though it should increase the debt and the tax rate for a time. True improvements in a city of one and three-quarter million people may be costly, but they do not impoverish. New York to-day is not spending wisely all the money it does spend, but it is not spending too much. The fact really is, there are numerous improvements that should be made, but are delayed, in some cases from the want of appropriations and in others because of the delays and circumlocution of commissions and red-tapeism. It is simply absurd that it should require, as is the case at present, from two to six years to open new streets perhaps not a mile long—a period sufficient for the construction of a double-track railroad across the continent. Is there any reason, that common sense can accept, why it should have taken four and a-half years merely to file the damage and benefit maps in the matter of opening North 3d avenue from 170th street to Pelham avenue?

In September, 1884, proceedings commenced to open Tremont avenue from Aqueduct avenue to Boston road, but the report of the commissioners has not yet been presented to the court. Five years ago the law was passed for the construction of the exterior street on the East River from 64th to 86th street, and these five years have been consumed by the Dock Department, the Sinking Fund Commissioners and the Public Works Department in circumlocution. Scarcely anything, even on paper, has been done. Impossible as it may seem, and ridiculous as it is, not even the plans have been adopted, and Engineer Webster says it may be five, ten or fifteen years yet before the improvement is finished. Considering what has been accomplished in five years there is a reckless definiteness in this statement which to waiting property-holders must seem altogether too good to be true. If a railroad corporation managed its affairs in this way what would become of it?

Frequent complaints have been made lately of the unhealthy condition of cellars in houses on the east side of the city, where the soil is damp and spile driving necessary to enable the foundations to be laid. The wonder, however, is not that the houses there are unhealthy, but that they are as healthy as they are. In many instances they are built on what may reasonably be called a marsh; and while the thickness of the walls, the amount of ventilation and light are all minutely regulated and looked after, the plumbing system examined and sewers constructed to carry off the house-waste, the cellar is absolutely neglected as being a matter of no importance, for the thin veneering of ashes and refuse mortar, which the builder grandiloquently terms "concrete," is of little account. A few days are sufficient for the water to ooze through it. It is plain that the inspection of dwellings should not be confined to the period of their construction, but should begin at the soil before the foundations are laid. A healthy foundation is as necessary to the proper sanitary condition of a house as a firm foundation is to its structural stability. While we are having inspection let it be complete.

There has recently been passed by the German Reichstag the third of a series of measures which, taken together, constitute a step towards State Socialism more comprehensive and more radical than any which has yet been taken by a great modern nation. Everyone is familiar to a greater or less degree with the extent to which European nations have ventured in the direction of paternalism. It is known that they are common carriers, stationers and printers, that they run theatres, public markets and slaughter-houses, edit and print newspapers, transmit messages, keep lodging-houses, own warehouses and race-tracks, are pawnbrokers, manage express companies, and so on; but perhaps it is not so well known that in addition they teach stammerers, work coal mines, peat-bogs, smelting-houses and iron mines, hire out hearses and horses, have lime quarries, run apothecary shops, vine-yards and wine-cellar, and manufacture china, tapestry, tobacco and matches. Many of these industries they are obliged to carry on as a direct consequence of the mere fact of administration; and others, the more important class, are prompted in their conception evidently by the belief that it will not do to intrust to interested private action the management of an industry which entails important public responsibilities.

This new step strikes deeper than the old ones. The scheme was first outlined in a message of Emperor William I., presented to the Reichstag in 1881. In 1883 the initial measure, providing for insurance against sickness, became a law. In return for the payment of one-half the normal local wage, as ascertained by the communal and civil authorities, medical attendance and medical appliances are supplied the sufferer in case of sickness, in addition to which he receives one-half the normal local wage, for a space of not more than thirteen weeks. Insurance is compulsory, but is not yet extended to agriculture, forestry and commercial employés, or to domestic servants. Contributions are paid through the employers, who themselves pay one-third of the amount. The second installment of the legislation, passed in 1884, provided for insurance against accident. This measure was intended for the benefit of trades in which life was endangered; its beneficiaries latterly including the building trade, farmers and sailors. The government intend ultimately still further to extend its provisions. In this case the whole burden of contribution is imposed on the employers. For complete disablement, caused by a casualty, the workman receives by way of pension two-thirds of the wage he has been earning; for partial disablement an equitable proportion of the same. If the man dies his burial expenses are paid and the widow and children supported. The workmen themselves, although they have no share in the contribution to this accident fund, take a prominent part in the management, acting as assessors of the amount of disability incurred. The last measure just passed, to go into operation probably in 1891, is simply a consistent, yet hazardous, extension of the principle involved in the other two. In its scope, according to the Berlin correspondent of the London Times, are included all persons above the age of fifteen, male and female, working in a dependent position for regular hire, constituting in all of fully 11,000,000 persons. Its purpose is insurance against incapacitation and old age, and its provisions are binding. The minimum invalid pension accruing from this compulsory insurance fund is \$15, the maximum about \$91 a year. The weekly payments vary from 3 cents to about $7\frac{1}{2}$ cents, according to the amount of wages earned; and in every case the State adds \$10 to the amount disbursed. This is practically an enormous pension fund—alike in principle to those started by the trades unions here and in England.

The principle underlying these acts lies far deeper than that underlying the interferences in the industrial world which we have enumerated above. The latter are designed to protect the community against certain of its members, whose selfish actions, if allowed free play in one direction, would hurt the public welfare; the former to protect the community from casualties to which we all are liable, and for which nobody as a general thing is responsible. In one case, superficially at all events, it interferes; in the other it assists, or rather provides the machinery and the motive for the poor man to assist himself. It avoids, to a large extent, the reproach, inevitably the share of all plans of radical governmental action, that it tends to destroy the spontaneity and self-respect of the individual. No man need lose his self-esteem by benefiting under this legislation, for every man has contributed his fair share towards the maintenance of the fund. That there will be inequalities and injustice in the distribution is inevitable; but justice is an ideal that can be only approximately realized.

We do not propose to go into the multitude of considerations that could be urged justly and unjustly against a piece of legislation of this kind. It will entail such heavy expenditures and the employment of such vast sums of money that it could succeed only under the most honest and economical management. That money must come from somewhere, and it will mean sacrifices and denials in other directions. But there is no use arguing a priori against a thing which is already in existence, and the working of which can be discovered as matters of fact. The insurance against sickness is said to be working successfully, although no figures are attainable on the subject. A number of years must pass before any really enlightening facts about this legislation can be secured. Its effects cannot be justly measured in a day, in a year, or in a decade. It may have consequences on German character which will not be apparent for many years to come. Until such facts can be gathered, we can very well afford to suspend our judgment.

No doubt there will be many interesting features in the constitutions soon to be constructed in the four new Western States. Their makers will be, to a certain extent, unhampered. The older and the more numerous a community is the more conservative it is. In the one case age is the father of associations, customs and forms of one kind or another which restrict the reformer, whose schemes are opposed, not simply because they appear to some irrational, but because they are new. In the other case the larger a community the more diverse are its interests, and consequently the greater the difference of opinion which would be aroused by this or that proposal. These new territories, then, have the advantage of comparatively small populations and the freedom from established facts which enables them to judge a reform more upon its own merits. They are not, of course, so completely free from prejudice and association, so completely able to adapt themselves to new governmental conditions, that they could countenance the most radical reforms, merely as such. Indiscriminate application of abstract governmental ideas, irrespective of the most palpable facts of human nature, and life would be as impossible and disastrous in the West as elsewhere. But there is a class of administrative reforms, such, for instance, as land transfer reform, electoral reform, proper road regulations, and the like, which are important without being really fundamental, and which can be more easily applied in the new States than in the older ones, even as they have been more easily applied in Australia than in Great Britain.

To give an example of the kind of propositions which are being submitted to the people of the new States we may take the following, which the Constitutional Convention of Washington Territory will be called upon to decide: (1) An absolutely secret ballot, (2) all public servants to be elected, (3) submission of a proposed law to popular decision by a one-third vote of the Legislature, (4) authorizing municipal governments to own and control industries, (5) taxation of land held from use to be as high as land used, (6) and annual sessions of the Legislature. Some of these propositions may be criticized on the ground that regardless of their wisdom or foolishness they are not fundamental to a degree that would warrant their incorporation in a State constitution. To an extent this criticism is entirely just. In most of our State constitutions very little discrimination is used in distinguishing what is really fundamental from the shifting regulations which can and should be changed at will by the Legislature. But aside from this it is important to realize what admirable machines these new States make for testing governmental reforms. The number of people affected is not large, and a proposition, if it works badly, can be made nugatory as easily as it was adopted. Mr. James Bryce rightly insists that the governments and laws of our various States constitute experiments in democracy equally important and more varied in character as the great national experiment towards which the eyes of political thinkers are constantly directed. Reformers should take to heart Horace Greeley's advice. It is in the West that they have the best field for giving that test to their propositions without which every reform has the appearance merely of a nostrum sanctioned by a crank.

"The House Merchant."

New tendencies in trades are always worth the close attention of the members of them. The beginnings, however, are very seldom generally seen, for as a rule, even if they are perceived, they seem insignificant. To those who are watching the real estate world closely just now a new tendency—one that promises to be of great importance—is observable.

As is known, a very large part of the building done in New York City is done by the "speculative builder," who, as is also well known, not infrequently operates on borrowed capital. It may be said he builds in advance of demand, inasmuch as he usually commences operations before he has customers in view for his houses. He expects to dispose of them when finished. When they are completed he is his own salesman, though of course he has recourse to the aid of real estate brokers. Now, whenever two functions are performed by the same individual the tendency of development is to deprive him of one of these and give it to somebody else. For instance thirty-five or forty years ago most builders were their own architects. To-day architecture is a separate profession. Very few builders make their own plans, and the indications are that just as the architect curtailed the operations of the builder in one direction a new class of real estate men will do so in another.

This new arrival in the business may be called a "house merchant." If he becomes as important as seems likely, he will make the builder more strictly a manufacturer of houses, one who disposes of his wares not to the consumer but to an intermediate party, agent or merchant, exactly as the manufacturer of dry-goods and other wares does. In other words, the builder will not be, as he is to-day, both producer and distributor. He will be deprived of the latter function.

Already men of means, or men commanding capital, have stepped into the market and have bought up certain finished houses that have been for some time awaiting purchasers. It is not to be understood, however, that there is any concerted movement, syndicate—British or otherwise—or anything of that kind in existence. The fact is simply that some individuals have discovered, perhaps without giving much thought to the matter, that they can take houses off builders' hands and dispose of them to home-seekers at a profit. This new experiment in real estate is following the ordinary trend of development. It makes for the differentiation which has produced the scores of trades which we have and the numerous subdivisions in them. The experiment has been successful so far; the probabilities are it will continue to be so, and in a short time the "house merchant" will be one of the most important factors in the real estate world.

There are many good reasons why the newcomer should be successful. In the first place, he will be able to buy cheaper than the ordinary individual, for the builder could sell to him at the lowest price, as he would take his houses off his hands as soon as they were finished, thus saving the interest, uncertainty and inconvenience which attend delayed sales, especially in the case of the speculative builder operating on borrowed capital. His houses sold, the builder can get to work again at once, and on the principal that no one is so fit for the army as a soldier, he will be more likely to make money as a builder than as a builder and seller of houses. On the other hand, the successful "house merchant" will have special facilities for selling dwellings. He will know the market thoroughly, he will have capital to advertise, and the best means of putting property of different kinds on the market in the right places and at the right times, and in all probability he will be better equipped as a salesman to deal with customers than builders are. In addition to this he will not be dependent upon the sale of any one building of one style in a certain location. His customers will have a choice in all these matters—houses, styles and locations—and the expenses incidental to the slow sale of a certain one house or a certain block of houses would be distributed among many instead of falling as now happens upon the one piece of property, thus increasing the price of it to the purchaser or decreasing the profits of the builder. No doubt in time, as operations increase, companies would be formed, and who knows, for they are the order of the day, perhaps trusts. One thing is certain, however, the “house merchant” has made his appearance amongst us. It is be seen how Time and he get on together.

Telephones vs. the Public.

The wisdom, statesmanship and foresight of the fathers of our country are in a few things more manifest than in Article I., section 8, of the Constitution, which decrees that “Congress shall have power * * * to promote the progress of science and useful arts by securing for limited terms to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;” yet the end designed by the framers of our Constitution in this provision has, in some cases, been thwarted by the granting of patents, the claims of which are so worked as to completely close the avenue to progressive science. For example, the patent granting the Bell Telephone Company the exclusive right to the use of electricity as a vehicle of sound is obviously in direct conflict with, not only the policy, but the letter of the fundamental law of American patents as set forth in the Constitution. An eminent authority states that “an inventor has no right to his invention in common law, the right which he derives is a creature of the statute and of grant, and is subject to the conditions incorporated in the statutes and in the grants;” and it is evident, according to this, that no statutes can be legally enacted or grants made which violate the policy of the fundamental law by hindering the “progress of science.” It has been held that “a patent will not be sustained if the claim is for a result, a principle, an idea, or any other mere abstraction,” and it would to the average mind appear inconsistent, at least in view of this holding of the court, to sustain the claims of the Bell Company to the “act” of transmitting speech by electricity. For, although Mr. Bell may have been the first to have “embodied in a practical form” a device for transmitting sounds conveyed, he certainly can lay no claim to the discovery of the principle that sounds could be conveyed by electric currents over a conductor. And furthermore, while having a perfect right to have his claims “construed in a fair and liberal spirit to accomplish the purpose of the laws under which they are granted,” in so far as they are limited to his specific methods of “reducing to practice,” as embodied in his mechanism for reproducing sounds, it is altogether an unfair and illiberal construction to allow claims for a principle which he did not discover, and the granting of which tends to frustrate rather than accomplish the purpose of the laws under which they are granted. An analogous case is that of the steam engine. The powers of steam were known before the time of Watt, and while he was the first (successfully at least) to have embodied in a practical form a machine for developing it, had he invented the steam engine in 1870 he could no doubt have secured a patent covering the valuable right of that peculiar form of engine, but it is more than questionable if he could have claimed the “art” of using steam as a power simply because he was the first to “reduce it to practice.” The granting virtually to the Bell Telephone Company of the unconditional and exclusive right for seventeen years to the use of electricity as a vehicle of sound is certainly beyond and above the purpose of the law as framed.

Among the corporations which have no souls the Bell Company stands upon an exalted platform. For this reason especially, public attention has been drawn to this monstrosity whose birth is due to a misconception of the law, whose existence thwarts the progress of science and the progressive arts, and which is maintained by an onerous and excessive tax to which it is not justly entitled beyond an open and fair competition upon a scientific principle discovered years ago. Not satisfied with having secured to itself the most gigantic grant of any age, it is reported that this company has secured a controlling interest in the rival claims of Drawbaugh to the invention of the telephone. It will be remembered that, so far at least as relates to the patent itself, it has never been finally settled that Drawbaugh has no claims to its invention. The purpose of this company seems to be toward the end of the life of its own patent to permit the revival of Drawbaugh claims and through want of vigorous defense to allow his claims to be established, thus renewing the life of the telephone patent (which they own) for another period of years upon Drawbaugh's claims to priority of invention. Should this be attempted it will undoubtedly involve legal complications in which the decisions of the Supreme Court will stand as a barrier if not a bar to its accomplishment, but the wonderful success of this powerful company in pushing their claims to a successful issue, regardless of all precedent, is of itself sufficient to give weight to such a report and attract to it the careful attention of the public.

Six Months in Kings County.

The filings in Kings County during the past six months largely exceed those of last year. There are 2,454 more deeds, or an increase of over 25 per cent. over last year's figures, and $17,266,057 more money involved, a gain of over 50 per cent. on last year's business. The mortgages, too, are more numerous, the increase being 1,855 in number and $11,712,440 in amount.

The buildings projected also show a large gain on last year's filings. There are 808 more buildings to go up this year at an increase of $2,865,288 in cost. Last year the number of brick and frame buildings were about the same. This year there are 1,507 of the former against 1,418 of the latter. The average cost per building is $5,343 this year, compared with $6,029 last year. During June, 1888, there were filed plans for the Biblical Institute at a cost of $1,500,000, and as the work has not and will not be done, that amount should be deducted from the total filings, which means a reduction in the average cost to $5,517.

Previous to the 4th of July the committee in charge of the Stanford White memorial arch clearly indicated how necessary it was to bring the fund up to $50,000 before that date. In that case, they said, they would have so much confidence that the remainder would be forthcoming that they could have the plans drawn and could give out some of the contracts. It was of no avail, however, and the fund still hangs between $46,000 and $47,000, with practically no tendency to increase. Evidently the fountain of public subscription has run dry; yet more than $50,000 is lacking of the money required to complete the arch. Where shall the rest come from? The answer to that question ought to depend upon the purpose for which the arch is erected. If the committee persist in their intention to erect the arch for the benefit of the property-owners on Washington square, it is but fair that those property-owners should pay for it. The district is not an improving one, but the erection of the arch might postpone its ultimate deterioration or transformation, as the case may be, for some years—a very desirable object, of course, for those property-owners; but of comparatively little advantage to the city, State, or country at large. If, however, the arch is to be built for the use of citizens of our State, and is to be located in a place where it can be occasionally seen, why it will be entirely proper for the State government to be more public-spirited with the people's money than the people were themselves. Any State grant of funds ought to be conditioned on the location of the arch in some central and conspicuous spot. Was it ever proposed to put the Bartholdi statue on Blackwell's Island?

The characters and aims of the New York papers are very well illustrated by the amount of space and attention they gave to the Sullivan-Kilrain fight. As might be expected, the World stood far ahead of all the rest, with two pages, two columns and a quarter devoted to this interesting incident, for not only were the details of the battle vividly portrayed, but not satisfied with this, it was found desirable to report what “Jake's” and “John's” plans were for the future, what Mr. McCaffrey thought of the whole affair, what ground there was for the belief that Kilrain was drugged, as well as to inform the public how they themselves received the news of the result. The Sun followed hard upon the World, for although it only gave something over a page to a description of the fight, it filled in the gap by a well-considered editorial of two columns on Sunday, and a smaller editorial after the result was known.

The Western Electric Building.

A factory has lately been put up for the Western Electric Company that is so interesting and appropriate a piece of architecture it is a pity its site prevents it from being better seen. It stands at the corner of Thames and Greenwich streets. The former is little more than an alley and the latter is occupied by the elevated railroad, which not only cuts the building in two on the side and conceals its basement, but prevents any general view from being had from the opposite sidewalk. In fact, it is only from the roofs or upper windows of the buildings opposite that the factory can be fairly seen and judged.

Its dimensions are rather more than respectable, being, approximately, 115 feet on Thames street by 80 on Greenwich, and ten stories in height, while it is also rendered conspicuous by its mater-lower story are small arches, emphasizing the solidity of the base. Above these the whole centre, between the solid ends, is made very light and open, as it can safely be without detriment to the repose of the structure, when the sense of massiveness and weight has already been effectually secured by the solidity of the angles and of the base. There are four compartments in the central division, bounded by broad piers, and the building is lightened as it rises by the rounding of the angles of these piers, which in the substructure are square. The pavilions are emphasized by what is virtually a projection from the curtain-wall owing to their superior massiveness of treatment, although they are in fact in the same plane with the intermediate piers. Their openings are kept small throughout with unusually deep reveals. Each opening in the curtain-wall is rectangular and triple, with plain mullions, sills and lintels of iron, ial, buff brick and buff terra cotta, with a sparing but effective use of brown stone, and with ironwork in the mullions, and also in the sills and lintels of the central portion on each front. The main peculiarity of the design, and a very successful peculiarity it is, is the treatment of the corners, which are conceived as buttresses and left very much more solid than the intermediate wall. On the Greenwich street front, which, although the shorter, is the more important, in spite of the intrusion of the elevated road, by reason of the greater width of the street, only the northern corner is thus reinforced. For 20 feet or so at the end the wall is kept very solid throughout, with but two small openings in each story. The small openings of this corner are covered in the first and second stories with segmental arches two bricks in depth and with a roll at the intrados. In the third they are flat arches. At the centre of the front is a large segmental arch, covering an opening extending through two stories and containing the entrance.

The idea of the design is more perfectly carried out, however, upon the longer front, where the purpose of making the angles more solid than the centre is unmistakable, and where the front is divided laterally into three parts, of which the outermost are the solid and towerlike corners. The vertical division is also threefold. The base is of three stories, and is marked off at the top by a heavy projecting and plainly moulded course of sandstone. At the centre is an ample segment-headed driveway, and on each side of it in the while between sill and lintel the floors are marked by plain panels of brickwork deeply recessed between the piers.

The middle division of the building consists of five stories, and this treatment is pursued throughout, with very much better effect than if the architect had attempted to avoid monotony by varying the stories. A variation evidently forced is always unpleasant, and in this case the effect of pure utility, suitable to a factory, which is given by the plainness of the design, is enhanced by its uniformity, while variety is legitimately secured by the differentiation of the main parts of structure. The iron window frames are repeated exactly, and the only difference in the treatment of the pavilions is that in the upper story, the eighth, these openings have flat arches, while below they are segmental.

Another heavily moulded string course traverses the front above the eighth story, and isolates the ninth, which, however, is treated exactly like the story below it. Above the ninth story is a cornice of considerable projection carried upon corbels of brown stone. The projection suffices to conceal the lower part of the openings of the tenth story. These are round arches, grouped by threes, over each bay of the substructure, and the piers prolong those that separate the bays. A light label moulding in terra cotta crowns these arches. Above them is a cornice corbelled out in brickwork. The curtain wall is completed with a cresting of tile, while the pavilions are again emphasized by a parapet pierced with narrow round arches, and above this again the angles of the pavilions are produced in heavy posts, coped with brown stone.

The effect of the building, badly as it is placed, is extremely good, and a great part of it is due to the plainness which proclaims it a work of bare utility. There is no ornament apart from the expression of structure, and this is confined, except in the upper story, to the simple moulding at the arris of the arches. In the upper story, which we may suppose to be given to the offices, and therefore to a use somewhat less prosaic than the stories below, the construction is somewhat more elaborated, though still very simply treated. With the admirable device of reinforcing the corners, this treatment gives the impression of straightforwardness, solidity, and the beauty that comes from the expression of these, a beauty enhanced by the fortunate combination of color in the material.

Our Letter Bag—The Public Conscience.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I am the secretary of the new Society for the Admiration of the Public Conscience which has been organized in Boston, and I venture to send you a few roughly-prepared notes of our first meeting, which perhaps may be of interest to your readers.

I am sure you are aware that the object of our Society is the establishment of the Brotherhood of Humanity by means of the sublime working of the Public Conscience through the instrumentality of Government.

As everyone would at once imagine upon the mere statement of the object our organization has in view, the Society is the creation of a pious lawyer, the Chicory lawyer, Edward Jellamy, who in the pauses between promoting or furthering or profiting (we must live you know) by litigation wrote a novel in which the present Social order is stood permanently on its head and, that way up, is dressed in a new set of garments. Everyone acknowledges that the reversal is in a sense attractive, though I believe there are some unimaginative creatures, bondsmen to mere facts, who believe that outside of a dream the process would result in vertigo.

Our president, in calling the first meeting of the Society to order, said: There is something touching in the assembling of so few persons as we are here for the amelioration of the whole of mankind.

We confess we are profoundly dissatisfied, dissatisfied fundamentally, with the present condition of Society. It is all wrong. It has been wrong these thousands of years. We are going to set it right, and to make a sort of new Heaven and Earth. We have got an idea of exactly how the world should be, and really I don't think we lay ourselves open to the charge of overweening presumption in wishing to order only the terrestrial part of the Universe in which so many other people have to live, according to what we think best. Surely what we think best must be best. Our "best" seems good to us to-day, and we may take it for granted it must be good for all futurity. It is ridiculous to point out to us that the ideals of one generation are not the ideals of another; that the ideal even has an existence only as the blue light around mountain peaks has an existence, which vanishes as we approach it. We don't care a straw for what History tells us or for what Science teaches us. We are going to give ourselves up to glorious unthinking enthusiasms and not to facts.

There have been many one-cure-for-all-human-ills devised in the past, since mankind first got out of short clothes or no clothes. These remedies all savored of the patent medicine quackery that warrants its nostrum to be a specific for every human malady. But there is nothing of this about us. It is true we have a single plan for hastening the millennium, but then it is such a superior one. Other people didn't consider their plan nearly so superior as we do ours.

What is our plan?

First of all we believe the Public Conscience is immeasurably superior to individual consciences. When a number of consciences act together they reach a moral altitude which singly they cannot attain. We see that in the political life of every nation—so pure, so wise, so calm, so free from all passion and prejudice, so ready to do justice, so sympathetic. Now we hold that all that is needed to perfect Humanity, remove all the evil, poverty, suffering and injustice of the present day, is to set the public conscience at work through the instrument which we call a Government. The Public Conscience is doing a little work now through Government, and in these feeble strivings we have evidence of what a beautiful thing it will be when all individuality is destroyed and we deliver ourselves to the happy slavery of Government, directed by the Public Conscience. Think of the generosity of those glorious days as revealed in a dim way by the present pension grabs; in the wise economical management of the public interests, which is even now the chief characteristic of all municipalities; of Governmental bustle and enterprise and keen appreciation of the needs of people which, even in these ungovernmental days, shocks the nervous when they enter our official buildings. Glorious "Government;" glorious "Public Conscience"—of these alone can it be said that they are "things of beauty and joys forever."

At this point of the proceedings a mild, clerical-looking individual arose and asked permission to address the meeting. It was granted. His voice was sweet, but there was (to us) an uncomfortable tone of sadness in it. We make it a rule to avoid uncomfortable things.

"Friends," he said, "you don't know who I am, and I do not wish to be known. I attended your meeting in the hope that my soul might get tidings of the good day which I have longed and worked for. My life has been spent among the poverty-stricken, and your promise of the Brotherhood of Mankind, of Universal Peace and Happiness, attracted me. I thought you might have discovered something I and others like me who are toiling in silence had missed. You will excuse me if I say I am disappointed. I have seen so many schemes tried. They all fail. I don't believe the world is to be made much happier by great meetings and organizations and vast schemes, or by men who take to Social reform as some do to opium and hashish—for the sensuous pleasure it gives them, for the dreams. Goodness in many men remains inefficient, because it fixes its eyes on Heaven in rapture, waiting for angel wings to grow before it does anything. Many men have grand ideas of Charity; splendid schemes for the regeneration of the entire human race. Everything is big—on a vast scale. I have found that the man whose charity is intended for the entire world usually forgets the half-dozen people he comes in contact with daily. He who intends to give away a million or two at death to the poor gives nothing to the beggar at his gate, and he would furnish pocket-handkerchiefs, for the grief of Humanity has no sympathy for the every-day sorrows of his servant or office boy. What is needed, I think, is the narrowed goodness that does not need the Universe to walk in; that seldom gets beyond its own town; aye, its own door-step. The world is to be made measurably happier at once, without waiting for the fruits of centuries by the goodness that sanctifies little deeds, that softens the command, beautifies the face with a smile, deafens the ear to slander, closes the eyes that at times they see not, and, in a word, makes our lives gentle. Many a man, no doubt, feels warm at heart with the charity of his, which he keeps in the womb of a will to be born when he dies. But posthumous charity, like a posthumous child, seldom blesses its father. I believe we should work from within the circle of our daily life outwards, never from without inwards. If this meeting will disperse, sacrifice the money and time it, expends in pleasures alone upon making some poor individual within hand-reach happier, more will be done for the Brotherhood of Mankind than anything that can come from this organization."

This speech created such a storm of disapproval that the meek-faced gentleman had to clear out, and the meeting adjourned for a week.

LOVER OF HUMANITY.

Our correspondent is evidently having a shot at the Nationalist movement in Boston, described in THE RECORD AND GUIDE recently. He misses his mark somewhat, but his remarks are not without an undercurrent of truth.

The Support of Land and Buildings.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The question of who should protect earth forming a yard adjoining an excavation for a new building being disputed, I would ask if there is any law on the subject or any decisions governing the same. It has been claimed by supposed good authority that all lands are entitled to the natural support of the surroundings, and when such are removed the one removing the same should properly support any lands (not walls) adjoining.

If a person on one street has a building covering the entire lot, 100 feet deep, and the foundation is down to the required depth—i. e., 10 feet below the curb—on that street, and a person in the adjoining street, which is say 5 feet lower grade, desires to build over his entire lot, running back to the building first mentioned, and excavating 10 feet below the curb on this last mentioned street, at whose expense is the first building mentioned to be cared for? Is there any law or any decisions governing such a case?

As to question No. 1, regarding the support to lands (not walls), A. Bartlett S. Loyd, in his "Law of Building and Buildings," says: "An adjacent owner has no right to deprive his neighbor of the natural support afforded by his soil," page 355; and on page 356: "The right to lateral support seems ordinarily limited to the preservation of the soil in its natural state, so that, if land not subject to artificial pressure sinks or falls away in consequence of removal of such support the owner is entitled to damages." The authority given is, McGuire vs. Grant, 1 Dutch 356.

As to question No. 2, it has been decided that a person excavating must protect at his own cost his neighbor's walls if excavating to a depth of more than 10 feet below the curb. It does not matter whether his neighbor is more or less than 10 feet below the curb.

The Truck Nuisance.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The people in our neighborhood are greatly annoyed at the number of trucks and vehicles which are allowed to remain in the streets at night. There are two streets west of 3d avenue and they are lined on one side almost entirely with all sorts of carts. They are not only an objection to us because they are an eyesore, but they are an annoyance because the owners harness their horses and drive them away between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning, and the rumbling over the stones and the noise made by the drivers disturbs our sleep. One of the members of my family is an invalid and the nuisance is especially objectionable on her account. Have I no remedy in law against this evil? A SUFFERING TENANT.

Our correspondent has an easy remedy. Let him and his neighbors write to the Mayor and the wagons will be removed. The law is clear and explicit. By chapter 37 of the laws of 1888, the Consolidation act (sub. 4, sec. 86, chap. 410, laws 1882) is amended to read as follows: "To prevent encroachments upon and obstructions to the highways, roads and public places, not including parks, and to authorize and require the Commissioner of Public Works, to remove the same, but shall have no power to authorize the placing or continuing of any encroachment or obstruction upon any street or sidewalk, except the temporary occupation thereof or repair of a building on a lot opposite, but may authorize the temporary occupation of a portion of a street, during the night time only, by trucks belonging to or habitually driven by actual residents of the City of New York. Such authorization shall be given only by resolution approved by the Mayor, and shall be subject to such rules and conditions as the Mayor shall from time to time prescribe, but no such resolution shall become operative until and unless the owner or lessee of the building or lot opposite which it is proposed to authorize a truck than Benjamin P. Fairchild, probably the oldest real estate broker in the market, estimates them to be worth.

The Board of Education has abandoned the site on 41st street, between 7th and 8th avenues, lot 20x100 in size. They are also reconsidering a reduction of the estimated award on the northeast corner of Mulberry and Bayard streets, plot 124.10x100.4. The award is $153,000, while the estimated values of the properties on the site aggregate but $73,500.

The Grand Boulevard.

BETWEEN FIFTY-NINTH AND EIGHTY-SIXTH STREETS.

So much interest has been aroused in the descriptions which appeared in our issues of June 1st and 15th last, describing the character of the block fronts on Central Park West and 5th avenue, between 59th and 110th streets, that we have resolved to give our readers a similar description of the Grand Boulevard. The principal section of this thoroughfare may be taken to include the fronts between 59th and 86th streets, and these are described below. In addition to the information given in the previous articles as to the character of each lot, a glance is presented of the condition of the different streets intervening for a block to the east and west, as well as the crosswalks that have been laid down across the Boulevard at several points.

We have chosen to describe this important thoroughfare because it is one which has a great future before it. It is the finest artery, as well as the widest, running through the western side of the city, and is the most central avenue between the Central Park and the North River. It is, in fact, the very backbone of this section. Its improvement has been delayed owing to the absence of rapid transit. If an elevated road or an open cut road were forthcoming it would certainly result in an immediate activity in building on both sides of the thoroughfare as far up as Harlem. The delay in the paving of the street is the result of the absence of this very rapid transit, for the property-owners would long since have forced through a measure for the work had their interests been strong enough, as they would have been had the Boulevard been supplied with a quick transit road.

The Grand Boulevard—despite the want of proper transit facilities, and notwithstanding the clouds of dust which the wind raises in summer, the mud and water in the spring and fall, and the drifting snow and sleet in the winter—has come in for some little attention from several sources. It is the home of several fine churches, an armory, and some handsome private residences and flats, and it will not be many years before it will present an appearance more in keeping with its deserts; but no one of judgment can fail to see that an avenue so centrally located, so noble in its width, and lined throughout its entire length with a stripway of park, can fail to improve as the years advance, regardless of the disadvantages to which it is subject.

It is now in a transition stage, as will be seen from the description of the lots given below. The transition is a comparatively slow one, but it will no doubt gain impetus in a short time. In the following description the amount of rock was gauged roughly, as well as the depth of some of the lots below grade, and they must be taken as being within a foot or so, more or less, of the actual measurement, which was made with the eye and not by tape:

—W. S.—Unimproved; 16 to 30 feet below grade. Contains shanty and vegetable garden under cultivation.
NOTE.—85th street is not guttered or paved from 10th to West End avenue.

A comparison between the topography of the vacant lots on the Boulevard and Central Park West and 5th avenue, between the streets described in this and the previous articles referred to, will show that the ground along the Boulevard is more variable in its changes on the different blocks than is the case with the two other thoroughfares. Besides that, the character of the improvements on the Boulevard have not yet begun to compare favorably—excepting here and there—with either of the others. It has one feature, however, which is absent on both Central Park West and 5th avenue, between 59th and 110th streets—it seems to be becoming the home of churches. Whether this feature will continue remains to be seen. A peculiarity of the entrance to the Boulevard is the fact that three stables, or rather two riding academies and a stable building, occupy most of the first two blocks on the east and west sides of the thoroughfare north of 59th street. A synopsis of the present character of the lots on the blocks between 59th and 86th streets, as described above, gives the following result. The 5th avenue and Central Park West tables are also given for the purpose of comparison:

† These are not all 100 feet deep, while many are over 25 feet wide.
NOTE.—Of the unimproved lots, 132 are vacant and about 34 covered with old frame and brick buildings on the east side of the Boulevard, while on the west side 95 are vacant and about 71 are covered with old structures.

RECENT AUCTIONS.—AN OLD OPERATOR'S VIEW.

A sale of Boulevard lots took place on December 13th last which was very largely attended. Among the buyers was the well-known operator, Amos R. Eno. He purchased lots 5 and 6 shown on the following diagram. Lot 5 was knocked down at $8,500 and lot 6, on the street, brought $9,000. Lot 4 was sold at this sale to M. H. Cashman for $9,200, and during the past few weeks was acquired by Mr. Eno for $10,500. Lots 1, 2 and 3 brought $25,200, $9,500 and $7,250 respectively, Walton Storm, as executor of the plaintiff, being the purchaser. The six lots realized $68,650. They were sold in 1879 to Fleming Smith for $50,000, and in 1881 to Richard T. Wilson for $110,000.

Another instance of the remarkable decrease in the value of Boulevard lots is shown in the northeast corner of 62d street, which was bought at auction by Amos R. Eno in May, 1888, for $55,000, at the sale of the estate of Jos. P. Quinn. It is 116.2x139.11x100.5x81.7 in size. It was sold in October, 1876, for $95,000; on March 1, 1881, for $120,000; on May 12, 1882, for $151,000, and on September 21, 1882, under foreclosure, for $109,000.

One of the oldest operators in the market, whose judgment is held in the highest estimation, in a talk with a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE yesterday, said: "Lots are selling much lower now on the Boulevard than they will probably be selling for a few years hence. About thirty years ago I remember that a lot on a corner of the Boulevard and 71st street, I forget the exact corner, sold for $32,500; now it would hardly bring $22,500. Boulevard lots would be selling higher if New York had not been overbuilt. This has had the effect of keeping down the values of lots in many sections. It is curious to see how street lots near the Boulevard are selling as well as the Boulevard lots themselves."

"Do you think rapid transit along the Boulevard would help values?" asked the writer.

"It wouldn't hurt values," was the reply. "Yet, rapid transit will not do everything. There must be the demand, and very few people are now going up that way. There ought to be a concerted movement on the part of Boulevard property-owners to restrict their lots. This would give security to buyers that no nuisances will be built next door to them, and would help to build up the Boulevard. The only thing that has kept up building elsewhere on the west side is the plethora of money and the risk taken by institutions who have more funds on hand than they know what to do with."

"What do you think is likely to be the character of the Boulevard ten years hence?" ventured the writer.

"I can't tell that," was the reply. "I find that I am wrong half the time in my suppositions about realty, and I have learned to have little respect for my own opinions on real estate futures."

And yet the speaker is esteemed one of the ablest, shrewdest and most important among the operators on 'Change.

Relation Between the Assessed Valuation of Real Estate and the Increase in Buildings.

We remarked last week in these columns that the decrease in the comparative increase in the assessed valuations of real estate of 1888 over 1887, and 1889 over 1888, amounted to about $20,000,000, within less than a million dollars of the decrease in the estimated cost of the building plans filed in 1888 from 1887. It must not be supposed from this that conversely there is any fixed relation between the increase in the assessed valuation from year to year and the estimated cost of the building plans filed in the previous year. This may be very well shown by the following table, which gives the estimated cost of the building plans filed for every year back to 1874, and the increase in the assessed valuation of real estate for the year following:

	Estimated cost of Buildings.		Increase in assessed Valuation.
1888	$47,142,478	1889 over 1888	$28,759,412
1887	66,830,980	1887	48,327,080
1886	58,479,653	1886	50,550,784
1885	45,915,246	1885	35,497,928
1884	42,215,423	1884	48,681,540
1883	43,214,340	1883	40,630,928
1882	44,793,186	1882	43,928,853
1881	43,391,300	1881	58,468,617
1880	29,115,335	1880	34,164,009
1879	22,507,322	1879	24,437,310
1878	15,219,680	1878	17,278,680
1877	13,365,114	1877	5,791,767
1876	15,903,800	1876	2,776,918
1875	18,326,870	1875	8,784,620
1874	16,667,414	1874	2,095,550

It will be seen from this table that the two elements which go to make up a year's increase in ground value is more important and fluctuates more widely than the other element—the actual capital put into the erection of houses. It must be remembered that the estimated cost of the buildings as it appears in the table does not gauge accurately the increase in assessed valuation due to the erection of buildings. For one thing about 15 per cent. of the plans filed are not carried out, and, of course, one-third at least must be deducted from the remainder to make allowance for the difference between the assessed and actual valuation. Consequently, for the purposes of comparison, the estimated cost of buildings must be reduced by 45 per cent. at least, and to make the reduction more easy, it would be near enough the truth to divide those figures by two, for the assessed valuation seldom amounts to two-thirds of the actual valuation. On this basis it will be seen that there are four years out of the fifteen, 1875, 1876, 1877 and 1878, in which there was a decrease in ground value, the small increase in assessments being due solely to the increase in the number of buildings. In the other years there is an increment of ground values anywhere from $8,000,000 or $10,000,000 up to $26,000,000. Thus the latter are seen to fluctuate between minus $6,000,000 and plus $26,000,000—a total variation of $32,000,000, while the assessed increase due to buildings fluctuates only between plus $33,000,000 and plus $6,000,000—a total variation of $27,000,000. The figures show no definite relation between the assessed increase in valuation and that part of it due to increased buildings, as may be seen from the facts that the years when buildings increased most were not followed by a phenomenal increase in assessed valuations, and the years in which there was a phenomenal increase in assessed valuations were not preceded by an extraordinary building movement.

Highbridge Park.

Corporation Counsel Clark will make application to the Supreme Court on July 31st for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the above matter in the place of Grover Cleveland, who refuses to act, and Leicester Holme, who has resigned.

At the same time the Corporation Counsel will apply for the appointment of a Commissioner of Estimate and Assessment in the place of John B. Shea, resigned, in the matter of acquiring title to Bremer avenue, from Jerome avenue to Birch street, and to that part of Devoe street, from Bremer to Ogden avenue, in the 23d Ward.

The commissioners in the matter of acquiring title to Rose street, from 3d to Bergen avenue, have completed their estimate and assessment, and will apply to the Supreme Court on September 20 for confirmation of report. Objections, if any, should be presented in writing on or before the 7th of September at No. 200 Broadway, fifth floor.

Asphalt Pavement.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

As I have lived in a street paved with asphalt pavement the longest time, I would call your attention to what appears to be the greatest injury to it—which is lime in any form. Rolling a barrel of lime across the pavement and the small amount sifting through the staves will, after a few weeks, cause a bad break the width of the barrel.

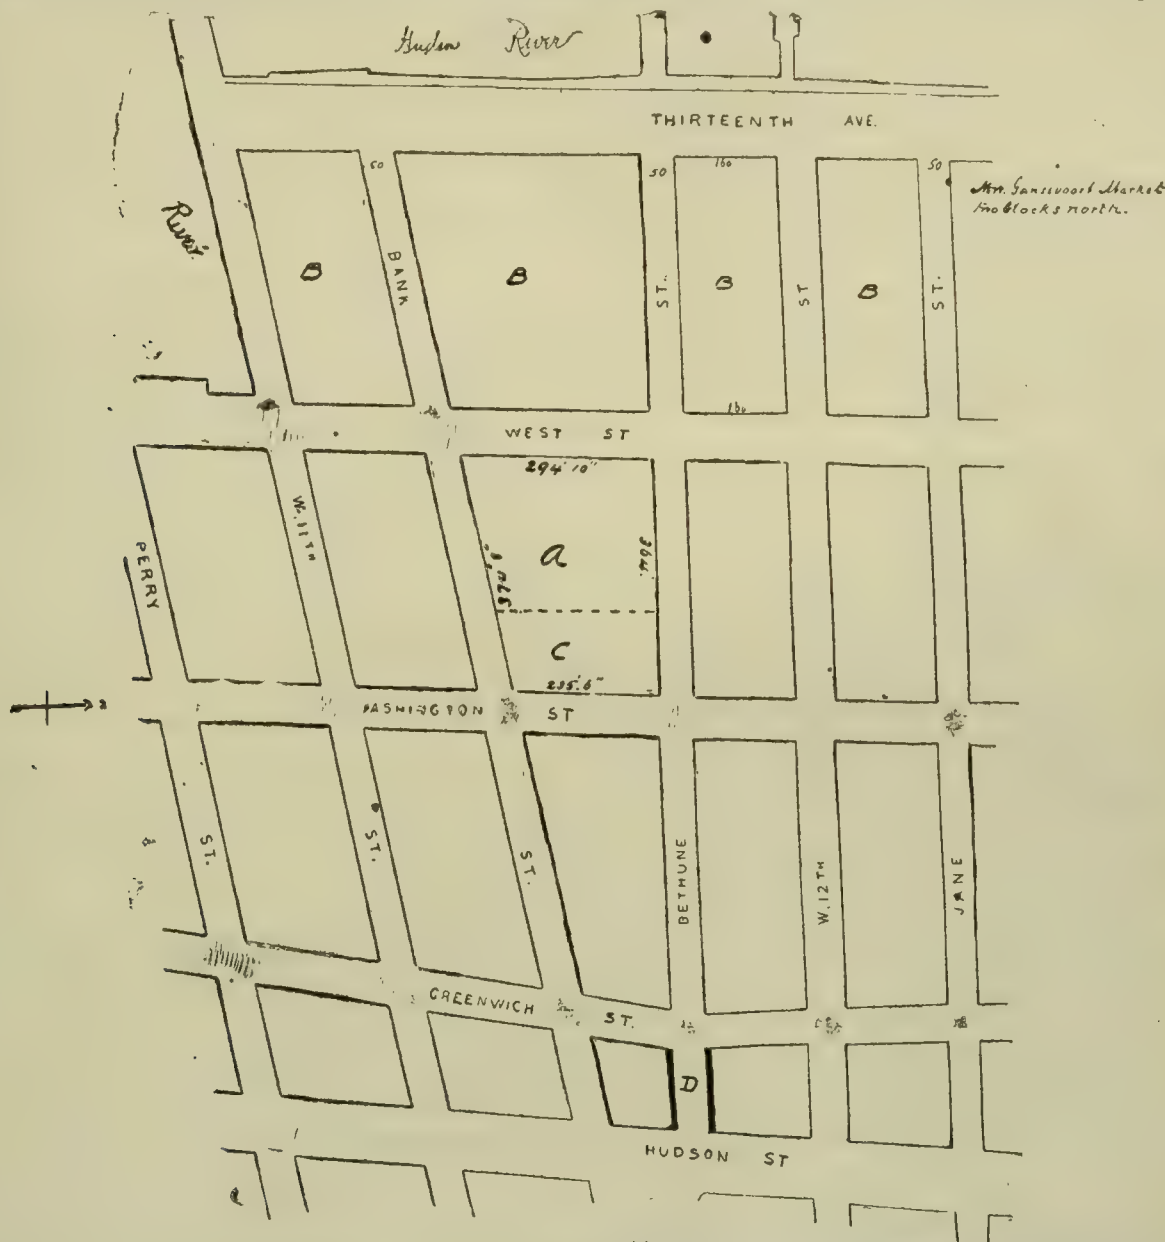

Before putting down any more asphalt pavement a chemist should be employed to experiment and determine what is an injury to the pavement; and then an ordinance be adopted in accordance. In all cases repairs should be done immediately. To put in a penalty that contractor keep in repair is of no use, as when sufficient obligation is assumed the contractor can become insolvent.
BEDFORD AVENUE, BROOK LYN.

Rehabilitating a Section.

The recovery of certain neighborhoods and sections of New York City from the dormant condition in which they have lain for a quarter of a century or more is one of the circumstances in the history of the real estate development of the Metropolis which impresses itself upon us from time to time. These sections seem to rise so rapidly from the sloth of continuous unchangeableness that a native, after returning from a five years' absence abroad, is almost beguiled into a doubt as to the evidence of his senses.

Some comparatively recent instances of this will at once present themselves. There is the Battery and its surrounding neighborhood. Who ever dreamed, a decade ago, that such noble structures as the Produce Exchange, the Washington, Welles, Standard Oil Company, United States Army and other buildings would, in a very few years, grace the historic spot hallowed in the memories of the generation gone by. Yet it is but a decade since old tumble-down buildings stood in the place of many of these important pieces of architecture. Again, who would have predicted, ten years ago, that Wall street would be lined with a score of immense buildings

Dock Department, as part of the plan, to build immense piers between West 10th and West 23d streets, 80 feet wide and from 470 to 530 feet long, and slips 155 to 175 feet wide, so that the largest ocean steamships could be accommodated. At the new West Washington Market the plan contemplates the construction of four piers, two of them 75 feet in width and two 40 feet in width, with a length of from 166.5 to 177.5 feet. These would accommodate schooners and other small craft and make the market a valuable point of distribution, which, owing to the deficient docking facilities, it is debarred from being at present. The cost of carrying out this plan, which is one of the most important under the consideration of the Dock Department, has been estimated at \$8,861,645, and would involve the purchase of real estate costing \$4,194,150, about 3,497 feet of private bulkhead rights costing \$524,550, etc., and would give the city nineteen new large piers, two half piers and two small piers. These, Commissioner Post says, would yield a revenue of \$800,000. Deducting \$63,000 for taxes, a net rental would be obtained of \$737,000, equal to $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on \$29,480,000, not to speak of the great benefit which would accrue to the shipping and commerce of the city. It is urged by the opponents of this such as now grace its sides between Broadway and Pearl street. Then there is "Newspaper Row," Nassau street, Broadway, south of the Post-office, Cortlandt, Pine, William and other streets, all of which have undergone an equally rapid change.

And now another section, partly of a business and partly of a residence character, bids fair to be improved. The prospective change is different, however, than that south of the City Hall. It is rather in the nature of improvements of a special character. The map which accompanies this article partly illustrates these changes. Not that they have all been definitely decided upon, but only that they foreshadow what is in store for the locality.

Foremost among the proposed improvements comes the question of widening the thoroughfare running along the water front between West 10th and West 23d streets. At present it is only an average of about 70 feet wide, while the accommodation for steamships and sailing vessels is altogether too meagre. The result is that street traffic is impeded, while many of the steamship lines are forced to go to Jersey City, Brooklyn and Hoboken to obtain the accommodations which they would prefer having in New York City. The improvement contemplates cutting through the blocks between West 10th and West 23d streets, as shown on the blocks on the diagram, marked "B." By slicing off about an average of 180 feet from each of these blocks a thoroughfare 250 feet in width would be created. This would make the street running along the Hudson River, from the Battery northwards, an average width of about 250 feet, so said Dock Commissioner Edwin A. Post, to a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE. It would relieve the crowded street traffic and would enable the vast improvement that a really comprehensive estimate of the entire cost would be about $23,000,000, and that the money could be expended to better advantage in other directions on the water front. A measure was introduced last session to enable the plan to be carried out, but it failed to become a law. It will be introduced again next session, possibly with some changes of the original plan, so Commissioner Post informed the writer.

The second improvement of the section included in our diagram is that of the contemplated extension of Bethune street, from Greenwich street to Hudson street or 8th avenue, as shown on the blocks marked "D." The plan, as recently adopted and approved by the Board of Street Opening and Improvement, cuts through Nos. 799, 781 and part of 783 Greenwich street, at a point commencing on the east side of that street, 136.3 feet north of Bank street, and Nos. 593, 595 and part of 597 Hudson street, on the west side of that street, commencing 99.8 feet north of Bank street and running through from Greenwich to Hudson street, to a width of 50 feet. It takes in a five-story brick storage building, owned by R. Taggart, and four three-story dwellings, and it also affects the party walls of two buildings, three-story and five-story storage warehouses. These party walls will have to be made exterior walls. The improvement, when carried out, will give Bethune street direct communication with Abingdon square, 8th avenue, Hudson, Bank, West 12th and Bleecker streets. It will cost $84,925. Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment will shortly be appointed in the matter.

Another change, though it is now as problematical as three months ago it was apparently an accomplished fact, is the possibility of the block marked "A" and "C," being taken for new Appraiser's stores. If so, the present stores will be torn down to make way for a modern building to cost $650,000, more or less, that amount having been appropriated by Congress for the building, exclusive of $2,000,000 for sites for a new Custom House and stores. The present stores are leased to the government at an annual rental of $65,000, and ex-Secretary Fairchild negotiated the purchase of the property at a figure stated to be $435,000. Secretary of the Treasury Windom has repudiated this purchase, on the ground that he has an absolute right to withdraw from the contract of his predecessor because the owners could not furnish a clear title to their property, although two extensions of time had been granted them wherein to do so. Besides this, Mr. Windom seems to think that the sale was a blunder from a real estate point of view, if not from its location, and he therefore appointed a committee to examine into the whole matter, consisting of the two assistant secretaries and the supervising architect of the Treasury. These gentlemen have given several hearings at Washington to the parties interested, the last being on the 28th ult., when Secretary Windom came down to hear the evidence, and remained two hours at the meeting. The Produce Exchange contingent seems to be pulling strongly for the Battery site, and the dry-goods contingent seems equally determined that it shall be in the line between their warehouses and the ocean steamers. The committee will leave Washington for New York within the next two weeks, when they will carefully go over the ground in person and give a thorough consideration to the question in all its bearings. They will then make their report to Secretary Windom. In the meantime nothing further will be done as to locating the site for the stores. A proposition for the purchase of the present stores and their alteration to meet the requirements has been tabooed, on the ground that it will cost nearly as much to make the changes as it would to erect an entirely new building, while the results will not be one-tenth as satisfactory.

The Hudson River Tunnel will somewhat beneficially affect the section shown on the diagram, but in an indirect manner, as it will open at Morton street, several blocks distant, running in an oblique line under the river to 15th street, Jersey City. It will be 5,000 feet long, 18 feet high and 16 feet wide, and will connect several of the big lines of railroad with New York City that are now deprived of direct access to the Metropolis by rail.

So that, taken as a whole, the section shown on the diagram bids fair to be vastly improved, not indeed in a year or a season, but within the next half decade.

Building Association Notes.

The tax scare which the association movement has suffered from for the past few weeks will within a short time be either dissipated or confirmed. The counsel of the East Side Association has applied for a writ of certiorari, and the case will be argued during the coming week. Meanwhile there is not very much fear as to the result. The impression is growing that the Tax Commissioners have not very much legal basis for their action, and that the consequence of the trouble will be a definite clearing up of the whole subject, so that in the future the relation of the associations to the tax laws will be accurately established. Indeed, the commissioners themselves are not desirous of pressing the matter, and if beaten will make no appeal.

The grounds for this hopefulness seem to be pretty sound. The Home-seeker prints this week the opinions on the subject of five legal experts connected with the association movement, but not biased by that fact. It will be remembered that in the brief filed by the counsel of the East Side Association most emphasis was laid on the fact that it was the evident intention of the legislators, who passed the act of 1887, that the associations were to be exempted, and that the Tax Commissioners should be guided by this intention. But this fact, budding as it might be with hopes of future amelioration in case the associations were taxed, could not very well be used against the commissioners in taxing the associations organized under another law, which provided for no exemption. These experts, among whom are G. W. Thomas, of Rochester; S. W. Sawyer, District Attorney of Wayne County; District Attorney Drew, of Cincinnati, and J. B. Sabine, of the Western Union Association, lay the stress of their argument, on the fact that a building association is substantially a body of men organized for the purpose of putting by a certain amount of money at stated intervals—that is, they are savings institutions, co-operative banks, and as such are explicitly exempted from taxation by the act of 1880. It is on this ground that they will claim release from any share in the State burdens.

The Metropolitan League holds its next meeting on the 26th of this month, in the hall of the Industrial Building Association of Brooklyn. On this occasion there will be a continuation of the discussion of premiums, which excited so much attention and interest at the last meeting in New York. Several additional organizations have signified their intention of joining the league, and the secretary expects ultimately that all the Metropolitan associations will come in.

An association will shortly be organized by the single tax men of New York and Brooklyn. In getting up this association they are actuated, perhaps, as much by political motives as by a desire to provide themselves with roofs of their own. They desire very likely to obtain a footing in the movement, and interest those who are interested in the associations in the single tax plan. The association men are generally people of energy and ideas, who can very well make themselves felt—that is, they are householders, actual or prospective men, whose opinions command respect. And it is to this class of men, and among this class of men, that the single tax movement has and desires to have its strength.

The past week has been a very active one, so far as the making of loans is concerned. The Daily News Association sold on Friday night, the 6th ult., $20,000, and during the week one Brooklyn association sold $19,000, and another $14,000. Other sales bring the total up to over $60,000. This means the institution of nearly twenty-five new householders.

One of the Assistant Superintendents of the census has been sending communications to many of the most intelligent association men all over the country, asking them what, in their opinion, should be the form in which questions should be put to the different associations for statistical purposes. Consequently it would seem as if, after all these years, some comprehensive, fruitful facts will be obtained on the subject. The results of the Pennsylvania Statistical Board have not as yet been obtained in this city; but they will shortly be available. They have, it is said, been intelligently collected under the supervision of one of the most experienced association men in the State and are based on returns from nine hundred different organizations.

Some facts interesting to people connected with the building movement may be gleaned from the second annual report of the Rhode Island Bureau of Industrial Statistics. Of the individual workingmen who made returns to the bureau, only one out of the 113 owns his own home—not altogether a pleasant fact considering the general intelligence of the men and the circumstances under which they live. One can understand how impossible it is for a laboring man to have his own house in New York, but where land is cheap, as it must be on the outskirts of Fall River, it is not encouraging to find the laborers so backward in this respect. The rent bills of these 113 families average from $5.43 to $7.11 per month. Such men could afford to pay say $6 a month into an association and thus obtain houses at a cost of $700 or $800. This is only one-third of the average cost of houses built by associations in this vicinity; but the principle, if beneficial in one instance, would be equally so in another.

Sanitary and Plumbing News.

"As an illustration of vexatious restrictions under the Health Laws," said a prominent real estate owner "let me cite a house on one of the avenues on the west side which has been built about eight years and used as a warehouse where lofts were rented out for light manufacturing purposes. It has been on the owner's hands for about two years, and recently he received an offer for it for lodging house purposes. A survey was made of the building by some of the Sanitary Inspectors of the Board of Health and it was found to be in first-class order—ceilings 12 feet high, windows containing from 35 to 40 square feet of air and light space, but the license was refused because it had not the open space at rear from the ground up, the store, or first floor, being extended at the rear so as to cover the entire lot. It was no use to offer to put a light shaft through the building nor to make the claim that above the roof of the extension there was 20 feet of space. The license was refused, although there was abundance of capital to comply with every other requirement. The building is still unoccupied while in the same block an old three-story and attic building has been licensed because there happens to be the required space at the back, which is partly occupied with water-closets of a very ancient style and character."

How to run the supply pipe for water-closet cisterns in a building was the subject of a suit tried in the City Court recently under the following circumstances: The master plumber, it appears, ran only one line of pipe from the tank on roof for the two sets of closets placed one on each side of the water-closet shaft, to which the owner and his architect took exception. The second supply pipe was then put in at the request of owner, and payment being demanded for it (about $50 or thereabouts) was refused. A lien was then placed on the building for some $300 or thereabouts, and it was in connection with this lien that the suit was brought. Considerable expert testimony was offered on the interpretation of the plumbing specification, but the weight of opinion was against the plumber, and the case was decided in favor of the owner. It is a common but a bad practice to supply water-closets on each side of a shaft with one supply pipe, as it necessitates the carrying the pipe across the shaft on each floor, by which it runs the risk of being frozen in winter time.

The Board of Health has been called upon this week to take very prompt and decided action in relation to an alleged attempt to influence the judgment of the Sanitary Superintendent, Dr. Day, in his demands on a prominent builder and real estate owner for sanitary repairs to several of his houses. The builder, it is said, inclosed a $20 bill to Dr. Day, and asked for some modification of the "orders" already issued, but Dr. Day, who was out of the city, forwarded the letter with the inclosure to President Wilson, and it is probable that the liberal though injudicious act will be the subject of investigation. It is unfortunate that there should be so widespread a feeling that public office is mainly sought for the emoluments it brings outside the legitimate remuneration attached to the position. A year or two ago a somewhat similar case was before the public in which a bribe of $25 was offered to a Health Inspector to condone an infraction of some of the Health ordinances. He promptly brought the matter to court, but we never heard that anything came of it. Possibly this latest case may end in the same way, and only be recalled to memory in the future when temptation is once more thrown in the path of some "poor but honest" official of the city government.

A recent case of suffering and sorrow brought about by defective sewerage is deserving of mention at the present time, if only to bring into notice the condition of many of the tenements on the east and west sides of this great city. We refer to the laboring man whose wife recently died in Bellevue Hospital from blood poisoning, brought on by endeavoring to clean the opening of a sewer grating from which foul odors emanated. In the cleaning out operation the woman cut her finger; blood poisoning set in, and her death occurred in a few days. The case appears to be an isolated one from lack of information on the subject, but if any one would take the trouble to visit some of the basements as high up as 59th street he would not be surprised to hear of such cases frequently. The basements on the west side, between 42d and 50th streets, from 7th avenue to the river, would afford considerable of profitable employment to some sanitary agent of the Board of Health. These basements are unhealthy to the last degree, and unless some action is taken to compel the respective agents to attend to this sanitary condition there will necessarily be a considerable amount of sickness which might well be prevented.

At the recent annual Convention of Master Plumbers of the United States held in Pittsburg, Pa., a paper was read on the relative advantage of cast and wrought iron pipes for house drainage which contained a great deal of common sense knowledge of the subject. It was contributed by a master plumber from Kansas City, Mo., and was evidently prepared with care and a proper knowledge of the subject. The essayist gave his opinion in favor of the cast iron pipe of extra heavy quality, which he considers to be superior for many reasons to the wrought iron, some of which he gives. One of these is the weakness of the screw or threaded portion of the wrought iron which is so much thinner than the other part of the pipe, the difficulty of getting the entire of the threaded portion into the fitting and of operating a length of wrought iron in a narrow space where it is not easy to screw it up in the fullest manner. Then in the matter of cutting a length it requires special facilities which are not needed with cast iron pipe, which the essayist considers better for every practical purpose, whether it be in the matter of tight joints or support for water-closets in the event of the settling of a building. In fact there is no condition under which the extra heavy cast iron pipe will not, he considers, fully answer all the purposes of plumbing and drainage more satisfactory than the wrought iron article.

The "trade protection" question, as it always does, came up for discussion at the Master Plumbers' annual Convention, and was made the "issue of the hour." For several years past the struggle for the upper hand in the matter of sales has helped to make the conventions lively, the master plumbers denying the right of the manufacturers to sell to any one but plumbers, and the manufacturers determined to "do as they please." The restrictions hitherto proposed by the plumbers embrace sale transactions in every class of plumbing goods (gas fixtures omitted), but at this last convention the same restriction is made to apply to sales in gas fixtures as well. The following new "rules" were accordingly added, and a new element of discord introduced in addition to those already in existence:

That no member of this association shall purchase anything from manufacturers who allow their agents to canvass from consumers direct.

That no member of this association shall hang gas fixtures, purchased by consumers, unless proper discount is obtained on same.

That no member of this association shall hang any gas fixtures in buildings where another member is at work plumbing, etc., provided fixtures have been purchased through manufacturers' agents.

Who shall attempt to deny now that the plumbers "want the earth and the fullness thereof." We can just imagine some of our large plumbing supply houses afraid to sell to any but a plumber. It does not look likely, and as for gas fixtures being included we are inclined to the belief that there will be an immense amount of "gas" expended in the useless effort to bind the gas-fixture men. Possibly, however, the plumbers will try it.

It was confidently prophesied a year ago that the severe test exacted by the Health Department of this city would have the effect of relegating many of the plumbers to jobbing work through their inability to conform to the exactions of the department. Strange to say, it is having a different effect, and new plumbing firms, composed generally of young men who start out for themselves, are coming into existence every other month. How they manage to get along at first is a problem, considering the "cut rate" competition, but they manage to scramble through probably without realizing much on any particular job. They cut low in their estimates, and there is as a rule so large a discrepancy between the figures given in by them and others that it becomes a sort of Chinese puzzle to know how they come out. Yet it is strange that they carry out the contract sometimes with considerable delay and perhaps at all times with very little margin over their individual labor. The old plumbers acknowledge that the young fellows are "cutting the ground from under their feet," and we are credibly informed that their plumbing work is up to the water line of the Health Department. Better than all, the standard of the plumbing work is kept rising and there is no fear for the future.

Mr. Leonard D. Hosford says that he was the lowest bidder for the plumbing work in the down-town building spoken of in these columns last week, and that his estimate was $9,300 and not $8,500 as reported. In the last year or two he has done considerable work for the architect of the building, and thinks that if the latter had been intrusted with the letting of the contract it would have been given to him. He has not sued the owner, he says, but did send him a bill for $100 for time consumed in making the estimate.

Notice to Property-Holders.

CITY OF NEW YORK, FINANCE DEPARTMENT,)
COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE, July 5, 1889. (

In pursuance of Section 997 of the "New York City Consolidation Act of 1882," the Comptroller gives notice to all persons, owners of property, affected by the following assessment list, viz.:

STREET OPENING.

Juliet st, from Mott av to Walton av.
170th st, from Vanderbilt av East, to Webster av.
East 147th st, from Willis to Brook av.
—which were confirmed by the Supreme Court June 25th, 26th and 22d respectively, and entered on the 28th, 29th and 26th of June respectively, in the Record of Titles of Assessments, kept in the "Bureau for the Collection of Assessments and Arrears of Taxes and Assessments and of Water Rents," that unless the amount assessed for benefit on any person or property shall be paid within sixty days after the date of said entry of the assessment, interest will be collected thereon at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, from June 28th, 29th and 22d respectively. Payments to be made to the Collector of Assessments and Clerk of Arrears, between 9 A. M. and 2 P. M.

A Watery Question.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

How much longer will it be before water will be turned into the new aqueduct. The region of high ground on the west side, from 72d street to 110th, is suffering a veritable water famine. All pipes are dry above the first stories, except at night, and worse goes steadily to worse still.

HOUSE OWNER.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Assuming that the new aqueduct will deliver water into the Central Park Reservoir this year, will that give water, during the day time, on third stories of houses, say in 15th to 30th streets, between 5th and 6th avenues? We have not had water even in second stories between 6 A. M. and 9 P. M. for many years. Will not larger mains be necessary; and if so, should not they be at once laid and connected? This is a matter of importance to me. I do not want to put in a tank and pump, and must have water, yet my plumber says we will not be much better off when the new aqueduct is completed.

WEST TWENTY-SECOND STREET.

The new aqueduct will not deliver water to this city until next year, and when it does it is an open question whether our correspondent will get water on his third story floor. Chief Engineer Birdsall says that the probabilities are that those who live in the district named will get water on their upper floors, but the possibilities are that they will not. He would not like to guarantee that they will until the test is made. A duplicate set of water mains are already laid and connected to conduct a sufficient supply in the region bounded by Chambers and 80th streets, 1st and 10th avenues. These mains were commenced as far back as 1872, and were finished about 1884, and have cost about $5,000,000. With their aid the chief engineer is ready to deliver double the quantity of water now supplied south of 57th street. Every family living on high ground has been short of water simply because the demand has exceeded the supply for the last fifteen years. "We want about 40 per cent. more water," said the chief engineer, "than we are now getting. Our supply is 110,000,000 gallons per diem, when we require between 150,000,000 and 160,000,000. There is no danger of a famine, for our daily supply is likely to continue as large as it is at present. But I hope you will use the influence of your paper to get people to be careful not to waste any water this summer."

Municipal Reform.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

One of the most disappointing aspects of the work of the last Legislature was that not even any attempt was made by men like Crosby, who were pledged by their utterances to municipal reform, to further the very necessary improvements to be made in that direction. The reforms grouped under this head seem to have ceased to be living issues. When the agitation began many years ago a comprehensive scheme was laid out, the essentials of which were: (1) concentration of responsibility in the hands of the Mayor, (2) Home Rule, (3) the holding of municipal elections at a different time in the year from State and national elections. In the direction of this first reform something has been accomplished; in the direction of the second, almost nothing; and in the third, absolutely nothing; yet small as has been the result, our reformers appear to be satisfied with it. There is no consistent agitation for a further realization of the original scheme; yet the conduct of the last Legislature and the circumstances of the last election show clearly enough the undesirability of leaving the ordering of many of our purely municipal affairs in the hands of a legislative body which knows little about them and cares less, and which lacks dignity, sagacity and almost common honesty, and of allowing the purity of our municipal elections to be endangered by and their issues confused by holding them concomitantly with the State and national election.

In the agitation for carrying out these reforms no half way measure should be aimed at. We need not merely partial but complete control of our own municipal affairs, not merely partial but complete absolution from the political trimmers that congregate in the Capitol at Albany. I do not mean to say that our own Senators and Assemblymen are any too good, but ill-favored as they are the fact that they are "our own" is enough. We can turn them out if they deserve it. In this way we may not be able to prevent mistakes, but we can repair them. We shall lose, but we shall learn by losing.

This simple simplification and organization of our municipal affairs can be attained in only one way. Nothing that the Legislature at Albany can do or is willing to do is sufficient. New York City and all its surrounding dependencies should be formed into a separate State. We have really nothing in common with the counties north of the Harlem River; nothing, that is, which Congress cannot legislate upon. I throw out this suggestion to THE RECORD AND GUIDE to consider, because you have mentioned it in the past, and it is well worth reviving and emphasizing. I do not intend to discuss it, because it is not as yet a controversial question. No one, except your paper, so far as I know, ever thought of it. The difficulties in its way would be tremendous, but they would not be insurmountable.

ADOLPH HULMHEIMER.

As our correspondent says, this suggestion is not worth any lengthened discussion at present. We give his letter because we wish to keep before our readers the importance of this whole problem of municipal reform, and because we were disappointed, just as he was, by the inactivity of our reformers in not pushing these matters.

Just at present, when illustrations are wanted of our country's marvelous industrial progress, it is to the South we turn for figures. Newspaper reports seem to agree very generally in the statement that the rapidity of the development of that section of the country does not prevent it from being healthy. The New York Sun, of last Sunday, contained some interesting facts about the increasing business and population of Decatur, Alabama. The Tradesman, a prominent Southern paper, has published a statement showing the industrial situation of the South, as exhibited by the number of new industries established during the last three months. During that period there have been 1,021 new business ventures launched, against 690 in the previous quarter. The Tradesman considers the development of this last quarter to be healthier and more substantial in character than that of any previous period. These new business ventures embrace many different fields, and are all of them sanctioned by the actual resources of the country.

Real Estate Department.

There is absolutely nothing new to report concerning the market. Sales at the Exchange and in the brokers' offices have been few and generally unimportant. Trading continues to be active considering the dullness which is observable all over town among the dealers. Our column of personals gives the out-of-town address of many well-known real estate operators, who in season are to be seen at the Exchange and in the offices of prominent brokers.

The filings of conveyances and mortgages show a decrease in the number of transactions, but an increase in the amount involved.

Business for the week at the Exchange opened on Monday with but one announcement, viz.: the sale of the Bijou Opera House, which was postponed for the thirteenth time.

The sales bulletined for Tuesday were five in number and all pursuant to Court orders. Three were postponed or withdrawn and only two sales were carried out. One of these embraced about fourteen lots at Belmont, 24th Ward, belonging to the estate of August Meyer, and the number of buyers present from North New York was unusually large for this time of the season. The bidding was quite active and good prices were realized. A total of $12,850 was obtained for the entire property.

Wednesday's sales, although fairly numerous for this season of the year, were quite unimportant and the bidding was spiritless. Nothing occurred worthy of special mention.

There was only one sale bulletined for Thursday, and that was postponed.

Yesterday not a single sale was held, and the attendance on 'Change was very small.

On Thursday, the 18th inst., Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer some very desirably located parcels of improved and unimproved property at New Brighton, Staten Island. They comprise a dwelling with a plot of over six and one-half lots on the northwest corner of Franklin avenue and 2d street; ten good building lots on the latter street and two cottages and lots running through from 2d to 5th street and adjoining Christ (Episcopal) Church, one of the most select residence localities in the village.

On Tuesday, July 23d, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell, to close a partnership estate, a plot 46x117.6 on the south side of 34th street, and a plot on the north side of 33d street, between Lexington and 4th avenues. Seventy per cent. may remain at 4 per cent.

How to Draw a Contract.

An invaluable work for all dealers in realty is found in "The Guide to Buyers and Sellers of Real Estate," by Counsellor Geo. W. Van Siclen. This pamphlet, of only fifty-six pages, offers a complete solution of all the complicated questions that arise in drawing contracts. It discusses questions of titles, liens, curtesy and dower rights, deeds, searches, etc., and contains forms of contracts and judicial decisions which, with other general information, will go far towards making every man his own lawyer. It tells all about fixtures, assumption of mortgages, apportionment of rents, description of property, terms of payment, damages for failure to carry out contracts, information on setting aside contracts for mistake or fraud, and forms of deeds. Published by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, 191 Broadway. Price 50 cents.

Bound Volumes of the Record and Guide.

Subscribers and others can purchase at this office years 1887 and 1888 of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, handsomely bound in half morocco. This is a rare chance for real estate men who cannot afford to wait while their RECORDS are being bound. Volume XLII., the last half of 1888, or any other single volume, can be had for $4.75 per volume, or $9.50 per year.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—We find evidences of some disappointment over the conditions of the market for Common Hards, and even a slight reaction in value amounting to say 12½@25c. per M, according to quality, with the close still a little unsettled. It is not known that the general scope of the consumptive outlet has become curtailed materially, if at all, but work in many cases, it is said, has been rather slower, and to a considerable extent present wants are anticipated by more or less liberal purchases previous to the "fourth." Furthermore, there was an impression entertained by both dealers and consumers that about this time arrivals would be running light, when, as a matter of fact, they have come forward with some freedom at times, and, making an accumulation afloat, no doubt proved a factor instrumental in leading to a shading byreceivers who felt more or less anxious to have cargoes discharged and the boats sent back. So far as can be discovered there is no special feeling of depression existing under the current reaction on values, but conservative operators are disposed to look upon the developments as a warning that it will not do to attempt seeking extreme figures unless governing influences become more prominent in character. Consumption will be full and general no doubt, but thus far no actual scarcity of stock has occurred, and so far as can be learned there is likely to be a steady production. It is said that of late whenever the sky has been overcast, and there was the least reason to to apprehend a storm, a great many manufacturers have suspended moulding, yet the actual curtailment of production was not serious, and, as already intimated, barges were wanted on quick return trips for the purpose of reloading. Pales, in the meanwhile, manage to retain a fairly uniform position, and the arrivals are selling out reasonably close as they come to hand from day to day.

LATH.—A somewhat stronger tone has developed during the interval since our last. Demand did not take unusually full proportions, yet consumption has been going right along steadily, and dealers were constantly on the market looking for stock, which in conjunction with slower arrivals gave sellers greater advantages, and has marked the rate to a higher plane. Some of the trade are talking a little extravagantly of what they ask "to arrive." Every one on the market is familiar with this story; but what they actually can get seems to be about $2.20@2.25 for choice Maine and St. John stock, and $2.15 the inside and obtained on Machiar stock.

LIME.—There is not much new on this market, except that demand seems to be, doing rather better, and has steadily taken care of the stock as it comes to hand, with full previous rates ruling all around. The receipts coastwise have not been very full, neither has much State stock been ordered forward, and the representatives of manufacturers assert that they can and will prevent anything in the way of a surplus offering.

LUMBER.—Reports regarding the condition of trade evidently depend to a considerable extent upon the temper of those making them. Thus we find the sanguine dealer who already discovers that having passed the influence of the Fourth business is decidedly better and tending rapidly toward still greater improvement, while on the other hand many insist upon presenting a rather gloomy view of affairs, and claiming that the market is a great disappointment. A close knowledge of the actual influences to which the two extreme views owe their origin might fully justify them in exceptional cases, but a comparison of all suggestions indicates about a middle plane, and there is no doubt a good seasonable trade in all stable descriptions of both hard and soft woods with rather a growing tendency if anything. No general or anxious demand for bulk lots prevails, yet customers can always be found willing to negotiate, and where supplies promise to run scarce the payment of full prices is readily submitted to.

Eastern Spruce retains a pretty firm line of reports from the selling side, and buyers do not offer much in the line of controverting argument with no more than a natural line of fluctuation in value. The supply thus far received this season has about all been disposed of with a satisfactory degree of promptness and a large proportion of it passed into consumption, leaving behind but a small accumulation in dealers' hands; not an absolute scarcity as some of the trade suggest, yet placing stocks in a position where dealers can add to them a good advantage, and are very likely to do so where cost is not over-strained. The chances for any severe pressure of supplies from primary points are also considered quite remote, especially in the way of desirable stuff, either random or special, owing to the recent break in production to which we have called attention. As we close it is learned that production is now in full swing again at Bangor, the settlement of the strike, by a concession on the part of manufacturers having led to the return of the men to the steam mills on a ten hour basis. There has been quite an arrival here during the week of short and narrow stuff and the rate eased away, but large sizes remain very strong.

Piling retains a steady position. There may be now and then an odd lot obtainable at slightly modified rates, through momentary influences, but the buyer has to be right there to catch it, but for major portions of the offering, and especially stock in chains, only bids at full former figures are recognized.

Hemlock remains pretty firm, the general line of offerings proving rather moderate, and of choice Pennsylvania cuts particularly. To some extent the effort to positively "bull" the market has proven a failure, yet the advantages obtained by sellers some little time ago are well supported, and neither on open offering or special contract does there appear any inclination to offer buyers any noticeable favors. State stock is somewhat irregular, but on the whole inclines to reasonable steadiness, and reports of business at extreme low figures lack confirmation in such shape as to afford a basis for quotations.

White Pine still finds a market more or less stubborn, resisting efforts to infuse a stimulating tone, and indeed it is doubtful if well posted sellers waste any great amount of time in that direction. A nice parcel of box boards or a good line of shippers are all right, as custom is waiting for such goods, but otherwise buyers must be hunted up, and when found the proper policy is to close with them whenever they are willing to pay market rates. The absence of any important open market offering has been commented upon, but it does not signify any special scarcity, and is merely the careful methods of sellers, as already suggested.

Yellow Pine undergoes little or no change worthy of note. On local and domestic shipping orders some business is doing all the while, and there is also now and then a chance to pick up a deal on f. o. b. trade, with the demand as a rule fairly met and no more than ordinary negotiation necessary. Taking a general range the run of cost cannot be said to differ materially from that for some time ruling, but opposing elements existing in the market insinuate a weaker tone among those supposed to be pledged to the maintenance of the situation.

Carolina Pine seems to be moving along to about the usual extent and without really new features. Supply and demand are pretty well gauged to an equitable balance, and with pretty much all manufacturers never fully recognizing the necessity for preserving a high standard of quality business is conducted without many of the grounds of complaint existing in former years.

Hardwoods meet with about the usual demand, and there is little or no change in cost for any description so far as a general average of values may be concerned, though, of course, minor fluctuations take place on all grades according to special influences, etc. Actual consumption is increasing somewhat, but to a considerable extent draws upon stocks accumulated by manufacturers in port on purchases at primary points. The call for export has fair proportions, but as a rule still insists upon close selections and the best of quality.

Shingles have on the whole quite as good a market as usual at this season, and all grades commonly sold have secured their due proportion of demand. Offerings to balance the outlet can as a rule be found, and there is no confirmed report of any recent change in value.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From an editorial in the Northwestern Lumberman we take the following selections:

That the wholesale shipping trade in white pine has been seriously crippled at this point during the past two years is incontrovertible. That what remains is so cut up by competition that it is next to profitless is also beyond question. Yellow pine in the Southwest and to some extent all over the Northwest, direct shipment from the mills of Wisconsin and the increasing use of poplar and the hardwoods have cut off outside trade. The surrounding communities are less dependent on the Chicago market than in former years. The great shippers at this point have the present season encountered a crisis. They must have more trade and cheaper lumber or restrict their operations to the carrying of smaller stocks and a partial dependence on the local requirements. That is to say, something must happen to enlarge the opportunities of the wholesale trade or it will lose its pre-eminence, and this market will fall into the category of ordinary distributing points.

The different large operators in a wholesale way express various opinions as to the best means of restoring the shipping trade. Some demand lower Western rail rates. Others want the manufacturers to help the trade out of its dilemma by reducing the price of lumber at the mills. Others look to free Canadian logs and lumber as the only salvation of the Chicago wholesale market.

The demand for lower prices for cargo lumber will be met by the logic of commercial law. The manufacturers will sell their lumber cheaper when they have to, and not before. They will not reduce prices merely to keep alive a few big wholesale yards in this city. As long as the lumber goes, they will hang on for prices. They are indifferent as to how mill output is disposed of, whether it is distributed from the great wholesale yards, is retailed out for local consumption, or goes East for a market. They cannot sell lumber much, if any, lower than they do now on the basis of current prices of stumpage and logs. The proposition that the abrogation of the customs duty on Canadian logs and lumber would restore the life and magnitude of the Chicago market is a favorite one with some dealers.

And in reviewing the general lumber market, says:

It now appears as if the current July would be the quietest month for the lumber trade that has been experienced for several years. The demand in all parts of the country has disappointed expectations cherished at the opening of the year, though the consumptive requirement in most of the large cities for building purposes has been up to the average of former years. The wholesale trade has been spiritless for several months, and, as a consequence, bulk stocks have not moved with that freedom which rejoices the manufacturer's heart. Something like an oppression has rested on the distributing trade at large. Dealers have complained more than usual of competition and unprofitable prices. They have purchased stocks grudgingly, as if their money were better than the lumber, and as if they had little faith in future values. This has been particularly so at the West, a state of affairs which has grown out of the new rivalry between white and yellow pine, the enlarged capacity of Wisconsin mills and the increased facilities afforded by the railroads for distributing lumber directly from manufacturing points.

The Mississippi Lumberman as follows:

It is evident that the lumber trade has settled into the midsummer lethargy. Nowhere has there been any improvement in the volume of trade during the past week, and a great deal of complaint is heard that trade is dull, and that buyers have it about their own way. The reduction in Missouri rates has failed to stimulate shipments in that direction as it was thought would be the case. It is evident to those who do not want the lumber and are not to be coaxed into buying it, even though the rate is somewhat lower than it has been. The flavor of permanency which has been given to the rate is calculated to counteract any of the usual influences exerted by the cut rates which are likely to be at any time restored to higher and more permanent rates. Buyers are disposed to place their orders when they need the material, and with the feeling that so far as freight rates are concerned it makes very little difference whether the order is placed now or by-and-by. This is the prevailing condition despite the fact that the yellow pine manufacturers are clamoring for a reduction in rates corresponding to that conceded to the white pine men of the Northwest. The prospects are that this concession will not be made because it is well understood that the reduction to 33 cents, instead of 10 as originally demanded by the Alton, was a matter of compromise and agreement. The only element of weakness in the situation is found in the classification which extends the 13 cent rate to the white pine lumber, shingles and lath only.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LONDON.

American Black Walnut.—We are told there has not been quite so much doing lately in either logs or lumber. Yardkeepers and consumers alike are heavily stocked, and can only be induced to buy at all largely at very low prices.

American Whitewood.—In this a pretty good trade continues to be done, but poor quality rough stuff, such as we have lately seen so much of landed at the wood wharves, is never inquired for, and is not wanted here. Stock of this character can only be sold at a very low price, and, when offered in catalogue without reserve, the price realized in some cases barely covers freight and charges.

American Oak.—Logs move off slowly, but for lumber there is a fairly good demand. The recent unreserved sales have cleared off a large amount of cut stuff, the greater part of which is now held by the wholesale firms at the docks, who appear to have secured some rare bargains. This is the result of overstocking the market, and shippers will do well to pay heed to this.

GLASGOW.

Some large shipments of oak planks, walnut and whitewood logs, &c., have come by the Lord Londonderry (s) from Baltimore, as will be seen from the list of imports. The oak planks, which comprise a number of extra lengthy pieces for carriage building, go into the hands of the railway companies ex quay, being a portion of the extensive contract lot they fixed some time ago. A beginning has been made, we observe, to yarding some of the logs by this steamer. The small parcel of States oak logs is the first, we think, for this year, whereas at corresponding date of last year there had been upwards of 900 logs States oak imported, which amount, however, was much above the ordinary import.

Prices generally are well maintained, and seem likely to continue so, with a fair demand, and rates of freight, as at present, firm.

NAILS.—Demand is claimed to be about up to calculations, and the general run of reports has cheerful construction. Buyers, however, are not easily hurried in their movements, and controlling supplies is depended upon as the most effective agent in maintaining values. We quote at $1.80@1.85 per keg for car lots, and $1.90@1.95 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Business undergoes no great change, the current line of demand wanting little more than enough stock for prompt, regular consumptive capacity. Against the outlet afforded the offering is ample, and the general run of prices about steady. There is more or less uncertainty about leads, but well posted operators have an idea that it will be the policy of the combine to keep the rates easy and avoid all movements tending to curtail consumption. Linseed Oil meeting with fair demand, and steady at 58@59c. for Western, and 60@61c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has found a somewhat irregular demand, but on the whole the movement was reasonably full, and prices about steady at former figures. We quote at 37½@39c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, &c.

TAR AND PITCH.—There is little or nothing new only a moderate and somewhat uncertain demand prevailing, buyers investing merely for immediate wants. Prices remain about as before. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.45 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

For tables of Building Material prices see pages vii., viii., ix. and x.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

No. 1,114

The stock market during the past week has been dull; and, considering the persistent bear attacks upon it, as steady as could be expected. Its future depends, as all summer markets do, upon the outcome of the crops. There will be the usual telegrams from Chicago and points West, telling of disaster in this section or that, and these telegrams will have the usual amount of truth in them. Very often they are sent with the intent to deceive, and even when they are true they are false by implication, for they do not tell the whole truth. Every year necessarily there are certain sections where droughts or rains hurt the crops. Whenever and wherever this occurs it is telegraphed East, the consensus of these items making a large enough total to scare unthinking speculators. There are no telegraphs, however, from the vast sections where the weather pursues the even tenor of its way. This practice of proclaiming all the bad news reminds one of Bacon's story, so often quoted, of the mariner, who upon going to sea was advised to wear around his neck a piece of the holy cross. A list was shown him of all those who had been saved by this blessed method. The seafarer looked at the list and said: "Yes; but where are those that were drowned?" These misleading telegrams, however, really affect the market very little. It is only a widespread disaster such as a frost extending over a number of States that would provide justification for a serious fall in values. To that extent dealers in the "street" are in the hands of the weather God.

The Gas Commission have just completed letting the contracts for the electric lights in this city during the coming year. The price to be paid for every lamp per night varies from 24 to 45 cents. Chicago pays for the same service 15 cents, and in some cities out West the cost is as low as 8 cents. By-and-by citizens, instead of grumbling about the amount of their tax bills will investigate for themselves the expenses of the city. One of the first things that will strike them will be the vast amount of money which the municipality throws away as profits to corporations. Chicago obtains its electric light at half the price New York pays because it has ceased to pay tribute to monopolies or dividends on their watered stock. The city owns its own electric light plant and consequently obtains the light it needs at cost. The difference between 15 cents and 45 which New York pays consists largely of "profits." Elsewhere we publish a statement reported to have been made by Comptroller Myers to the effect that the city's expenses could be met entirely by the proceeds from franchises which are now granted to corporations for nothing or next to nothing. This is in substance what THE RECORD AND GUIDE has been saying for years, but this is the first indication that our city officials are recognizing the truth of it. It is to be hoped that Comptroller Meyers will not be content with merely stating the fact he recognizes, but will use his efforts to realize it.

The annual objugation of the New York tenement house has now fairly commenced. There is no doubt that the tenement house is very far from being an ideal habitation and is the cause of much physical and moral degeneration. But to cry out against tenement house owners and builders as some papers are doing, as though they were responsible for the evils of tenement life, is about as ridiculous as to criticize the manufacturers of high silk hats because that kind of head gear is absurd and badly adapted to its purpose. There are tenement houses, not because there is anything in human nature that specially delights in building such dwellings, but because there is what may be termed "tenement house people"—people who find that such habitations on the whole suit their condition better than do any other. Before we can get rid of the tenements we must get rid of the conditions which make the tenement a necessity. To do this, one thing perhaps above all others is needed in New York, and that is cheap, adequate rapid transit. People of small means can not live even in the northern part of this city if they wish to. Our present means of transportation are too slow. Our population must huddle together because it cannot expand. The establishment of adequate rapid transit would be one of the most powerful blows that could be dealt at the tenement house and its evils.

Some change will have to take place after the coming census is taken either in the number of Congressional representatives or in the ratio of Congressional representation to the inhabitants. The House at present consists of 325 members, one for every 154,325 inhabitants, on the basis of the tenth census. Assuming a population of about 65,000,000, this would mean either over 420 representatives on the same basis, or an increase of the ratio of constituency to about one to every 200,000. It has been the usual custom to enlarge both the number of representatives and the size of the constituency, and it is to be presumed that the same course will be followed this time. Three hundred and seventy-five representatives are by no means too large a number for a population of 65,000,000. There would be objections, however, to such an increase if the House continue to sit as they do now. Already there is such a shuffling, rustling and whispering that a speaker cannot be heard thirty feet away unless the importance of the occasion warrants an unusual amount of quietude and attention. Add fifty more whisperers and rustlers and the din might become unbearable. The House ought to follow the suggestion of ex-Mayor Hewitt and divide its hall into two sections, one to be devoted to debating and to be arranged with benches, as it is in the House of Commons, the other to be fitted with the present desks, whereat the legislator could read his papers and write his letters.

Of course very many of those large investments of foreign capital in this country which we have heard of lately are purely mythical. The foreigner is not buying up our industries in any such wholesale way as rumor and report say. But even if it were all true the cry raised by many newspapers against "foreign capital" would not be a whit less silly than it is. It is difficult to see how the investment of capital, foreign or native, in industry can affect the condition of this country any way but favorably. Its chief results are the employment of labor and the development of our resources. Most of our railroads have been built and many of our largest enterprises established by foreign capital, and no one complains. The objections made now are due to a mental limitation, which may be termed economic myopia—a shortsightedness, which prevents many people from seeing the whole of the matter at once. They see that this inflow of capital makes life harder for a few individuals, and not looking further to see the greater benefits which accrue to the nation at large they cry against it. It is in this way that some people denounce labor-saving machines as an evil. They notice that a few individuals are put out of work for a time by the introduction of some device, but they ignore the greater benefits which the whole community obtain.

There is much comicalness to be found between the lines in the reports which the daily newspapers give of the "severe" lecture which Superintendent Murray gave to the captains and officers of the police force under him, to the effect that the saloons, pool rooms and other gambling dens in the city must be closed—as though the police were just beginning their efforts in this direction. The reports said the Superintendent assured his subordinates that he was really in earnest. The trouble is, something more is needed than the Superintendent's assertion to convince law-breakers that any one is in earnest in the matter. The mere knowledge that any earnestness existed would, without further action, close half the illegal places in the city. The trouble is, no one believes in the earnestness either of the law, or the police, or the Superintendent. Our excise law and laws against gambling are simply stupendous farces and create nearly as much criminality as they suppress. It is of a different kind it is true.

The talk about a railroad trust, embracing all the competing lines in the Northwest, is premature. Undoubtedly there will some time be such a combination. When a passerby sees a plot of vacant ground in the heart of a great city he can predict with all the certainty in the world that before many years are out that property will be improved. The parcel's value is derived from the advantages it possesses for improvement. It makes no difference who the owner is; if the man has common sense he will not pay heavy taxes over a long series of years and get no return whatever for the expenditure. So it is with two competing railroads. They begin by fighting; and not being able to destroy they simply exhaust one another. Then they think the matter over, feel their empty pockets, and enter into negotiations for consolidation. As long as the competition is severe the combination is inevitable. In addition, there is another way in which two railroads consolidate. One eats up the other. In both cases it will be seen that the co-operation is forced, if not on the two companies, at least upon one of them. The history of the railroads in this country is one continued illustration of these facts. The period of most rapid consolidation was that subsequent to 1873, when the collapse of the inflation previous to that time left most of the companies in such a weakened condition that many were obliged to come together for natural support. The practical consolidation of the West Shore with the New York Central was brought about by the same conditions, as was the recent formation of the Interstate Railway Association in the West.

A trust of the railways in the Northwest would simply be the completion of a process which was begun by the formation of the Interstate Railway Association. The latter, necessary as it was and beneficial as it has been, is only a makeshift. It was put up merely for protection against a heavy storm, but it was not put up to endure. Very probably it will fall apart; but if so, only to be succeeded by a more permanent structure. The necessity for it will remain. The great railroads centreing around Chicago, and connecting with St. Paul, Minneapolis and Kansas City, meet at so many points, are so closely knit together, that no difference in rates is possible without widespread confusion. They must be worked in combination. The Interstate Railway Association simply gave a frail and halting promise that they would not be worked in competition. That negative promise must become a positive guarantee. The union must be made practically indissoluble. The roads must be not only not worked apart; they must be worked together. Doubtless it will be some time before this is brought about, but come it must.

A more astounding case of official red-tapeism than that presented by A. S. T., in a letter to the Evening Post, it has never been our misfortune to see. There is very often more or less formality about the methods of governmental employes, and the New York departments have never seemed any worse in this respect than those of other cities or countries. But, according to the story of this writer, our city offices are simply one motley mass of formality, negligence and incapacity; so much so, indeed, that we cannot consider the case to be a representative one. It seems that A. S. T. was interested in some property in Pearl street on which certain back taxes for six years were unpaid, constituting a lien upon the property. These taxes were in litigation, there being a suit against the city demanding their cancellation—a claim which the Corporation Counsel had decided to yield. A. S. T. seems to have been a careful man almost to fussiness, and he set about to follow the matter out and get the taxes on his house declared void. According to his story, he called at the different departments twelve distinct times over a space of at least twelve months, and the matter had proceeded no farther at the end of that period than at the beginning. He is referred to a clerk named Evans, and after waiting three months to allow the latter to recover from sickness, finds that the man knows nothing about it. He is referred to a law clerk and finds ultimately that that official knows as little as or less than Mr. Evans. He makes three or four calls on account of a letter which he is told he must get from the Corporation Counsel to the Comptroller, only to have the letter mislaid by the clerks in the latter's office with the pleasant prospect before him of going over the whole matter again. The story is told in an interesting, clear way which carries conviction with it. We should like to hear the other side of it, if there is any.

According to the latest government crop reports we can expect only an average production of wheat. The Pacific slope has suffered heavily from a protracted drought, the Southern crop has suffered considerable damages from the rains and floods, and in the Northwest the weather has been too dry to make a heavy harvest possible. To counterbalance this shortage of supply the farmers in the Northwest will get better prices, for there is a short crop in Russia and India also, and by no means an extra large production in Germany, Austria and Italy. If things remain as they are, there will probably be a boom in the wheat market during summer and fall some thing similar to that which occurred last year.

It is a somewhat peculiar circumstance that in spite of the fact that it is a very doubtful question whether the wisest method for a central authority to raise an extra large sum of money is by taxation or by loan, nevertheless it has been almost the universal practice to use the latter means. Doubtless in some cases this device of falling back on loans is a forced one. France, for instance, at the present time and at other periods of her history, finds it impossible to meet current expenses by means of taxation; and Russia is in the same position. They really do not better themselves by resorting to this makeshift policy, as any child may see; they are simply driven to it. As a matter of fact, whether the officials are conscious of it or not, borrowing is always a forced measure. An increase of taxation is unpopular, so that legislators like to fig-leaf it with a loan. Yet that this is a bad policy, and when continuously pursued is a sign of disintegration and weakness, does not admit of a doubt. A strong government and a prosperous nation can always do without it. Napoleon waged for ten years a series of prodigious wars, and throughout the whole time borrowed only 200,000,000 francs. Why then should a prosperous city like New York rush to the money lenders whenever she needs capital for city improvements? If an aqueduct is to be built, or new parks bought, or a new municipal building constructed, it is always done by the issue of bonds. No one ever seems to think that it is desirable for the city to pay its way.

What is the justification for this system of borrowing? The only circumstance that can render it justifiable is this: If by the means of borrowing the cost of a given improvement can be distributed over a number of years, so that as a rule those that are benefited by it can be made to pay for it, why a loan is a good thing. On no other grounds can it be defended, for no matter where the money comes from it is so much subtracted from the productive fund of the community in that the loan differing from the tax certain individuals are helped by it for the moment. But, as a matter of fact, does the borrowing of money for an improvement mean the gradual payment of the cost by those who are benefited by it? There are few who would answer the question in the affirmative. It simply means the payment of more interest; there is no distribution of burden at all. Moreover, it may be very much doubted if the burden would not be distributed well enough if paid for immediately in cash out of the pockets of the taxpayers. An improvement seldom lasts over twenty or twenty-five years, and the majority of the ratepayers would get that much use out of it. Their sons could pay in turn for the water and pavements needed at the end of that period.

A Suggestion as to Pavements.

The question of new pavements and the expending of several millions thereon is now fairly before the people and the public authorities.

It is by no means an easy one to answer, and under the existing conditions probably no city ever had a more difficult problem to solve. This is due to the fact of the streets being constantly torn up to repair steam pipes and sewers, lay down or repair water and gas mains, subways, and railroad tracks.

With these conditions in view every one is asking what kind of pavement should we use?

It is perhaps correct to say that there is no pavement that is perfect; all have more or less serious defects when subject to the diverse traffic and other conditions of a large city. In making a selection the most we can do is to select the one that is "all round" the best.

It is commonly supposed that the choice is confined to the ordinary stone, asphalt, wood and macadam pavements. But this does not exhaust the list of practicable pavements by any means, and it is plain that the wisest selection can not be made unless every good pavement is considered.

A kind of pavement little known, but which certainly is one of the best in existence, is the Turin pavement, the pavement used in the city of Turin, in Italy. A drawing of it is given below*:

— SPECIFICATIONS. —

A foundation of 16" of Macadam Pavement surmounted by 4 courses of Granite Bridge stone, 2' wide and 6" deep and a Trap Block Pavement between bridge stones and curbing.

mounted by four courses of granite bridge stone laid longitudinally, with trap block pavement between bridge stone and curbing. By this means the wheels of the vehicles pass upon the bridge stones, and the horses upon the stone blocks. This makes nearly a noiseless pavement and enables horses to draw heavy loads with comparative ease. Travel upon it is as easy as upon our park roads.

About twenty-five years ago, we believe, pavement similar to this was laid in Jefferson street in this city. It proved a failure because, like many other things we do, it was done cheaply and imperfectly. It was surrounded by cobblestones instead of trap blocks, and the foundation was dirt instead of macadam.

The Commissioner of Public Works should certainly give consideration to the Turin pavement. Perhaps he may deem it proper to pave portions of Broadway, Madison and 5th avenues and some of the down town streets with it, where the traffic is heavy. An experiment of the kind would demonstrate its value in this country. In Turin it has been used for years.

It should be observed, finally, that there is no patent on the system and consequently the work can be given out as usual to general competition.

The Poll Tax.

A careful consideration of the constitutional amendment abolishing the poll tax in Pennsylvania was made impossible to the voters of that State by its submission upon the same ballot with the prohibition amendment. It was expected, however, that the friends of constitutional temperance reform would at least not so far forget the interests of their cause as to vote for the retention of a tax which has become a powerful instrument in the hands of the saloons for increasing their voting force at the polls. The majority in favor of retaining the tax was nearly as great as that against incorporating a prohibition provision in the State constitution, but these majorities were not received from the same sources, as it was naturally expected that they would be. The returns show that the "wet" cities and towns throughout the State furnished the chief support for the amendment abolishing the poll tax, while the "dry" rural districts rolled up heavy majorities against this amendment. Philadelphia which gave, as is well known, a large anti-prohibition vote opposed the poll tax with a majority of over 90,000 votes. The opposition to the poll tax in the larger cities and towns comes from the laboring classes, by whom this tax is considered unjust and oppressive, and from those who perceived what a hold it gave the hired mercenaries of the saloon upon the poor laborer. The result of the recent election in Pennsylvania is clearly a double victory for the saloons, and the stigma of defeat of the poll tax amendment must rest upon the country districts, for had they supported this amendment with half the zeal with which they did that in favor of prohibition, the iniquitous poll tax would have been wiped out of one more State in the Union.

There are economic as well as moral reasons why the poll tax should not be employed as a means of raising revenue for the State. It violates the fundamental principle of taxation, viz.: That all persons should contribute to the support of government in proportion to ability. What justice is there in a tax that exacts from the poor laborer as much as from the rich capitalist? The fact that the amount required every year from each person is always very small is no defense whatever of this tax. There are thousands of persons in our large cities who find it extremely difficult to pay even a poll tax of a dollar in addition to their other taxes. To a workman who earns wages barely enough to support his family—and there are thousands of them in this condition—it means food and shelter for a day. The poll tax, it is urged by its supporters, reaches that class of persons who do not own property and who should, in order that their interest in the affairs of administration be kept alive, contribute something to the State revenue. Undoubtedly citizens should be made to feel the working of government. In fact, the continuation of certain direct taxes is justified alone on the grounds that they keep the citizen in touch with the government. But does the poll tax reach the class which otherwise would pay no taxes, and does it have the effect attributed? Clearly not. In those States, as in Pennsylvania, where the payment of a poll tax is made a prerequisite for voting, the person who does not pay taxes on property is the one upon whom the campaign committees depend to "sell out in consideration of having his poll tax receipted." The poll tax does not reach this person, but is shifted to the committee. It would be little less than foolishness to assert that this class of voters were drawn closer to the affairs of government by such unscrupulous means. The statement was repeatedly made in defense of the poll tax during the recent campaign in Pennsylvania that a person who was not able to contribute a dollar toward the support of the State government should not be allowed to vote. If it is proposed to make financial ability to pay taxes the basis of qualification for voting, then why not come out plainly in favor of a direct charge for the privilege of voting? A proposition to regulate the franchise stated in this bold way would be received with the ridicule which it deserves, and would be at once voted down; yet the poll tax as it exists in Pennsylvania and some other States is nothing more nor less than a charge for the privilege of voting with a palatable coating.

Historically viewed, the poll tax has always been considered grievous and oppressive by the people of the older countries. It found its way into the revenue system of the United States when the line between the rich and the poor classes was not so distinctly drawn as at the present day; when the payment of a tax per capita meant nearly equality of sacrifice for each citizen. A few of the States, Maryland for instance, early perceived the inequality of the poll tax and abolished it. Thirty years ago over twenty-five States imposed the poll tax; since then the number has been reduced to fifteen. In none of the States where it is employed is this tax productive of a great amount of revenue. In Kentucky and West Virginia it is said that not much over half of the voting population pay the poll tax. The failure of the poll tax amendment in Pennsylvania will have a discouraging effect upon the similar attempts of other States to wipe out this unjust and antiquated tax.

The Bureau of Statistics has published some interesting figures on the liquor traffic. It has been commonly supposed that a reduction in the number of saloons would reduce the quantity of intoxicating drink consumed. This is the supposition underlying the High License plan. Yet it appears that while the number of liquor dealers (those paying a special liquor tax) has fallen from 208,014 in 1887 to 187,177 in 1888, the consumption of beer and distilled spirits has increased from 7.37 gallons per capita in 1870 to 11.25 gallons. The consumption of wine is undoubtedly larger to-day in this country than ever. Less spirits are consumed, however, than formerly, but there has been a large increase in the quantity of beer drunk.

That Savings Bank Loan.

The article which appeared in THE RECORD AND GUIDE on June 22d, giving the particulars about the property on the northeast corner of Washington and Cortlandt streets, on which the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank had loaned $182,500 at 4½ per cent., created considerable flurry at the time, both in New York and up the Hudson. It was not the intention of this paper to say anything further on the subject had it not been for an article which appeared in the Poughkeepsie Eagle, which contains an interview with Mr. Edward Elsworth, one of the loan committee of the bank, in which he says:

The article in THE REAL ESTATE RECORD is a malicious misrepresentation of facts. It either proceeded from a disappointed broker, who failed to secure the loan himself for a client, or from the syndicate of life insurance companies in the City of New York, which is trying to drive outside savings banks away from the New York loan market. The article in question does not state the true consideration paid for the property by the present owner, and the stated cost of the improvement is so far out of the way as to be ludicrous. The savings bank committee, before passing upon the application for a loan, made a careful examination of the property, and it then procured an appraisal of the value thereof, by three different disinterested parties. One of them is a well-known conservative appraiser of real estate valuations in New York City, with over thirty years' experience. The different valuations were $400,000, $390,000, and $365,000 respectively. At the present rate of rentals the property will yield an income of nearly $40,000 per annum, which ought to be a pretty good guaranty of security for a loan of $182,000.

Now, first of all, THE RECORD AND GUIDE is not in the habit of making "malicious misrepresentations of facts." Indeed, it is not easy to falsify facts, for facts cannot be falsified. THE RECORD AND GUIDE did not call attention to this matter to please any disappointed broker or the life insurance companies. One of the members of the editorial staff, in examining the weekly list of mortgages published in this paper, was struck by the apparently exorbitant loan made upon the property, and sent over specially to the Register's office to ascertain if the figure was $82,500 or $182,500, thinking the copying clerk might have made an error in abstracting the figure from the deed. Upon investigation it was found that the property, which had been conveyed in two parcels for $125,000, had been sold for $82,000, or $41,000 less, the consideration in the deeds having thus been greatly increased above what was really paid. In the case of the larger parcel, which was transferred at $90,000, the seller, to ease his conscience, or for some other reason best known to himself, filed a certificate in the Register's office testifying that the actual consideration was $60,000, or $30,000 less than appeared in the deed. Besides, it was found that the party to whom the property was transferred was only a "dummy" or but partly interested, while John Pettit was the actual owner or the person mainly interested.

Again, in the official plans filed for the alterations made to the old buildings, $8,000 was mentioned as the estimated cost of the changes contemplated, and the date of filing given. This sum was, of course, very largely exceeded. Architect Farnsworth's estimate of the alterations was obtained, although he was in ignorance of the object of the query, and his statement taken down at the time was that "$25,000 would cover what he spent. It would be an outside figure." Mr. Pettit himself was seen and he made a strong effort to keep from print any article on the matter, as he did not "think it could do any good and THE RECORD AND GUIDE would not gain anything by running down property." THE RECORD AND GUIDE does not run down property, but it does call attention to loans by institutions which appear to be unwarranted by good judgment and prudence, not to speak of deeds which have misrepresented actual prices paid. Again, when Mr. Pettit was pressed to state the cost of the alterations he would not state any sum. Several amounts were mentioned. Was the architect's estimate right? No. Was $35,000 too much? No. $40,000? No. Would $50,000 be too high? "It would not," he replied. Finally he said: "I will be glad to give you the contract to do the work for $100,000." In the face of the information in its possession THE RECORD AND GUIDE felt notably justified in publishing the facts, but a duty to the public to do so.

What does Mr. Elsworth mean by saying that THE RECORD AND GUIDE has not stated the true consideration paid for the property by the present owner? Does he mean to impeach the veracity of the certificate filed in the Register's office by the gentleman who sold the property? And is he willing to prove that $35,000 and not $22,000 was paid for the smaller parcel? That is what THE RECORD AND GUIDE said, and it stated the facts, obtained from the most reliable sources. THE RECORD AND GUIDE offers its columns to Mr. Elsworth to disprove these facts, if he thinks he can.

As to the cost of the improvement no definite information can be obtained. The plan filed officially stated $8,000, the architect said $25,000, and THE RECORD AND GUIDE allowed even as wide a margin as $100,000, an outside if not excessive figure, thus bringing the cost to the owner up to $182,000, which is $183,000 less than the valuation placed upon it by one of the appraisers for the bank and $218,000 less than another appraiser's valuation. Who are the three gentlemen who appraised this property at $365,000, $390,000 and $400,000? There are at least two or three thousand people in New York City who would like to know how they arrived at this valuation on a five-story building covering a space of less than one and three-quarters of a lot?

The Poughkeepsie Eagle also has the following:

In an interview on Monday, Mr. Edward Elsworth said that Mr. D. C. Foster, the president of the savings bank, had received a letter from the State bank superintendent inclosing the article in THE GUIDE, and asking for an explanation. "I dictated the answer to the State superintendent," said Mr. Elsworth, "and it was in the main the statement that I have already made in print above, and I think we will hear no more about the matter. After THE GUIDE article appeared we got the appraiser, Mr. Ward, of New York, to go over the property in question again, and he made a most thorough examination, and said afterwards that he had no reason for changing the figures he had already given us."

In contradiction to this a well-known lawyer of this city said to an Eagle representative that a Brooklyn gentleman said in the presence of witnesses, that a well-known broker's clerk in New York was paid $600 for securing the loan from the savings bank, and that he did not secure it until he had "shinned" all over New York and Brooklyn, endeavoring to get it there. A thorough investigation of the whole matter should be made. That much is due the savings bank.

Now, if the property is worth anywhere between $365,000 and $400,000, does any one suppose, with the plethora of money in the New York institutions, that it would have been necessary to go to Poughkeepsie to place the mortgage? If its real value is $365,000 we can name a dozen savings banks and a score of other institutions who would gladly have loaned $182,500 on the property. But it does not appear that any one of the New York institutions applied to were willing to risk $182,500 on it.

The only argument on the other side is that on the present basis of rentals the property will yield a gross income of $40,000 per annum; so Mr. Pettit says, as well as Mr. Elsworth. THE RECORD AND GUIDE has very little to say about this. Mr. Pettit is a shrewd buyer and a very capable manager. He has planned the property so that it may rent to advantage, and it is not unlikely that he will get a much larger rental out of it than many other owners would have obtained. At present the building is only about half rented, and no doubt it will gradually fill up with tenants, as it is attractive to the eye inside and well managed. But until the full rent roll is secured it would be a risky thing for any man to say that the forty-seven offices and two stores in the building will rent for within about $5,000 of the rental obtained from the forty-three offices and the auction room of the Real Estate Exchange, the rental from which is $45,219. In the one case the property covers 4,277½ square feet and in the other case the ground covered is 7,909.10 square feet, being 3,632.4 square feet more, not to speak of the superiority of the Exchange location.

An effort was made to get at the rentals of the Pettit building. The top floor, the writer was told, rents for $4,550. The rents of the other three floors could not be ascertained, but they were stated to be a little higher than the other floors. Allowing $5,000 per floor, on an average, for each of the four office floors, a total of $20,000 would be obtained. The stores are laid out very judiciously, the corner one being divided into seventeen compartments, the total rentals of which are placed at $13,300, while for the other store $3,000 is said to have been refused. It is doubtful if the corner will bring $10,000 more than the inside store, but if it brings $13,000 gross, the other renting at $3,000, it would make the total rental, provided there was no vacancy in the building, about $36,000. These are somewhere near the figures of the agent; they are not ours. It is very doubtful if the gross rent roll will prove to be as high. But presuming Mr. Pettit should be lucky enough to get that figure, it is not by any means a fixed rule among real estate experts that the gross face rental shall determine the valuation.

For the purpose of comparison let us take the five-story stone front building purchased by Wm. H. Naething at No. 33 Cortlandt street, the deed for which was passed in June last year. It is 24.7x125.7x22.3x125.8 in size, or 2,941.8 square feet. It sold for $75,000, equal to $25.75 per square foot. Now this property is several blocks nearer Broadway and in a better location than the Pettit building. At the same rate 4,277.6 square feet, the area of the latter structure, would give us a total of $110,145. Let us add 50 per cent. on to that sum, in consideration of the general maxim that a corner is worth 50 per cent. more than an inside lot, and we have a total of $165,000. We will go further and give the Pettit building a generous allowance of $50,000 for superiority in building and improvements—though Mr. Naething's building is a very substantial one—and we get a grand total of $215,000.

Let us take another basis of estimate. The ground on the northeast corner of Washington and Cortlandt streets cost the owner $82,000. Let us presume that he bought it cheaply and that it is now worth 50 per cent. more than he paid for it. This is a generous allowance and would make its value $123,000. Under these circumstances the altered building now on the site—changed by Mr. Pettit from four old five-story structures into one five-story building—must have been estimated by the three experts for the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank as being worth $242,000, $267,000 and $277,000 respectively. Is there an expert in New York City, who knows his business thoroughly, who will value that ground at more than $123,000, or this altered building at any such sum as $242,000?

It would be interesting to know what some other experts think the value of the property to be.

Our Comptroller says We Should Have No Taxes.

In conversation with Mr. V. K. Stevenson the other day that gentleman said: "A great impression was made upon me by a statement made by our Comptroller, the Hon. Theodore W. Myers, the other day. My sole object in ever attempting to mix up in politics has been for the purpose of assisting in my humble way to procure the best possible city government in order to add to the value of New York City real estate by a radical reduction in taxation. The increase in the population of New York is so immense, and so many more people to bear the burden of taxation, specially on real estate, that we ought to have a material reduction in taxation. Our present Comptroller, who is at the head of the successful banking house of T. W. Myers & Co., while he was being hauled over the coals about some little butcher stands recently in some market, was devoting his attention, care and great business experience in financial affairs to the marketing of about $12,000,000 of bonds of the City of New York for the purpose of paying for our new valuable parks recently acquired. This loan not only takes the cake but removes the whole bakery, for the reason that in the history of time on either side of the water I have yet to hear of $12,000,000 of bonds or stocks sold at a shade over par with commissions and perquisites all off, bonds having thirty years to run, and bearing but 2½ per cent. interest per annum. If some of our able Comptroller's clerks, old veterans that have been in the Comptroller's office for years under his predecessors, did make some mistake in renting some stalls to these butchers, it doesn't amount to a grain of sand in the interest of the citizens of New York—some little technical errors by one or two out of the 200 or 300 clerks the Comptroller has in his office—compared with this remarkable negotiation at so radically low rates of interest. Now regardless of politics, this Comptroller has been a financial success since his first attempts as a business man in his own banking and brokerage firm, and I am informed by our best taxpayers that deal in real estate with me that this man is running the Comptroller's office exactly on the same principle that his own private banking house is conducted at 47 New street. I was amazed and dumbfounded when casually meeting Mr. Myers on the boat yesterday, when, speaking of city affairs, he said that if he could run the departments of New York and have control of affairs authoritatively, that there would be no taxes for the citizens to pay. He says that he could pay the police and our honored judiciary and pave the streets and light them and run the town out of the perquisites, rents and emoluments if properly cared for from rights of way, by surface and elevated railroad docks, ferries, etc.; and there should be ample income, says the Comptroller, from the city's own property and rights, to run and sustain the city. If Myers can give us a town without taxation then it don't make any difference to me if he is a County Democracy Democrat. This is a kind of a man I am looking for, no matter whether he be a Republican, Mugwump, Copper Head, Radical, Democrat, or what not. Give me Myers all the time on this basis."

Plans have been filed at the Building Department for a six-story brick and stone flat with stores, size 23x96, to be built for James McCreery on the northeast corner of 41st street and 5th avenue, at a cost of $100,000. Albert Wagner is the architect. Neither mason nor carpenter have been selected.

Mrs. E. F. Shepard will build a seven-story brick and stone lodging house from plans filed this week by her architect, R. H. Robertson. The location of the building will be Nos. 14 and 16 East 16th street, the size 51x105.6 feet, and the cost about $170,000.

If the crowds which visit Fort George every Sunday and holiday are any indication of what may be expected when a quick and cheap mode of transit is established between the city proper and the new parks beyond the Harlem, the people need have no fear that the money already spent on these properties has been wasted. It is almost impossible, on a Sunday afternoon, to board a cable car going to Fort George after it has passed 3d avenue. Whether the people are attracted by the easy motion of the motive power and comfortable open cars of this line or by the walks and fields at the end of the route, it is impossible to say, but one fact is certain—the crowds go there.

In many places between 86th and 110th streets, on Madison avenue, the roadway between the car tracks is of earth, and, as a result, the passenger in dry weather is covered with dust after riding for less than half a mile. The company once in a while sends out a solitary watering cart to refresh the thirsty earth, but one cart, and that not constantly employed, is little more than a drop in the bucket. The way in which passengers for Harlem are emptied, car load after car load, into one miserable car going north of 86th street, is positively shameful and should be stopped. Strange as it may seem to the company, when a passenger pays a five cent fare he is entitled to and has a right to expect a seat, but during "rush" hours luck is the man who gets inside the door.

In a work entitled "The Dutch Grants, Harlem Patents and Tidal Creeks," John W. Pirsson has investigated the subject of early Dutch grants and the various foundations of title resting on European discovery. Mr. Pirsson comes to the conclusion that the Dutch never had any right to the New Netherlands, and that the title of Great Britain was absolute and indisputable. The greater part of the work is taken up with a consideration of the Harlem patents, the title to which he considers valid. The work will prove of great value to conveyancers in this city, and is also interesting in its historical aspect.

Wouldn't it be a good idea for builders erecting private dwellings to plant trees in front of their houses, along the curb? This experiment has proved successful in other cities, and on 86th street in this city, and it would probably pay elsewhere in New York. How tempting an advertisement would read these hot summer days, constructed on these lines: "Elegant private dwellings on a splendidly located, beautifully situated street shaded with elm and maple trees!"

The interiors of the five-story buildings Nos. 174 and 176 Washington street are being altered in a substantial manner for the Westinghouse Electric Co.

Among the large improvements which are on the point of being begun is a handsome family hotel on a piece of property on the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 30th street. It will have a frontage of 49.7 on 5th avenue by 125 on 30th street, with an additional lot 25 by 100 on the same street. The building will be seven stories in height, will be finished in hardwood throughout, and it will be constructed of fine dark Ohio sandstone. The cost is not expected to be more than $200,000. Mrs. Mary J. Van Doren is having it erected by the C. Graham & Sons Company from plans by George E. Harding & Co.

It has been reported in some of the daily papers that several of the subscribers to the new music hall to be erected on 7th avenue and 57th street had withdrawn their subscriptions, and that they would further the interest of the hall to be erected on the site of Madison Square Garden. Our representative called upon Mr. William B. Tuthill, the architect for the 7th avenue building, and he informed him that the excavations would soon be completed, and that the work upon the new building would progress as rapidly as is consistent with good workmanship, and that in all probability it would be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1890. The Music Hall Company of New York (Limited) has for its officers Morris Reno, president; Stephen M. Knevals, treasurer; Frederick William Hollis, secretary; and John W. Aitken, Andrew Carnegie, Walter J. Damrosch, Sherman W. Knevals, William B. Tuthill and John J. Wilson, directors. They have lately added to the property previously held by them adjacent lots on 57th street. This gives a frontage of 175 feet on 7th avenue and 150 feet on the side street. A lot 25 feet wide makes a connection with 56th street. The style of architecture of the new building will be Venetian Renaissance. The first story is to be constructed of Aberdeen granite and brick of a rich dark brown color, and the architectural details will be carried out with terra cotta in a hue to correspond with the brick. The main entrance on 57th street will lead through a vaulted vestibule 25 feet high and 70 feet long, ornamented with marbles and mosaics. The drawings provide for a very large concert hall, with a seating capacity of nearly thirty-three hundred, the parquette accommodating about twelve hundred. There will be two tiers of boxes and two balconies. The banquet hall in the basement, 90x96, will have a complete kitchen service and a large dais at either side of the central space, and will accommodate 1,200 people. The arrangement for the seats on the stage are entirely novel in construction; they consist of six tiers which can be independently raised or lowered by hydraulic pressure, so that one or all the tiers could be used as desired. The full seating capacity will be 500 for chorus and sixty-eight cello; but when arranged for a full orchestra, with the tiers of seats lowered to a level with the stage, it will have space for 200 cello.

The Sinking Fund Commissioners will probably make a final selection on Friday of the place to be adopted for the new Criminal Courts building. Plans Nos. 5, 6 and 10 have been selected from among the thirteen sent in as being the most desirable, and their cost is estimated at $1,000,000, $1,340,000 and $1,030,268 respectively. The official examiners think that these estimates will be exceeded, the first by 50 per cent. and the last by 25 per cent. When the successful plan is decided upon the work of letting out the contracts will be immediately proceeded with.

It would be a very desirable thing for the people of the surrounding neighborhood if the old Hudson street graveyard were to be changed into a park. It would give a breathing space of 200x500. Neighboring property would not lose by the change.

There is a little piece of advertising being done in this city which suggests the proposal recently made in England to rent the back of postage stamps. State or municipal properties of any kind are generally considered sacred from the enterprise of the advertiser, but in this city it seems they are not. On the corner of 4th street and Broadway there has been placed on the top of the gas pole an illuminated box, advertising and pointing the way, we understand, to the Russian bath establishment on Lafayette place. Before this was done the consent of neither the owner nor the tenant was asked. The latter, finding himself incommoded by the box, had inquiries made about its raison d'être, and an answer was received from the Mayor saying that permission had been given to put it there by the Board of Aldermen, and that the only redress the owner had was to test the validity of the resolution in the courts. So the matter stands at the present time. In case the practice is extended vigorous efforts ought to be made by property-owners to prevent the fronts of their houses being disfigured by similar signs.

Buttresses in Commercial Buildings.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

In your description of the Western Electric building, accompanied by the cut which plainly shows the architect's name, although you omit it in your article, one would suppose that this is the first building in which the architectural device of solid corners, or buttresses as you term them, was employed. The article gives one this impression, which I think is unfair to the architect of the building in which this novelty was first introduced. The building I refer to is the De Vinne Press, on the corner of Lafayette place and 4th street. Babb, Cook & Willard were the architects. Other architects followed, making use of the same treatment, and the buildings in which it appears are located, one at West Broadway and Franklin street, the Judge building at 5th avenue and 16th street, and the Methodist Book Concern, corner 5th avenue and 19th or 20th streets. The first of these buildings, the De Vinne Press, it seems to me, ought to receive its proper share of praise or advertisement as being the first to introduce a method of construction so completely scientific and artistic. Yours truly,

A. W. ROSS (Ross & Marvin).

Bensonhurst-by-the-Sea,

With its park on the shore, is the most perfectly developed suburb ever laid out around New York. It is cooler in summer and warmer in winter than New York or Brooklyn, and is a natural sanitarium, as recorded by all local observers from the earliest times.

Prices are made low by the largeness of the plan and the forethought of execution; so low as to bring it within the double desire of all thrifty home-loving people—first, to have a fortunate home; and, second, to have a property that can at any time be sold at a profit.

A visit to the place, which is by a most delightful trip, will satisfy any one and demonstrate how different Bensonhurst is from other places—because it was begun right and developed all at the same time by one owner. How easy it is to be comfortable when half the expense and effort of life is not expended in making mistakes and correcting them!

Here is what the better half of the world is in search of—a place where one can live luxuriously without extravagance. There is nothing wanting for home, and New York is within an easy hour of your door step at any time of day.

Eight miles of streets perfectly made; sixteen miles of fences built; ten miles of sewers being introduced; streets lighted; water mains laid.

Three thousand shade trees and six thousand hardy shrubs of variegated colors planted.

Land sold under well-considered restrictions. No liquor, no nuisances

Thirty dwellings already built—all dwellings which were built for sale and completed have been sold; others now being built.

Boats leave Battery by new ferry every half hour; time 45 minutes.

The Fifth Avenue (Brooklyn) Elevated R. R. will be completed within a few weeks to connect with B. B. & W. E. R. R.; time by this new route from Brooklyn Bridge to Bensonhurst 30 minutes.

Carriage in waiting every afternoon to show the place.

Illustrated circulars sent.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Recently there has been great discussion on the subject of street pavements. What is required is a noiseless, substantial, clean, waterproof roadway, which is economical in price and easy to repair. The sidewalks and curbs laid by the MacKnight Flintic Stone Company are the handsomest and most durable made. Their flintic stone sidewalk and curb being such a decided success, it is fair to suppose that a roadway made of the same material, with the addition of an asphalt joint, and laid as even as any sidewalk on a thoroughly constructed foundation of rock spalls, gravel and ashes, would make a roadway that is unequalled. The asphalt joint extends but 4 inches down through to the underlaying course of concrete and cannot melt and run out into the sand, as has the asphalt joints put in the granite block roadway. This roadway will not become soft in warm weather and roll up in ridges like the hide on a rhinoceros' back, nor will it become so mastic that you can stick your cane into it or wear it in ruts by heavy traffic.

It is an evenly laid flintic stone with an asphalt joint, laid in sections from curb to curb, that can be taken up and relaid with little trouble and expense. It is the roadway of the day and will bear the closest examination as well as the heaviest traffic. This company has patents on this roadway, issued April 16, 1889, and will gladly furnish catalogues containing plans and specifications for the sidewalk and curb, roadway or any other kind of artificial stone or asphalt work. Their flintic stone roof should be largely used, as it is perfect in all respects and guaranteed for a term of ten years.

The objection to asphalt roadways are: It will become soft under the effects of the heat and wear and roll up in ridges, it is difficult to take up and repair, and when repaired makes an unsightly appearance. It cracks in winter from contraction by the frost, and there is in summer an offensive odor; it also draws the heat to a very great extent.

The objection to McAdam Roadways is that they are the most costly roadway laid for use in a city—dusty when the weather is dry, and a mud puddle when wet. Take into consideration the annual cost of repairing McAdam roadways, adding the expense of cleaning sewers, which is always more or less filled with the offal that is washed from their surface, the doctor's bill caused by such obstruction, and the expense of sprinkling and furnishing the water, therefore, and you will find the McAdam roadway the most expensive luxury of all roadways.

Belgium block is so uneven and rutty that it is hard to keep clean and is noisy and expensive, although adaptable to streets of heavy traffic.

other owners would have obtained. At present the building is only about half rented, and no doubt it will gradually fill up with tenants, as it is attractive to the eye inside and well managed. Real Estate Department.

The week has not been an active one either in the offices of the brokers and agents or on 'Change. The speculative contingent is now recuperating on mountain and seashore, while business generally has resolved itself into a few hours' easy work daily, with an unceasing effort to keep cool.

On Monday, No. 249 Centre street was knocked down to A. Trunkmann, in partition, for $15,000. It is a lot 21.3x64.10x20.10x65.3, with an old three-story frame and brick tenement on it, south of Broome street. Two five-story tenements on 146th street, east of 8th avenue, went to the plaintiff at $17,770 each.

On Tuesday, Martin Disken secured No. 132 East 95th street, a three-story brick dwelling, at $14,400, under foreclosure, Mary E. Schoven buying No. 128 adjoining, at $14,900. Elizabeth J. Hall became the purchaser of No. 220 West 16th street, under partition, a five-story brick flat and three-story frame dwelling, on a lot 25x103.3, at $22,800. Some irregular and shallow lots on Rogers place and 165th street brought from $375 to $480 each, while two lots on Tiffany street, near 165th street, each 30x100 in size, brought $500 apiece.

On Wednesday, No. 337 West 19th street, two old buildings on a lot 24.9x91.11, were knocked down to the plaintiff at the low figure of $4,100. Timothy Donovan took a "flyer" by buying a plot on Shaler avenue, Flushing, L. I., 585x515x945x396 in size, for $695, said to be worth twice the money, and the sale of three lots on the southeast corner of the Grand Boulevard and 95th street, under foreclosure, was adjourned.

On Thursday an important sale of New Brighton, S. I., property was adjourned till October 9, and a foreclosure sale of three flats on the northeast corner of 9th avenue and 69th street was adjourned sine die.

On Friday there was nothing done on 'Change.

On Tuesday, July 23d, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer the three-story dwelling at No. 244 West 37th street, a brown stone front, 18.9 feet wide, within four minutes' walk of Broadway.

On Wednesday, July 24th, Scott & Myers will sell the following downtown investment properties, by order of the Supreme Court, in partition: The five-story brick tenement, with stores, at No. 17 Hester street, on the northwest corner of Suffolk street, and the four-story, high stoop, brick tenement, with two-story and attic frame house on rear, No. 11 Suffolk street, adjoining the corner parcel. BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—The market has again been rather slow and unsatisfactory for Common Hards, and while pretty nearly the former general range of figures is mentioned in the quotations named by various operators a number of them report having found it necessary to sell fractionally lower than last week in order to work off stock. Boiled right down the difficulty was evidently an excess of offering and a failure of demand to recover fully from the shrinkage made at the commencement of the month. Building operations have been going right along as usual, neither the weather nor other known influence acting as a check to work so far as can be discovered, and the inference therefore is that dealers and contractors in a great many instances so anticipated their wants as to permit the slower and more or less indifferent demand of late developed. Within a few days there has appeared to be a somewhat closer adjustment between the outlet and the arrivals leading to a gradual shrinkage of the accumulation afloat, and that has a tendency to impart a more hopeful feeling to those who endeavor to catch a forecast of what may arise in the near future, though there appears to be a disinclination among all hands to assume the role of a prophet. Upon the question of quality wear and tear no general or serious complaint. Some poor stock of course turns up constantly, but buyers who are critical in selection can find what they want without much difficulty and are not called upon to pay any special premium. From all accounts work is going on about as usual and without intermission beyond such as may be occasioned by the elements, but we understand that at a recent meeting of the manufacturers, held in this city, it was resolved that if eighty per cent. of the workers on the "River" and in New Jersey would agree that a general stoppage of production take place on October 1st next. Pales have continued selling very well, some of the trade think the steadiness of the movement rather remarkable, and there is no abatement in the line of valuation.

LATH.—More or less irregularity has been shown during the week under which the buyer scored rather the greatest advantage. There was a little fuller run of stock for one thing, and it is claimed that a measure of carelessness was shown in handling a portion of the offering; but the severest shading was on the poorest grades, and really desirable goods are now reported as pretty steady again. It is said that Machias stock sold as low as $2.05, but the present general quotation on spot is $2.10@2.20 per M, and one receiver reports sales at $2.25 to arrive. Dealers have, of course, in all cases made the best terms they could, but took the offering with reasonable promptness. According to the record of Eastern shipments there should not be any great quantity afloat at the moment.

LIME.—The lime market is barren of anything new or interesting so far as reported. Moderate arrivals have come in from the Eastward, and found sale without much difficulty, and as receivers of State stock manage to gauge their supply pretty closely to the requirements of the market they have also sold out clean, while in all grades a healthy line of value was preserved, and quotations are unchanged.

LUMBER.—In one way or another considerable stock of all kinds is passing into consumption. More or less complaint can occasionally be heard about the absence of satisfactory fresh demand, but there are very few dealers who are not delivering something on contract, many of them freely, and a goodly number who are really picking up fresh trade every day. Against the distribution there comes forward from primary points a fair balance of supplies under earlier engagements, and for some of the standing grades of stock a proportion of demand prevails that permits of business without modification in the line of value. Indeed, taken as a whole, the local market, while neither exciting or positively active, is in reasonably healthy condition, and affords no cause for serious complaint.

Eastern Spruce undergoes no radical change. Occasionally may be heard reports of sales at very low figures, and investigation will substantiate the rumor, so far as the price is concerned, but also discloses the fact that the stuff was of such undesirable cut as to create surprise at its selling at all on this market, and showing that no basis is afforded for regular quotations. Indeed, over standard grades the feeling seems to be quite as strong and confident as ever, and receivers do not hesitate in expressing confidence over the prospects. The delays that have occurred at some of the most important mills, it is claimed, precludes the possibility of cutting any desirable random for shipment for a long while to come, and will delay specials also. This is particularly applicable to the Bangor district, but the reflection may be felt at all points of production, it is claimed. A feature considered as likely to prove of some benefit to the market is the large call for stuff required in the proposed rebuilding of the New York Central Railroad grain elevators on the Hudson River. The stock is to be planed, two edges, and the sizes wanted at 2x4, 2x6 and 2x8, mostly the latter, with the total quantity 3,500,000 feet.

Piling is held with much the former general steadiness. If buyers gain any advantage at all, it is when they can catch some arrival outside the hands of regular operators; but as a rule the preference is to put desirable sticks in chains rather than part with them at a concession.

Hemlock, as usual for some time past, has all sorts of reports; but after all neither buyer or seller gains much in the way of positive advantages. If custom prefers to confine its favors to certain Pennsylvania producers, and this preference has been more or less decidedly shown, then quite extreme rates must be paid; but demand that can satisfy itself from a general offering, including State stock, will find it possible to invest at more moderate rates. The actual fresh call at the moment is apparently not very extensive.

White Pine waxes along in very much the former general way, and complaint from the selling side is probably more common on this than any other description of stock. Consumption is simply slow, indifferent and in a large degree disappointing, and the majority of dealers seem to feel they have a sufficient supply under control for all requirements. If they did not, however, there is plenty available from the various sources of supply, and while "about former rates" are asked, there is an impression that agents retain a sufficiently competitive spirit to make moderate shadings on a chance of booking desirable orders.

Yellow Pine, so far as generally quoted would appear to be about steady and there is, no doubt, a fair business doing. Results in the line of orders, however, are not altogether as full as calculated upon, nor is it certain that a rigid line of price is adhered to, even by the association members, who in one way or another, it is believed, manage to evade the rules and show buyers favors where the latter seem likely to be drawn away through attractions offered by outside mills.

Carolina Pine is commented upon in the usual cheerful manner and there seems to be nothing of a serious nature to complain of upon the general market. Demand has fallen away somewhat from some quarters where accumulated supplies are now reasonably full, but manufacturers as a rule are reasonably well supplied in the orders and have found nothing to weaken their views in the matter of valuations.

Hardwoods are still only fairly active in any instance and some grades, such as walnut, are decidedly neglected. There does not appear to be so much stock going into the hands of manufacturers on direct receipts as supposed, but this class of consumers proves a cautious one on the local market and very much opposed to any investment except upon a basis of the most positive necessity. Taken on a general range values are much the same as for some time past, but liable to minor fluctuations to suit the necessities of current negotiation. The greatest bone of contention still may be found in poplar, with buyers getting a little the best picking. Exporters are fair customers, but require special attention in the matter of quality, and recent advices from abroad indicate that they have pretty nearly enough poplar for the present.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

The heavy purchase of timber land in the Adirondack section of this State and to which we called attention at the time, continues a subject of more or less comment. A local contemporary says:

"It is the intention of the new owners to make a timber preserve of the large forest, to cut only the merchantable trees and as far as possible co-operate with the Forest Commission in preventing fires and other destructive forces. The purchase was made with special reference to the spruce and pine woods, although the forest also abounds in hemlock, maple, birch and cherry. When properly preserved, the spruce, which is natural to the soil and climate, will reproduce itself, thus constantly increasing the value of the preserve. With the other woods, however, replanting is necessary. As yet no exact survey of the lands has been made, but from an approximate estimate of 5,000 feet to the acre, it is probable that the forest represents at least 2,000,000,000 feet of timber."

The tract covers about 400,000 acres, and is part of a grant made by the State some years ago to the Sackett's Harbor and Saratoga Railroad Company. The purchasing syndicate is said to be composed of R. K. Hawley, of Cleveland; Thomas McGraw, of Poughkeepsie; Patton & Co., of Albany, and Dodge, Meigs & Co., of this city.

THE WEST.

We have received from Mr. Theo. F. Swan, Secretary of Chicago Lumberman's Exchange, his regular monthly statistical statement, from which we take the following:

STOCK ON HAND JULY 1.

	1887.	1888.	1889.
Lumber.....	343,630,071	375,725,304	485,544,090
Shingles.....	220,226,700	165,259,750	340,707,250
Lath.....	21,364,158	16,084,440	33,537,250
Pickets.....	1,176,671	819,566	727,800
Posts.....	101,873	245,413	973,872

The receipts of lumber at Chicago Jan. 1st to June 30th are placed at 718,734,000 feet, against 676,681,000 feet same time in 1888, showing an increase of 42,053,000 feet.

The Timberman says of the Chicago market for cargoes:

There has been a decidedly brisk demand for lumber this week. The receipts have averaged about one dozen cargoes per day during the week. Buyers were not over plenty at any time during the last seven days, but those who made purchases bought pretty freely, so the stock was moved. Very little good lumber has been offered, and the wholesalers are certainly in need of it, and should be accommodated. Common boards and strips formed the bulk of receipts.

Prices on most of the stock received remain as they were one week ago. Not an over large supply of piece stuff is coming in, and the price on short lengths closes a little weaker.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The White Pine lumber market does not offer a great deal of interest. Trade in almost all the markets is unmistakably dull. It is useless to disguise the fact that the demand during June, and thus far during the current month has been less than was anticipated, and less than seemed to be warranted by the trade of the preceding month. Complaint of dull demand has been heard now for a number of weeks, nor have the complaints been confined, as has already been said, to any particular quarter or as to any one market. It has been universal. But there are signs of improvement. Buyers are showing more disposition to place their orders and there is some casting about for bulk lots upon the part of jobbers, who are getting ready for the fall trade. A good many wholesalers have been holding off to take advantage, if possible, of the bottom of the market. These buyers are again in the market. The conditions are becoming such that the prospects for the fall trade can be pretty safely gauged.

It is evident that the fall trade, to which manufacturers now are every where looking forward, is to be characterized by a great deal of unevenness. In some of the markets, because of the inability of the mill to run early in the season, dry stock is going to be scarce. In these same markets some of the manufacturers who had enough logs while their neighbors had none, are going to be favored to the exclusion of their competitors. There has been a good demand all the season too for uppers and shopstuff. It is the almost unusual experience that the better grades of lumber have sold readily, and at prices which were quite up to what they were a year ago. But there is an overstock of the coarser grades, particularly of dimension, and the weakness in prices has extended particularly to these grades. Everybody is, of course, familiar with the fact that the percentage of low grade stock annually increases, but the proportion of this year's sawing has been increased because of low water, and the fact that the largest and best logs have been left, while the small ones have found their way to the mill.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Lumbermen all along the line, who take any interest in the matter, are declaring it their firm policy to stand for a total abolition of the export duty on Canadian pine logs, and not let the matter rest with a "concession," a partial "back down," etc., as the late knocking off of $1 by the Dominion is variously characterized. Their slogan to Congress will continue to be: "Add the export log duty to the American import duty on lumber." The Canadians cannot pay a $4 lumber duty, neither do the Americans want to pay a $2 log duty.

The Ottawa, Ont., Free Press asserts that the real reason for the increase made in the export log duty by the Dominion last November was the probable effect upon certain sales of government limits. By making it unprofitable for Americans to pay high prices for Canadian timber the latter might be knocked down at low figures to a ring which sought to get it cheaply. Other influences, however, were at work, and good prices were obtained. That paper says the Dominion government is apparently powerless to aid the Canadian lumbering industry, but that its capacity for injuring it seems to have no limit.

And in reviewing the general lumber situation the Lumberman says:

The fact probably is that the lumber industry, from stump to yard, has been overdone in the entire country; or, in other words, production has outrun consumption, immense as the latter has been. Recent energy in the manufacture of yellow pine has contributed largely to this result. It has cut off the southwestern field as an outlet for white pine. This has thrown the northern product back into a restricted territory, and intensified competition. Steadily also, southern pine has made inroads in the older States east of the Mississippi river, and still further increased competition. In the Eastern States North Carolina and Georgia pine have brought in a competition with northern lumber like that in the West. The north is beginning to feel the effect of southern manufacturing development. Without doubt this is the way to account for the weakness that is now experienced in the bulk stock market all over the country.

The cargo market in the Saginaw Valley is dull. The result of this season's trade in Eastern Michigan emphasize the growing importance of the yard and car load trade in that section, and the steady decline of the cargo movement. Eastern bulk stock buyers are resorting to northern Michigan and the Lake Superior country for lumber, and giving the older section, Saginaw Valley, the go-by.

There is a tendency in the markets to depress the price of poplar, but the manufacturers' association is striving to keep the bottom in the market, with fair success thus far.

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

The introduction of steam tonnage into the timber trade becomes every day more marked, and, though we are now accustomed to see huge steamers discharging deals and other sawn goods, their employment in carrying the ordinary cargoes of Quebec timber, oak, square and waney pine, etc., is for the present a novelty, but which within a short time we shall look upon as a matter of course.

The receivers of cargoes complain very bitterly of the way in which their timber is poured out of these large Atlantic steamers. The rapidity with which the logs are landed from three or four hatches simultaneously taxes the resources of the team owners to remove them from the ship's side when landed on the quay.

American Black Walnut.—In this there is nothing fresh to report. A moderate amount of trade has been done at fairly maintained prices. Some of the arrivals lately have again been of a very poor character, being of small sizes, rough, and in many cases very badly shaken.

American Whitewood.—Just lately the trade in this seems to have quieted down to some extent; faulty stuff, of which there has been a large proportion in late arrivals, can only be sold with great difficulty, and everybody on this side will be glad to hear of such shipments being discontinued.

American Oak.—In logs we do not hear of much doing, but there seems to be a fair trade passing in lumber, especially for fairly wide quartered inch boards of good color, but at present we are told stocks are ample.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot has found about an average demand from most regular quarters, and it is claimed that actual consumption undergoes no abatement whatever. There is plenty of stock to meet all requirements, however, and it is available at former rates without difficulty, rumor even suggesting some shading. There is evidence of want of harmony among the companies and a chance of some falling out that will not hurt the interest of buyers. Lake is quoted at 12c, and casting brands at 10 1/4@10 3/4. Manufactured Copper meeting with pretty steady sale on all regular outlets with prices steady so far as known. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c; do, 14 to 16 oz, 21c; do, 12 to 14 oz, 22c; do, 10 to 12 oz, 23c; do, 8 to 10 oz, 24c; do, under 8 oz, 25@28c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz, 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz and over, 20c; do, 16 to 32 oz, 20c; do, 14 to 16 oz, 22c; do, 12 to 14 oz, 24c; do, 10 to 12 oz, 25c; do, 8 to 10 oz, 26c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz; and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 20c; do, 16 to 32 oz, 23c; do, 14 to 16 oz, 25c; do, 12 to 14 oz, 27c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 20@25c; for 32 to 64 oz, and over, and 26c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 23c; 4 oz, 25c; 12 oz, 27c; and 10 oz, 30c. Bolt copper, 3/4 inch diameter and over, 20c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1 1/2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 23@26c. per lb. IRON.—Scotch Pig in moderate sized invoices meets with fair average demand, and the line of price stands as before, with a steady tone. We quote at $19.00@21.00 per ton, according to brand, delivery, etc. American Pig is going into consumption with some freedom on old contract, and meets with fair sort of attention on occasional new calls, making an outlet, that prevents any great accumulation of stock, especially in the way of the choice brands. Prices on the general range continue steady and there is no evidence of any special effort to realize, except now and then on an odd lot of poor stuff. We quote at $16.00@17.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $15.00@16.00 for No. 2 X do.; and $14.50@15.25 for Gray Forge. Old material has been in better demand with two or three very good-sized parcels of rails taken. Other lots are said to be wanted, but buyers and sellers are a little apart in their views and that causes a drag in negotiations. We quote at about $22.25@22.75 for old rails; $20.00@20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $14.00@15.00 for cast scrap, and $17.50@18.25 for car wheels. Steel rails have again commenced to find demand and quite a fair number were placed with additional comparatively large amounts under treaty, all at full rates. The great majority of the mills are said to have orders booked nearly up to the limit of their allotment, and generally the market looks cheerful. We quote at $27.75@28.00 per ton at the mills and $28.50@29.00 do. at tide water. Manufactured iron has found a fair call in the ordinary run of trade orders, and the market is reported as steady and uniform throughout. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 1.90@2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.00@2.30c.; Rods, round and square, 2.10@2.20c.; Bands, 2.20@2.30c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@4c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.77@2.90c. for common Nos. 19@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig has found only limited demand, some of the trade call it positive neglect, and rates favored the buyer, closing unsettled and tame on spot, but there is some showing of steadiness for future deliveries. We quote at 3.85@3.90c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 49c.; pipe, 59c.; sheet, 69c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig meets with a light demand from consumers, and speculators showing indifference the market is a little slow, though holders refuse to urge business, and rates are about steady. We quote at about 19 1/4@19 3/4c. for round lots and 20@20 1/2c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plates find the ordinary trade demand, but beyond that the market is quiet. Most of the large consumers are said to be importing direct. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, 1/2 cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.50@5.52 1/2, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, 1/2 cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.70@4.75, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terme, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.60@6.65; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.30@13.35; Worcester, 14x20, $4.87 1/2@4.90; Worcester, 20x28, $9.87 1/2@9.90; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.30@4.30; Dean grade, 20x28, $8.37 1/2@8.55; Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.05@4.07 1/2; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.30@8.30; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $4.25@4.27 1/2; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.30@4.32 1/2; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.60 basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.65. Spelter without much demand, but under fair control and steadily held. We quote at $4.95@5.05 for ordinary brands of common.

NAILS—Business is reported as satisfactory, and the market said to be well in hand, sellers claiming the main advantage. Very few regular dealers, however, are investors against the future, and there is a disposition to resist all efforts to put up the line of value. We quote at $1.85@1.90 per keg for car lots, and $1.95@2.00 per keg for parcels from store

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—For the general run of staple articles a fair demand is noticeable but not beyond ordinary limits of the season, and altogether it is only a moderately active market. Holders, however, find no occasion to urge the sale of supplies, and some report only a scant quantity to carry, with prices in pretty much all cases ruling about steady. Now and then some fair export orders are secured. Linseed Oil has about the usual inquiry and steady rates at 58@59c. for Western and 60@61c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has ruled a shade firmer, but the demand shows no great amount of animation, and buyers invest only against early and positive wants. We quote at 35 1/2@36 1/2c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Some few orders are occasionally placed, but there is no general or positive animation and indeed not much of a market at the moment. Nominally prices are steady. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.45 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

No. 1,115

There is very little change to be noticed in the business situation. In the stock market and the principal departments of trade the usual midsummer inactivity prevails. The indications, however, are that we shall have an early fall season. The exports of gold are likely to be less than they have been, owing to the large increase in the supply of bills. The crop outlook, upon which, after all, the future principally depends, must be pronounced on the whole satisfactory, if not excellent. A large corn crop seems again not improbable; and this will mean heavy traffic for the railroads and a big increase in our live-stock supply. We are still feeling the benefits of the abundant corn harvest of last year in the large cattle shipments now being made—all the steamship accommodation to Europe for many weeks ahead being engaged. Another year of large crops could not fail to stimulate business and have a generally beneficial influence on the prosperity of the country.

More than once attention has been called to the demand by builders for lots south of 23d street as sites for flats and tenements. This demand has led to an increase in the price of available lots, and as high as $20,000 was paid for lots on some of the side streets. This will be acknowledged to be a high figure, but now we have to record that it has been exceeded. Two lots on West 12th street, near 6th avenue, have changed hands at $22,500 each, and the buyer covenants not to interfere with the light of adjoining buildings and to set the flats back some distance from the building line. Although it looks somewhat extravagant to pay such prices for lots for tenements and flat purposes, such builders as have confined their operations to the district in question have found a ready sale for the houses produced and have invariably commenced new work when able to secure the lots. After paying for the lots and putting up the buildings the figures which must be obtained from purchasers necessarily allow the latter a comparatively low interest on investments.

The State Board of Equalization have requested Commissioner Coleman to send to them the assessments made by the City Assessors on 2,000 pieces of property in New York. The assumption, of course, is that the selection was made haphazard, and that the proportion which the assessments hold to the true value of these pieces of property is good for the entire city. The selection, however, is made with considerable care for the interests of the State outside of the city. The scales which the Board of Equalization use have always had only one side to them. The two thousand pieces of property are as carefully selected as the top layer of strawberries in a huckster's basket. Any one with only a moderate knowledge of New York realty would find little difficulty in choosing a number of parcels that would show apparently very low assessments. Week after week property is transferred at fictitious figures, and, for the sake of deception, deeds are recorded containing the bogus consideration. All that would be necessary to make out a prima facie case of under-assessment would be to select property that had been treated in this way and the property adjacent to it, and then compare the assessment with the assumed value of the property as established by the sale. It might be asked, "What better proof of value could be given than the actual cash paid?" A has transferred his tenement at a bogus consideration to a "dummy." It is worth, say $50,000, but the price put in the deed is $75,000. It is easy enough to show, then, to any one who does not understand the tricks of the trade, not only that A's house has been assessed at too low a figure, but B's, adjoining, has been so treated. These bogus transfers are to-day one of the greatest evils in the real estate business. They create distrust and confusion. The official records are made the basis of "shyster" transactions. Real estate men, jealous of their reputation and interests, should bestir themselves to get a law passed making it illegal and punishable to state a fictitious consideration in a deed. If a purchaser wishes to keep his affairs private let him state the price paid as "nominal;" but he has no right to prostitute the city records for his own gain. Some time ago THE RECORD AND GUIDE had a bill introduced at Albany to this end, but though it came near passing it was ultimately defeated in a way that seemed to indicate that the measure was touching detrimentally somebody's interests. There is, however, more need for such a bill to-day than ever, and an effort to pass one might be successful.

Now that the salt combination, or "trust" as it is loosely called, known as the North America Salt Company, is definitely established, we shall no doubt, as the price of salt advances, hear from certain quarters that it is all due to the "tariff;" and we shall be told once more that if it were not for the tariff we should need no trust legislation; but should be as free from monopolistic trade combinations as Great Britain is. More than once we have shown the folly of these assertions. There is no occasion to go into the controversy as to the merits of free trade and protection. Free trade may be sound, or protection may be sound; but this statement about trusts and the tariff is palpably absurd. There are trusts and trade combinations in England just as there are over here. In the first half of this year the capital of new trust companies registered in London amounted to nearly $124,000,000, which certainly indicates that trusts are not doing so badly as one might suppose in a country where "they don't exist because of free trade." There is a salt combination in England known as the "Salt Union." Its capital is $20,000,000, though at the time of subscription the British public, that knows nothing of trusts except as a distant American institution, applied for the securities to the extent of $200,000,000—a sum nearly equal to the capitalization of the lead, sugar, cotton oil, distillers and cattle feeders, and American cattle trust in this country. What nonsense it is then to continue to ascribe the existence of trusts wholly or principally to the tariff.

Reviewing the building figures published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE at the first of this month the Financial Chronicle says: "The new (railroad) mileage built in 1887 was distinctly the largest for any single year in the history of the country. The new building projects in New York in the same period were also exceptionally large. The reaction in 1888 in both cases followed from a like cause—that is, the work had been overdone, and a halt became necessary. But here the parallel ceases. In the sections where railroad building has been most active in recent years, inducements for further new ventures seem to have been entirely withdrawn, and numerous and potent influences are working against an early resumption of activity. From these special difficulties attending investments in railroad undertakings, real estate operations of course have been free. These latter have not been hampered in that way, and though the experience of many builders and real estate investors during 1887 and 1888 was far from encouraging, yet the effect upon the public mind was less disastrous and damaging than the similar unfavorable outcome of railroad transactions. Special parties have suffered losses, but confidence in the growth of New York City has remained unimpaired. It is perhaps questionable whether this sudden upward start again in new building projects is desirable or wise."

In the last week of March THE RECORD AND GUIDE analyzed the remarkable activity which commenced early this year, and warned those concerned that it was not warranted by the condition of the market. Nothing has occurred to call for a modification of this opinion. The activity in building has continued, but the condition of the market has not materially improved. The immense amount of work done in 1886, and especially in 1887, overstocked the market, and the quieter times in 1888, while they bettered the situation somewhat, did not by any means justify a resumption of the phenomenal activity of 1887. Yet that is what has happened. Eliminating the fictitious plans filed in 1887, due to the contemplated change in the building law, the amount of new construction this year may be regarded as the largest in the history of the city, the filings for every month, with the exception of March and April, having been more than a million dollars in excess of those of 1887. The figures for March and April, 1887, however, form no good basis for a comparison, and there is little doubt that if we could eliminate all the plans filed, not for the purpose of building, but to hold on to the more favorable conditions of the old laws, we should find that even in these two months 1889 has been as active as 1888. It is impossible for conservative operators to be satisfied with the situation. A lively market in the fall is needed to remove many dangers ahead. Our article published on March 30th is worth re-perusal by our readers.

The Indianapolis Sentinel echoes the general feeling of hostility to railroads, which exists out West, when it says: "The existing system of over-capitalization imposes a tremendous and intolerable burden upon the people, and is at the root of what is popularly known as the 'railroad problem.' Mr. Henry V. Poor, the highest authority on railroad statistics, computes that of the capital stock, bonds and other evidences of indebtedness issued by the railroads of the country, amounting, at the close of 1888, to $7,495,471,311, at least $2,000,000,000 represents what is known as 'watered stock.'

Another estimate, based on the returns up to 1886, placed this watered stock at $3,000,000,000. Hundreds of millions of dollars are paid by the people in the form of dividends and interest upon these fictitious securities. There is need of drastic legislation by all the States and by Congress to put a stop to this abominable evil. Railroads are necessities, and conscienceless 'financiers' should no longer be permitted to employ them as instrumentalities for the systematic robbery and oppression of the people." Without denying that there is a great deal of unwarranted watering done by the "financiers" whom the Sentinel complains of, there is a side to the matter of "watering" that is seldom if ever looked at by the public, who as a rule is ready to refuse at all times to corporations the rights which it demands for itself. For instance, a farmer in the West who should invest $10,000 in a farm, or the editor of the Sentinel, if he should put a like sum in a newspaper plant, and should find that after a lapse of time that it was worth say $20,000, would be indignant if any one were to tell him that he was not entitled to the increased value; that he "imposed a tremendous and intolerable burden upon the people," and that "drastic legislation" was needed to prevent the "systematic robbery and oppression." But what is the watering of stocks but a means for obtaining the increment in value of a railroad or other corporation? Directors prefer to water stock to double its amount and pay 5 per cent. on it than to pay 10 per cent. in an honest, straightforward way. The public is responsible for this by denying to corporations the increment which in its own affairs it takes readily enough. It would be much better if, instead of passing ineffective laws limiting dividends, the public, without grumbling, allowed companies to pay whatever dividend was earned. The chances are this would stimulate competition. At all events it is almost impossible to pass a law that will deprive a corporation of the most it can possibly earn. If the stock is not watered, or something of the kind done, the surplus of earnings above the amount necessary to pay the limited dividend will be spent upon costly betterments, large salaries, etc. The most effective way, perhaps, to limit the earning capacity of a railroad is for the State to fix the maximum rate, but even this cannot be made to work entirely successfully.

Mayor Grant has done well in giving official countenance to the movement for holding the Exposition in 1892 in this city. The feeling throughout the country in favor of an Exposition is so strong that we may regard it as practically decided that there will be one. The principal matter remaining to be settled is the choice of a site. Is it to be Washington or New York? The question seems to have been narrowed down to this. Other cities have been proposed, but none can be regarded as a serious rival to these two—the Political and the Commercial capitals of the country. Apart from all local prejudice, there is little doubt that the majority of Americans would vote to-morrow in favor of New York. In a matter of this kind New York is to the United States what Paris is to France, London to England, Vienna to Austria. It is the site, the metropolis, the centre of wealth and commerce. Washington, however, has pushed her claims so energetically that at the present moment she has the better position in the race, being, if not ahead, at least, as yachtsmen say, "well to windward," and it is plain that if New York is to be the site of the Exposition she must do something, and not merely talk through the newspapers of the enormous capacity of her hotels, etc. In this Exposition business, as in many other affairs, the money side of the matter is one of the most important, and our citizens, if they want to see the next World's Fair in one of the new parks across the Harlem, must put their hands pretty deeply into their pockets. A large contribution befitting the wealth of the metropolis would do more to settle the matter than anything else would. If we want the Exposition we must pay for it.

But, having obtained it, there are several problems to be solved in making it a success. It is plain that the Exposition could not be a success without adequate rapid transit facilities. This is really quite as important as the hotel accommodation to which the daily papers are devoting so much space. The buildings will, no doubt, be in one of the new parks across the Harlem; but no matter where they may be the majority of visitors will expect to reach them by some means of transportation. To-day we have not proper facilities for transporting our own population. All the principal lines in the city are striving to carry twice as many people as they decently ought to. There is no parallel in the world for the disgracefully overcrowded condition of many of our roads—yet we call ourselves a highly civilized and enterprising people. But what shall we do when several hundred thousand visitors above the ordinary are in the city, all of them needing transportation, and that all concentrated along certain lines. An Exposition with our present rapid transit facilities would be a failure, and it would deserve to be such. Mayor Grant has given this subject some study; so has the daily press. Both came to the conclusion some time ago that the common sense act of increasing the facilities we have until something better is provided should not be tolerated, and that it would be preferable for the city to remain in its present condition than allow the elevated roads to double their capacity by adding a third track to their lines and building a "loop" at the Battery. With the Exposition in view, how do they propose we shall meet the difficulty? Every rapid transit scheme promising us ample accommodation that has ever been proposed, even the Mayor's own scheme, has died a natural death, or has been killed at Albany and in the courts.

The Post-office Building.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker, Secretary of the Treasury Windom, and Supervising Architect Windrim, spent Wednesday last in examining the Post-office building in this city, to decide on changes that are proposed to be made to the interior of the building to secure increased facilities for the transaction of business, the ever increasing volume of mail matter having finally overtaken the capacity of the building as at present arranged, after only fifteen years of occupancy, although it was supposed at the time of erection that the size of the building would provide ample accommodation for a stretch of fifty years from its completion. Extending over a number of years past, the late Postmaster Pearson and the local Superintendent of Repairs have earnestly urged alterations and additions to be made to the interior of the building, the better to accommodate the post-office force and for public convenience, and it looks now as though a united and successful effort will be made by the departments at Washington to secure from Congress a sufficient appropriation to carry out the work.

Mr. Wanamaker is reported as being in favor of selling the present post-office building to the city, if possible, for a municipal building, or to the highest bidder, and building a new post-office further up town. But several years would probably elapse before Congress would make an appropriation for a new Federal building, the land secured and the structure completed. The city is in too great need of accommodation for its own departments to wait that length of time.

The act authorizing the erection of the present Federal building was for a Court House and Post-office. Without action is taken by Congress the entire building cannot be appropriated for post-office purposes and the courts turned adrift, and if the present building should be sold and a new post-office erected, there must also be a new United States Court House built, or both accommodated again in one structure. As it stands, however, the present building cannot be sold to a private purchaser, for the deed from the city to the general government of the land upon which the building stands expressly provides that if the premises shall at any time cease to be used for a Post-office and Court House, or for some one of them, or if the same shall be used for any other purpose than so stated, then all right, title, estate and interest therein shall revert to and be reinvested in the city. The building cost about eight and three-quarter million dollars, exclusive of the land, which cost about half a million dollars more, making about nine and a quarter million dollars as the total cost for land and building. Nor could a private purchaser afford to pay anything like its original cost to obtain an adequate return from the investment, as the inside capacity of the building is small compared with its apparent enormous size from the outside, being triangular in shape and having excessively high stories.

It would seem, then, that the United States is not likely to dispose of its present building, nor is there any need of removing therefrom the general post-office or the courts. What this city needs is additional sub-post-offices—at least twenty stations in all—and in buildings specially erected for the purpose and owned by the government, and these stations connected together and with the general office by pneumatic tubes. Each of the present stations does as large a post-office business as is ordinarily transacted in a city of one hundred thousand or more inhabitants, and they should be and can be treated as distinct from each other both in receiving and sending away mail matter. Obviously there are a good many details connected with the perfecting of such a plan, such as inducing business firms and others to insist that their correspondents shall address letters "Station A, New York," or "Station B," etc., so that mail matter will come direct to the proper station in sacks so marked, instead of in sacks first to the general office. The increasing area of the city will ultimately compel some such arrangement, and the sooner it is entered into and time given for its development and perfection the better for prompt and safe mail connections in the future.

The great business interests of this city have no desire to see the general post office removed from its present location for many years yet. The narrow roadway owned by the government on the north side of the building is too contracted for the huge mail wagons that bring to, and carry away from, the mails, and the Postmaster is desirous that the government obtain possession of the sidewalk which lies between the roadway and Mail street proper, so that the increased space can be covered over with a one-story iron and glass shed, and the mails received and dispatched under cover. As every man, woman and child in this city is directly interested in giving to the post-office all reasonable space for the transaction of its business, probably public sentiment will not object to the sidewalk in question being given up. One thing it is safe to predict, the Federal building will remain where it now is, and be occupied as it now is for a generation or two to come at least.

English Municipal Government.

Efforts for improved city government in this country seem to tend invariably towards the omnipotence of the Mayor. In England, however, good government has been sought and measurably attained by the opposite policy—that of making the Mayor a figure-head, and giving almost absolute power into the hands of a council composed of a single chamber. The Councilmen are elected for three years, one-third retiring each year by rotation. They in turn elect one-third as many “Aldermen,” who hold office for six years, sit with the Councilmen and have equal rights with them. This uni-cameral council elects the Mayor for a single year. The latter official has only such remuneration as the council chooses to give him; he has no appointive power whatever—not even the right to name the committees of the council—nor can he veto any ordinance. In fact he does very little as Mayor, except to attend to the “dignity business.” After serving a year he usually resumes his place as a common Alderman.

To an American such an omnipotent council would seem to be capable of nothing but generating jobs. Yet an American editor, who recently devoted considerable time to a personal examination of the English municipal system, thinks that this simplicity is one of its chief merits. “The system is as simple, logical and effective as the American system is complicated and incompatible with harmonious and responsible administration. City government in America defeats its own ends by its systems of checks and balances, its partition of responsibility, and its grand opportunities for the game of hide-and-seek. Infinitely superior is the English system, by which the people give the entire management of their affairs to a big committee of their own, which they renew from time to time.”

Vacancies in the departments of English city governments are usually advertised, and applications are received, not merely from the locality where the man is wanted, but from all over the Kingdom. A Chief of Police for a small town may be chosen from a lower rank in the Police Department of a larger; or, on the other hand, a man who has distinguished himself at the head of a department in a small place may be promoted by being called to a similar position in a larger city. Competitive examinations are not resorted to, but other means are taken of determining the comparative fitness of the candidates. The science of administration is sufficiently well understood so that there are definite professional standards by which applicants may be tried. As in this country there are standards by which we can tell a good judge from a bad one, and as our people will not, as a rule, tolerate a bad one, so in England similar tests and a similar determination produce like results in administrative affairs.

Another important matter in which English policy contrasts with ours is that of quasi-public works. H. C. Adams insists that the best way to purify city governments is not to abolish as many of their functions as possible. On the contrary, give them plenty to do, and all citizens will then be constrained to see that they do it well. English experience seems to confirm the wisdom of this view. In a former number we gave some of the figures regarding monopolies of local service in English cities. It may be added that one-third of all the gas consumed in the British islands is manufactured by local authorities. Municipal works have steadily reduced the selling price and increased the consumption. The price of gas in the large towns is from 50 to 75 cents per 1,000 feet; and this price is said to yield a profit of about 5 cents per 1,000 to the municipality. It is very significant that the public works, while supplying only one-third of the total amount of gas, are reaching nearly as many consumers as the private companies reach, and are supplying two-thirds as many public lamps. This means that the poor are users of gas from public works to nearly twice the extent that they use private gas, and that the streets are much better lighted in the towns that have the public supply. London, which is also outside the operations of the general corporations act, is still supplied by private companies; but such towns as Glasgow, Birmingham, Manchester, Leeds and York own their own gas works. Edinburgh has recently bought out the private companies at a high figure.

Great Britain has a little less than 800 miles of street car lines, of which 233 miles have been constructed and are owned by the local authorities. Neither Liverpool, Glasgow, Manchester, Salford, Birmingham nor Sheffield allows any private company to lay rails in the streets. The tracks are usually laid by the cities and then leased to operating companies. In Glasgow the terms of the lease provide for (1) full interest upon the cost of the lines, (2) a percentage for a renewal and repair fund, (3) a sufficient annual amount for a sinking fund to repay the total capital outlay within the period of the lease, and (4) a moderate mileage rental.

The conditions in an English city differ somewhat from our own because there the proletariat is not easily available for campaign purposes. The franchise is, in fact, a four or five-fold chaos, the lists of voters varying according to the various purposes for which the election may be called. Those who have received public poor relief during the year are rigidly excluded from the franchise; a striking contrast to Baltimore, where an attempt was recently made to vote the entire almshouse population.

It is not intended to hold up the English municipality as a perfect model, for many relics of the Middle Ages still cling to it; but merely to call attention to certain suggestive contrasts.

Our Impartial Observer—The Trust Stocks.

Most of the discussion which goes on in the newspapers about the danger of investing or speculating in these securities is best described by the term “flapdoodle.” If anyone is ignorant of what this word means the intelligent reader can inform him, on my authority, that it is the bait with which gudgeons are most surely caught.

The newspapers are shocked at the “over-capitalization” of the industrial stocks, and ask what can be the value of a stock which is watered four for one.

This talk is in reality the reflection of a good deal of what the financial writers pick up in certain brokers’ offices. To listen to this stock exchange chatter, one would suppose that watering stocks was an entirely unprecedented occurrence in American “financial” circles. It might be supposed that these moralists of the “street” had determined to frown down with all the indignation their severe virtue could command the first introduction of such methods.

May I venture to suggest that American railroad stocks have been diluted before this; there are even persons yet living who remember to their sorrow the increase of the capital stock of the Central & Hudson River Railroad, at a time when they were unfortunately “short.”

In more modern times and in the last ten years a great many railroad stocks have been increased by stock dividends which were nothing less than pure “watering” operations. Notably was this the case with Louisville & Nashville & Rock Island. But to go back to the original creation of American railroad securities; in the inception of these undertakings, how many of their capital stocks, it may well be inquired, represent any material contribution in cash? It would be very hazardous to say that any of them were ever paid for originally at 20 per cent. of their par value. And of late years, in all the creation of new railroad enterprises, their capital stocks have been almost uniformly given away as a bonus for subscriptions to the stock of construction companies. The State of New York authorizes the incorporation of railroads and permits them to exercise the right of eminent domain on the munificent cash contribution of $100 paid in for each mile of road proposed to be built. There is but little doubt that, taking the railroads of New York State as an entirety, this would about represent what the cash contribution to their capital has been. This would probably be true of the entire railroad system of the United States. The only exceptions are in the instances where counties or towns have subscribed to the capital stocks at par, but this has only been a round about method of donating so much money towards their construction. No one, however, seems to remember this in the current agitation about trust capitalization, nor has it ever been alleged against railroad stocks as investments or speculative foot-balls. The truth is that the value of the trust stocks, like the railroad stocks, or any other securities, depends altogether upon their earning capacity. It by no means follows that because so many manufactories have been purchased for so many dollars that the aggregated plant may not be worth more than the sum of each of them collectively. If, for example, the business conducted individually has been unprofitable and by means of their consolidation or harmonious working increased efficiency of direction is secured at remunerative prices, this very result may legitimately authorize a large increase of capital to represent a vast increment in earning money for the shareholders. Just as there was some reason in the excuse made by the late Commodore Vanderbilt for the issue of additional capital stock by the Central & Hudson Railroad to represent betterments and additions not charged to construction account because of the increased earning capacity they gave, so does the fact of the consolidation per se or the very fact of the creation of the trust (if it be justified by the event) afford legitimate excuse for the creation of new capital. Something has in fact been evolved by the organization of a profitable industry before unprofitable, and which had no existence as a profit-making employment of capital. This certainly authorizes the issue of securities to represent the capital so created.

The industrial securities are in one respect in much better condition than most of the American railroad enterprises, in that they have none of the enormous loads of watered capital in the shape of inflated mortgages and debentures ahead of their capital stock paying high rates of interest to be deducted from their profit before the stockholders have any return.

Nor are the trusts fighting like Kilkenny Cats for their share of a traffic which does not increase proportionately with the number of companies amongst which it has to be divided.

The management of the trusts will certainly compare favorably with that of the railroads which are constantly at the mercy of rate-cutting employes over which they seem so far to have been either unable or unwilling to exercise any control.

The talk about public hostility to trusts rests on no better foundation in fact than do the fears of the railroad stock manipulations and their brokers about the dreadful fate in store for the wicked speculators in trust stocks. This alleged hostility has no existence out of the columns of certain newspapers with personal or political purposes to serve by pretending that there is a great public disturbance in the minds of the public on the subject.

I have an excellent opportunity to ascertain the opinions of workingmen, conservatives and radicals, on all economic subjects (about which they are much better informed than the general public have any idea). Their feeling in regard to the rapid organization of industry into trusts may be summed up thus: The conservative laboring men believe that the rapid increase of trusts is merely part of the general economic evolution of business which must ultimately be for the benefit of the workingman by minimizing the incentive of competition to cut down wages, and they believe, therefore, that they can better expect to secure reasonable compensation from a profitable industry than from an unprofitable one. It certainly is true that reductions in wages invariably succeed over-competition resulting from declining demand or over-production, or sometimes from both. The trust system is hostile to either influence, and ought therefore to steady the rate of wages. The radical workingman, such as the Socialists, hails the organization of trusts as an evidence of the truth of his theories, and considers their creation as a vast step toward the ultimate conduct of all industries by the State.

It is not difficult to see that the recent activity in industrial securities in Wall street, and the very general interest which the investing and speculating public at once took in their fluctuations, must have disturbed a good many schemes of the railroad manipulators. There is, in fact, an irrepressible conflict between speculation in railroad stocks and operating in "industrials." The old modes of influencing fluctuations will have to be superseded by entirely new ones, and the proverb is antique that "it is hard to teach an old dog new tricks." No more will the "rate war" affright the ears of the average speculator in trust stocks as it did his confrere of the railroads, nor will the condition of Mr. Jay Gould's digestion have any public interest.

Much of the power which the railroad "magnates" erst exercised in stock speculation is likely to be transferred to Congress, for the tariff is a matter of the most vital importance to most of the industries which have been organized into trusts.

It will have to be a more virtuous Congress, however, than any we have lately had, for the "arguments" which the trusts are likely to bring to bear to be without overwhelming effect. It does not seem likely, therefore, that any interference is to come from legislation with the profits which the trusts seem to have in sight. CHRISTOPHER WALTON.

That Excessive State Tax.

OVER-ASSESSING NEW YORK NEARLY $120,000,000.

New York taxpayers have a vague idea that the State Assessors have taxed this city too highly, and thus made them pay moneys which should have come out of the pockets of the county taxpayers. But they will be a little more interested and concerned to know that the State Assessors in one year alone—1887—forced them to pay taxes on $119,725,885 more than they ought to have paid by law. And this is the little story:

Robert Hall, a taxpayer and citizen of the City and County of New York, brought suit against Abram S. Hewitt, E. V. Loew, Hy. R. Beekman and Michael Coleman, enjoining them from paying taxes into the State Treasury for New York County on more than a valuation of $1,380,824,940, which was the total assessed valuation of the county, sworn to as being over 65 per cent. of the full value in 1887. The State Assessors, however, taxed the county on a valuation of $1,500,550,825, which was nearly $120,000,000 more than they should legally have imposed. The State tax was 2.7 per cent., and the amount imposed was $3,573,900.76, while it should have been $3,250,640.87, so the complaint alleges. The taxpayers were therefore saddled with a payment of $323,259.89 over and above what the law required. Hence the action by Taxpayer Hall, and hence the refusal of Comptroller Myers, Mr. Loew's successor, to hand over that sum unless ordered to do so by the courts.

But the story is not ended. It appears from the complaint that on the first Tuesday in September, 1887, four of the State Assessors met at the office of the Secretary of State, at the Capitol, Albany, and held a meeting to determine the assessments for each county in the State for the ensuing year. Now there are ten officials appointed by law to fix the amount and the rate of the State tax, and as there were only four present the complaint states that there was not a quorum, six members having been absent. Notwithstanding this, business was conducted just as though a quorum really were present, and an adjournment was taken until October 6, 1887. The table of equalized assessments had in the meantime been printed, with the amounts to be assessed to each county, and this table was presented at the adjourned meeting and ratified, despite the fact that no meeting had taken place in the interim at which a quorum could be present to lawfully settle upon the assessments. The law demands that the assessors shall fully post themselves as to the necessity for an increase or decrease in every county; in a word, it requires that each assessor shall fully understand the matter in its minutest bearings. The complaint urges that these officers not only did not perform their duty according to the law, but that they were unable to perform it, as they did not have the requisite knowledge and information in their possession at the time. Not only did they charge New York City and County with taxes on a valuation of nearly $120,000,000 more than was just, but they reduced the assessed valuation of Kings County by $22,909,788 in a year which saw about the greatest building and real estate movement which the City of Churches and its suburbs have ever experienced. This reduction, by the way, is said to have been due to the efforts of Mayor Chapin on behalf of the city of which he is now Mayor. Mr. Chapin was then Comptroller of the State.

The matter is now before ex-Judge Countryman, of Albany, who has been appointed referee in the case, and it will remain to be seen whether the city will have to pay the State $323,259 more than is justly due.

Failure of Joseph Schwartzler.

The five houses built by Joseph Schwartzler on 97th street, south side, 105 feet west of 3d avenue, have been transferred to his creditors, among whom are Wm. Dempsey, John H. Sturk, August Jacob, P. Reynolds and Valentine Moeslein, in settlement of their claims against him.

Our Badly-Paved Thoroughfares.

THE GRAND BOULEVARD'S CONDITION.

The article which appeared in THE RECORD AND GUIDE on the 13th inst., describing the topography of the lots along the Grand Boulevard, between 59th and 86th streets, also called attention to the bad condition of the roadway on that fine thoroughfare. The attention of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has been called this week to the importance of properly paving the Boulevard, and Mr. W. E. D. Stokes appeared before the board on Thursday to urge the appropriation of $100,000, out of the $1,000,000 allowed by law, to pave that thoroughfare. In a letter to Commissioner Gilroy he points out that the curbing, flagging and macadamizing of the Boulevard cost the property-owners benefited some $500,000 per mile, the most excessive assessment ever levied, and states that the property-owners claim that the time has now arrived for the city authorities to make good the promise made by their predecessors of twenty years ago, that a proper surface should be later on placed upon the present foundations, the powers of that day having only put a temporary surface on the roadway. Mr. Stokes says that the west side district, including Wards Nos. 12, 19 and 22, in 1878 paid taxes on $257,470,000, and in 1883 on $517,269,000, an increase of over 100 per cent., being 40 per cent. of all the city taxes. He says that the taxes of each of these wards are larger than those of any other ward, and that this has resulted from the extraordinary improvements made in them during the last few years. He asks that the Boulevard shall first be paved between 72d and 110th streets, and suggests that an asphalt pavement would be the most suitable one to lay down. In a hasty measurement of the Boulevard, between those streets, he found that 67,000 square yards would be required to be covered, and he says that this could be done, with asphalt, for $100,000, with a bonded guarantee to keep the road in repair for five years included.

Commissioner Gilroy thoroughly agreed with Mr. Stokes that the Boulevard badly needed repaving. The only drawback to an asphalt road at present was that the great number of building carts which used the Boulevard would probably destroy the roadway very quickly. Mr. Stokes thinks this should not prove a barrier, as the contractors will keep the road in repair, anyway.

THOSE OBSTRUCTING RAILROADS.

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago we reported that Commissioner Gilroy had written to the railroad companies, asking them their intention in reference to using cable or electric motors, as now allowed by law. The object in view was to ascertain how far the city would be justified in repaving streets where horse railroads now run, as any change in power after the streets were paved would partly destroy the regularity of the newly-laid pavements. The city authorities wanted to know about this beforehand, so that they could lay the pavements after, and not before, the changes were made by the street railroads. The replies sent in by the roads are indefinite and unsatisfactory, and Commissioner Gilroy advises that the street improvements be therefore postponed. He recommends, however, that the following streets shall be repaved and repaired:

With granite blocks on concrete foundations: Cedar, from Broadway to Greenwich street; Reade, between Elm and Washington streets; Thomas, between Church and Hudson streets; Worth, from Broadway to Hudson street; Leonard, from Broadway to Hudson street; Franklin, from West Broadway to Washington street; Laight, from Canal to Greenwich street; Bleeker, from Bowery to Crosby street; Elizabeth, from Bleeker to Payard street; Spring, from Bowery to Broadway; Broome, from Lewis to Ludlow street; Ludlow, from Canal to Stanton street; Eldridge, from Division to Houston street; Broome, from Centre street to Broadway; Horatio, from Greenwich avenue to West 4th street; Cliff, from Ferry to John street; Platt, from Pearl to William street; Cedar, from Pearl to Nassau street; Stone, from William to Broad street; Broad, from Exchange place to Pearl street; Bridge, from Froed to State street; Howard street, from Broadway to Mercer street; 13th, between Avenue B and 5th avenue; Greenwich avenue, from 8th avenue to West 13th street; Lexington avenue, between 21st and 32d streets, between 34th and 25th streets and between 59th and 97th streets.

With asphalt on concrete foundation: Lexington avenue, between 42d and 59th streets; Broad street, from Wall street to Exchange place.

With asphalt on the present stone block pavement: Mulberry, between Houston and Bleeker streets; 25th, between Broadway and 6th avenue; 32d, between 4th and 5th avenues; 33d, from 4th avenue to Broadway; 36th, between 4th and 6th avenues; 37th, between 4th and 6th avenues; 38th, between 5th and 6th avenues; 43d, between 6th avenue and Broadway; 46th, between Madison and 6th avenues; 47th, between Madison and 6th avenues; 48th, between Madison and 6th avenues; Park avenue, between 34th and 40th streets; 67th, between 4th and 5th avenues; 68th, between 4th and 5th avenues.

In support of his recommendation to cover with asphalt the present stone block pavements, Commissioner Gilroy stated that he had ascertained that asphalt pavements laid in this manner in Washington had proved very successful. It had certainly proved to be a very desirable pavement, especially for private residence streets and thoroughfares, as it affords both noiseless and pleasant driving.

A Question as to Commission.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

DEAR SIR—Kindly enlighten me about the proper amount which I am entitled to as commission under the following circumstances:

Where I rent for ten years at $5,000 per annum, property valued at $100,000, the tenant having the privilege of purchase any time within one year, how is a broker's commission to be arrived at? Should 1 per cent. on the entire rental, $50,000, be charged now, and, in case the tenant avails himself of his privilege of purchase, what additional compensation would I be entitled to?

It is fair to say that the tenant is now making such extensive alterations that he would not be justified in doing unless he fully intended purchasing. The owner has proposed to pay commission at the rate of 2½ per cent. on the first year's rental, and at the expiration of that time, in case the property is sold, then to pay the regular 1 per cent. commission on purchase price.

Should I accept his offer now or wait until the first year has expired and then adjust the commission? What is the usual method when privileges to purchase are given? Very respectfully, MANHATTAN.

ANSWER.—The broker's compensation depends on the agreement expressed or implied, in respect to it, between him and his employer. In the absence of a statement of this agreement, or of the general usage in the trade in respect to such cases, we can do no more than make a few suggestions covering the questions presented. We think the transaction between the landlord and the tenant for the purpose of estimating the broker's present compensation is a hiring absolute for one year, upon which he is entitled to his compensation now; also an option to the tenant to buy, which, if exercised by him, will, when so exercised, entitle the broker to his compensation on the sale, and at the usual rate for sale; but if not exercised, then the broker, at the expiration of the year, will be entitled to the commission on the other nine years' rental, at the rate of commission and payable at the time and in the manner agreed on, or according to the established usage in the trade.

The making of the improvements by the tenant is not, we think, an election by him to purchase.

The broker can safely take the commission in the first year's rental now offered by the landlord, but he should, to avoid question, incorporate in his receipt which will evidence the transaction a statement that the amount of his commission on the sale, or on the other nine years' renting, is reserved until the election by the tenant to purchase; or until the expiration of the year allowed for such election; and for the same precaution this paper should be signed by the landlord.

Dispossession for Non-Payment of Rent.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

DEAR SIR—Will you kindly favor us, through your journal, with the present law relative to dispossessing for non-payment of rent and for holding over, with the mode of procedure? and greatly oblige, very truly yours,

MARQUAND BROS.

ANSWER.—The law on this subject will be found in Sections 2231 to 2265, both inclusive, of the Code of Civil Procedure, and the decisions of the courts. It would be impracticable to publish all these sections and the construction of them by the court. If there be any particular question under this subject we will, if it be presented, answer it with pleasure.

Men and Things.

West side real estate men have settled, in their own minds, that the only place to hold the Exposition of 1892 is somewhere in the 12th Ward.

The tax rate for next year will be $1.95, so Deputy-Comptroller Storrs informed a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE. This is good news for the taxpayers.

The reduction in the tax rate is 0.27 per cent., as compared with this session. This will reduce our tax payments next year nearly nine cents on the dollar.

The reduction is due to the measure passed through the Legislature last session, enabling the city to use certain sums out of the Sinking Fund toward payment of interest and the redemption of debt. This will amount to about $2,000,000, so Comptroller Myers informed a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, and taxpayers will therefore have $2,000,000 less taxes to pay in 1890.

John D. Crimmins, Angelo L. Myers and others filed an agreement last week, restricting all the lots on 110th, 111th, 112th and 113th streets, extending from a point 100 feet west of 7th avenue to a point 100 feet east of 8th avenue.

The Manhattan Elevated Road should do something to their structure between 125th and 135th street stations. The rattle of the whole structure when a train passes over it is so great that it is impossible to hear a person speak two feet away. Real estate men complain that this noise, made unendurable by open windows in summer, has decreased the demand for 8th avenue houses.

Fifth and Madison avenues, above 130th street, are likely to become business and tenement house avenues in the not distant future. As business along the Harlem River increases the demand for laborers assumes larger proportions, and the laborers, in their turn, create a district for cheap tenement houses. This destroys the privacy and quietness that are essential to successful residence streets.

The Daft Electric Company, who have been experimenting with the electric motor on the Ninth Avenue Elevated Road, are building a car which will weigh more than twice what the present one does. With the machine now in use, which weighs nine and a-quarter tons, they have attained a speed of thirty miles an hour with a train of four cars attached, and it is claimed that this engine will do the work of a steam locomotive weighing about twenty-two tons. The electrical engine now being built is to weigh nineteen tons, and to draw a train of eight cars at or above a speed of thirty miles an hour. The officials of the electric company say that there is a saving of over one-half in the actual expense of running trains by means of their system as against steam, that the wear and tear on the elevated structure is much less because of the lighter weight of the engine, that the motion is easier and the means of generating power cleaner than that now in vogue, and, finally, that it is only a question of a very short time when the Manhattan Company will sign a contract for enough machines to supply all their lines. Col. Hain, of the Manhattan Company, says he knows nothing about any approach toward a contract for electrical machines, because the experiments made thus far have been far from satisfactory. The experiments have all been made at the expense of the motor company, who will be at a total loss unless future ventures prove more successful.

Public officials of this city and vicinity often develop a trait that is supposed to be entirely foreign to the American character—stupidity.

Not only do they avail themselves of all the red-tape afforded them by rules and regulations to tie citizens up in a knot, but when there is no fixed way for doing a thing they, nine times out of ten, do it in the most inconvenient fashion. Large Croton water pipes, 4 feet in diameter, have for the past week lain, end close to end, in the gutter on the north side of 125th street, between 5th and Lenox avenues. There is not a single break in the long line, and it is impossible for a man to squeeze between any two pipes, much less for a wagon to back up for delivery of any goods. The occupants of this block, mostly storekeepers, have been put to great inconvenience by this short-sighted carelessness, and excretions have been "both loud and deep."

A new hydraulic brick is now manufactured in eight different shades of red and brown which, on cheap houses, is designed to supply the place of brownstone or sandstone for trimmings. The shades of color run from a rather dark brown to a reddish hue and at a superficial glance might well be taken for the stones the place of which they supply.

The iron beams for the first floor of the Manhattan Athletic Club House have been placed in position.

The Health Department have at last ordered an inspection of the condition of the "L" road retiring rooms. Many of them were unfit for use for a great part of last winter and spring, and there should be better accommodation for the public.

Mayor Grant should insist upon the Hudson River Railroad dispensing with soft coal or in some way doing away with the smoke from their engines. This has for a long time been a nuisance and has stopped many of our wealthy citizens from building costly homes on Riverside Drive. Modern science has enabled us to have smokeless engines, and the Hudson River Railroad is rich enough to afford the cost of making the change.

The purchase by Cornelius Vanderbilt of the two houses at Nos. 750 and 756 5th avenue has two reasons; the one being that he wishes to enlarge his residence, the other being that he wants to save the houses from being turned into business or club buildings, like three or four of those on the Jones estate block opposite. In a recent article on the purchase of the Bonner lots, we pointed out that Messrs. Huntington, Astor, Whitney, Vanderbilt, and probably others in the immediate neighborhood, would eventually find it necessary to purchase the two blocks to the north and south of them if they wished to maintain their private character and not be surrounded by business buildings which these houses would otherwise certainly be altered into in course of time.

The disappearance of Wm. S. Mercer, who has been building seventeen houses on 88th and 93d streets, has caused quite a stir on the west side. A number of mechanics' liens have been filed on the property, as will be noticed in our weekly list of liens in another column.

The Jerome Avenue Railway Company has just been incorporated, with a capital of $200,000. It is to run from Jerome avenue, at or near the terminus of the bridge across the Harlem River, and known as McComb's or Central Bridge. A double track will run from that point to Woodlawn Cemetery, a distance of five miles. The directors are J. Romaine Brown, Frank Yoran, William B. Whitney, Henry Campbell, Moses Mehrbach, Adolph C. Horbacher, James H. Sullivan, William Chapman, John Whalen, Thomas E. Crimmins, Hugh N. Camp, Richard A. Cunningham and D. Lowber Smith, nearly all of them gentlemen known in real estate circles.

Plans were filed at the Building Department during the week for a three-story brick Reformatory for Women, to be erected on a plot at Inwood bounded by 213th and 214th streets and 14th avenue. The building, which is 204.6x160 feet in size, is to cost $250,000, and will be in charge of the Sisters of St. Mary.

Under the new order of things in the Health Department, aspiring plumbers have the opportunity they have been so long looking for, viz.: that of serving the public as inspectors of plumbing in the Department of New Buildings. Already they are beginning to contest their assertive right with the graduates of the School of Mines—and successfully, too, it appears—the board having recently filled up some vacancies on the staff by the selection of plumbers from the list of eligible candidates sent in by the Civil Service Examining Board.

Building Association Notes.

There has not been very much doing in the associations throughout the past week. The week before was so unusually active that the loaning facilities of the associations are for the time exhausted, and in consequence a period of dullness has succeeded. Nothing further has happened as to the suit about the liability of the associations to taxation, and until that is settled all other possible events in the association world are comparatively unimportant.

New Jersey it seems, like New York, is waking up to the value of the associations. According to the Home Seeker some 60,000 citizens of that State are interested in the movement, and the shareholders are obtaining great benefits from it. Numerous small investors from New York possess such implicit confidence in these Jersey organizations that they have invested largely in the nearby institutions of Hudson County, where thirty associations enjoy a prosperous existence.

It is in and about Newark that the associations cluster more than in any other part of the State. The first was started twenty years ago, while now there are forty-four of them and all prosperous. Doubtless the healthy character of the present building movement in Newark is largely due to the influence of the associations. There is an absolute minimum of speculative house construction going on in that city, nearly all of the new dwellings being put up by their occupiers. In New York City it is patent that the very reverse is the fact. Not only must the builder step in and make his profit, but lately there has sprung up still another interloper, the house merchant, who also will need his commission. A man who builds his own house in an intelligent, economical way, will save these commissions—an economy among others which the associations help him to make.

Among the Jersey associations there is one of the largest in the country. This is the People's Building and Loan Association of Harrison, established sixteen years ago. The population of Harrison is about 10,000, all of them industrious workmen. There are 3,500 shareholders in its association, and the present commonwealth is estimated at 650,000. Its reports for the past few years show earnings on the shares for the average time of investment to be 10 per cent.

The winter is their slack season and they then go South to rusticate. They are very busy just now filling orders, due to the activity in building this season.

Real Estate Department.

There has been a sort of infantile spurt in the market this week, as though the expiring light of a busy season had suddenly flickered up at the last. A few good sales are reported, and these, with the sales on 'Change, are both a little more numerous and important than those of last week. Yet, when all is said, the market is a summer one, for everybody who can get to the country has gone, and only those who are forced to be in the city on business remain behind.

On Monday only one sale was announced, and this was adjourned.

On Tuesday the gathering was quite considerable for this time of the year. Richard V. Harnett had exchanged the shores of Babylon for the auctioneer's stand, and sold four lots on 33d street, 100 feet west of Lexington avenue, to T. E. D. Power, the well-known real estate operator. They range from 21 to 24x80 in size, and brought $15,400 each. He also sold two lots on 34th street, 95 feet west of Lexington avenue, size 23x117.6 each, which were also secured by Mr. Power at $33,500 each. Seventy-five per cent. of the money was allowed to remain at 4 per cent., a valuable desideratum, as only $32,150 out of the $128,600 paid for the six lots will have to be paid cash down. Among the other sales of the day was that of No. 359 Front street, running through to No. 382 South street, two six-story tenements, on a lot 25x140, offered under foreclosure, which went to the plaintiff at $28,000. Geo. H. Miller purchased 100x100.11, with old buildings, on 113th street, east of 10th avenue, for $19,750. The sale of "The Palisade" on West 56th street was adjourned till the 26th inst.

Special Notice.

Messrs. Chas. R. Weeks & Bro., of No. 74 Murray street, have been appointed the sole agents in the United States for the glazed or enameled brick manufactured in Kilmarnock, Scotland, by Messrs. J. & M. Craig. The Craig fire-brick and clay are well known in American markets; but while the Craigs have manufactured enameled brick for twenty years, they have only recently been introduced in this country, although sold in large quantities in all parts of Great Britain. They are made in various shades and colors, and the glazing is very brilliant. It is claimed by the agents that 725 Scotch brick give the same surface as 1,000 of American size. Messrs. Weeks & Bro. furnish prices and samples on application.

Paul F. Gouan has been elected a stock member, and Morris V. Freund, A. Ward Benedict, Benjamin Homans and L. Froehlich have been elected annual members, of the Real Estate Exchange.

President Cruikshank, of the Real Estate Exchange, W. W. Astor, John D. Crimmins, W. E. D. Stokes and others prominent in real estate circles, are on the committee appointed by the Mayor on the forthcoming Exposition.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Some evidences of disappointment continue to be found on the market for Common Reds. Sellers do not positively lose ground, yet they as yet fail to regain an advantage that will permit them to assume any degree of independence, and it is not unusual to have an odd cargo so placed that a little allowance has to be made before custom is secured. It was the calculation last week that there would be a comparatively moderate run of supplies for some time to follow, and that has been realized; but a corresponding shrinkage in the demand has also taken place, and was not counted upon. Buyers have resorted to no special bearish effort; indeed, all in all, have acted fairly enough, but a natural and legitimate business measure induced them to make use of such advantage as could reasonably be obtained. We make few changes in the line of quotations, but the top figures on all makes represent exceptional quality and are 12½¢ to 25¢ per M above the average run of cargo rates. Of late the floating supply is reported as having worked down very well again, which naturally imparts a somewhat steadier feeling, yet we notice an absence of inclination to indulge in any very buoyant calculation as though receivers were a little uncertain about demand and awaiting further developments. An occasional hint about the possibility of speculative builders finding it somewhat difficult to carry out their plans in full is sometimes given, but beyond that no reason for a diminution in consumption is suggested. At primary points work is still said to be going ahead with much vigor, and it is understood that the committee appointed at the late meeting of brickmakers to arrange for date when general production shall cease, has as yet made no report. Pales are selling very well, and the former general range of prices is reported, though most sellers say $3.50 is about the best they can do.

HARDWARE.—There is not much general animation as yet, but the tone of the market is promising. Certain out-of-town custom is commencing to be felt, and there is also a fair flutter on local call in which builders' hardware takes quite a full part with every reason to expect a further increase, as the period for actual consumption is close at hand and preparations must be made for it. Other lines of goods will, however, no doubt secure proportionate attention. The offerings are ample in quantity and assortment and values generally pretty steady. At a recent meeting of the Wrought-Iron Pipe and Boiler Tube Manufacturers' Association a general advance in valuation was made and the following are published as the revised figures: Butt-Welded Pipe, 50¢ a count; Lap do do, 63½¢ do; Butt do do (galvanized), 41½¢ do; Lap do do do, 50¢ do; Casings, 5½ inches, 60¢ do; all other sizes, 57½¢ do; Boiler Tubes 13½ inches and smaller, 52½¢ do; do, 2 inches and larger, 57½¢ do; 2½ inch Line-Pipe, 17¢ per foot net; 3 do do, 22¢ do; 3½ do do, 27¢ do; 4 do do, 32¢ do; 5 do do, 46¢ do; 6 do do, 62¢ do; 7 do do, 76¢ do; 8 do do, $1.04 do; 9 do do, $1.30 do; 10 do do, $1.35 do; 11 do do, $1.75 do do.

LATH.—The general market stands practically the same as last week and about the only noticeable feature is that receivers in predicting moderate arrivals of available stock have struck it once at least. Some few goods come to hand, but the most majority of them appeared to be under engagement, while anything in position to be offered found really prompt sale and commanded former rates without difficulty. Dealers, in some instances, claim to be reasonably well supplied, but that is not a general feature, and at about current cost it is believed any ordinary offering from first hands can be placed.

LIME.—We find a little change for the better in tone of reports, receivers noting a quicker and fuller demand than not only takes up current arrivals promptly but could dispose of a larger quantity if available, and some buyers desire to book their orders against cargoes afloat. On Eastern the prices continue to be maintained under the compact with manufacturers, and other goods remain steady through reflected influence.

LUMBER.—As a whole the local market is lacking in animation, and especially as regards really new demand. Quite a full amount of stock is being delivered into the consumptive channel, but principally upon contract, and buyers are not now inclined to open up fresh negotiation with any freedom. About the best selling stuff of late has been finishing lumber of various kinds, building operations having moved beyond the use of the coarser grades. Dealers are in turn rather slow customers and inclined to indulge in more or less close selection, especially from such goods as White Pine, upon which the usual varied opportunities for negotiation are presented, though there is no great anxiety manifested on the part of sellers to press matters severely. The market is now pretty well understood by most agents, and it does not take them long to make a canvass and decide whether to redouble efforts or pull out and await a more propitious period.

Eastern Spruce varies in tone according to quality, but probably no more so than usual at this season of the year. The heavy pressure of consumption has passed, and while there is a great deal of stock still being used, not much of it is handled on really new demand, and probably the majority of dealers are fairly provided against current wants so far as average quality is concerned, and when anything only fair or inferior is offered they find an opportunity for the display of considerable indifference, and now and then some crowding on values. The tender of a specification containing a liberal proportion of large-sized sticks, however, meets with very ready response, and there is a very fair number of specials constantly awaiting bids, with buyers rarely objecting to full former figures. Local custom, indeed, is seldom found refusing to negotiate on large stuff, but will, when it can, endeavor to strike an average by forcing the medium and low grades.

Piling shows no really new features. Once in awhile, when the arrivals may happen to run pretty full, a watchful, shrewd buyer can pick up an odd cargo at something a trifle off, but the larger receivers generally refuse to concede, and if they unload and put stock in chains the holding becomes more determined than ever.

Hemlock is meeting with very fair demand, but any impression that may have been entertained regarding positive scarcity no longer being tenable, buyers show less anxiety, and full former rates are about all that can be expected. There is, however, apparently no loss of advantage to sellers on either Pennsylvania or Northern stock, so far as standard goods at least are concerned, and there seems to be a great deal of faith in ability to carry the market along about where it is to the end of the season.

White Pine is reported upon in a manner to indicate that little or no change is going on in the general conditions of the market, except possibly that business is somewhat less satisfactory for all kinds of stuff except box boards. Against actual consumption dealers seem to be excellently well provided, with more stock coming forward on contract, and therefore attempts to place further large amounts at the moment are in most cases a failure. Agents and salesmen, however, seem to have the market down pretty fine and abstain from any move that would be likely to convey to customers an impression of anxiety to realize or the probability of lower rates.

Yellow Pine does not seem to afford basis for much complaint, and indeed, according to some reports, the trade as a body would seem to be a veritable happy family. Demand, however, in many cases is certainly of a rather cautious character, and buyers who can stand off are doing so on the impression that some of the recent indications point to better terms before the end of the season. The actual local consumption is quite on a parity with the amount of other standard grades of lumber, possibly a little fuller for some of the heavier kinds of work, and a great many special orders come out from time to time.

Carolina Pine is not quite so much on the "boom" as some of the recent reports have represented, yet there is no doubt a good general trade doing, and some of the manufacturers may be slightly behind hand with their orders. The market certainly seems to be well managed, with noticeable features to be found in the absence of complaint about inferior quality and in the manner in which values are sustained.

Hardwoods sell moderately, the custom coming in part from dealers and in part from the larger consumers for local manufacturing purposes, and, in a general way, the offering equals the outlet. Poplar shows a continued irregularity in price, but most other grades are fairly steady. The best selling stock still appears to be found in quartered oak and in ash, but quality must be first class to obtain full rates, faulty goods meeting with little favor for any outlet. The foreign movement is a little uncertain though apparently not inclined to increase.

Shingles meet with a very good general demand and retain a healthy market. Consumption is well up to the volume expected at all points depending upon this locality for a supply, and operators claim that on the pretty full deals already made for export this season they stand a good chance of duplication of orders.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Chicago Timberman comes to us enlarged, beautified, and so far as it was possible improved in its general make up. Long may it wave. We extract as follows:

If one were to take the reports that come from different parts of the country, and attempt to drain from them a resume of the lumber trade, difficulties innumerable would stand in the way. The fact is that reports show wide variance, and while from one point comes word of general activity and every prospect for prosperity that is to last, from other points comes word of quietness and even stagnation. Still, a fair unbiased glance over the market with the different conditions that go to make up prosperity or dullness, develops this much, that the lumber trade is in better shape as a whole than is any other branch of trade. With all the discouragements that have followed close since the opening of 1889, the truth is that the volume of trade has been large, and dealers have only to pin tight to the faith that is theirs.

Speaking of hemlock there wasn't much of it cut until three years ago, but it is evidently finding favor now. From 60,000,000 to 100,000,000 feet of it is being cut annually in Michigan, as nearly as I can get at it, chiefly into piece stuff and boards, planks, and some timbers. It is in fair demand for roof boards and coarse fence boards. It makes better studding than timbers. It is more durable for that use. But put into whatever form, carpenters and builders kick hard against its use, because it slivers so much. Seasoned hemlock is not any heavier than seasoned pine.

On the Chicago cargo market:

It was evident that an advance in the price of lumber and shingles was impossible this week. Nothing in the way of short piece stuff brought more than $9.50, and the countenances of the buying side of the market, as well as their conversation, indicated that they were in mood to pay more than that figure at the present time, and they didn't hope to find it necessary to do so later in the season.

There has been no great abundance of piece stuff on the market this week and it was impossible to get more than $9.50 for short lengths. Occasionally, where there was a sprinkling of longer pieces, the figure was increased a little, but there are those on the market who profess to believe that trades had been made at as low as $9.25, but they were not traceable, however.

The Northwestern Lumberman, writing upon the Chicago yard trade, says:

One of the larger dealers, in speaking of overstocks and the proposed remedial reduction, gives it as his opinion that there never has been, and never can be, too much high grade lumber in this market. His stock has been cleaned out in even this, the dullest year for trade since 1879, and he has been obliged to buy largely of his neighbors in order to meet current requirement. While this is the condition of the good lumber trade, prices are not what they should be, simply because the majority of yards that carry small stocks which they sort out of cargoes received from time to time, cut prices in order to dispose of stuff for which they have no regular trade. This suggests that several well capitalized concerns might form a trust, and co-operate the larger share of the good lumber in this market; that is, buy all the small stocks offered, and hold them for fair prices. To this proposition it is objected that if it became known that there was such a combination in this city, outsiders would ship lumber to the factories here at reduced prices, and thus break down the market. But the same trust could take care of Wisconsin stocks to such an extent as to preserve the strength of the market. It is generally believed that the supply of good lumber is diminishing. It is certain that the Eastern trade is picking up large quantities, and buying more, year by year, in Wisconsin. Under such circumstances it appears like folly for dealers in this city to shut their eyes to the advantage which the situation presents to them.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says of the general lumber situation:

Trade is still in the halting stages. Although the volume of demand in the ordinary channels of consumption is very nearly up to the standard at this time of the year, there is a good deal of complaint heard that the market lacks life and buoyancy. Probably quite as much lumber is going into building enterprises now as at the same time in preceding years, and it is probably equally true that if the demand from the agricultural districts could be separated from the great body of trade it would be found to be as large as it usually is during July. The midsummer is always marked by more or less falling off in trade. It is the time when, in the northern latitudes at least, builders have the outline—the great lumber consuming portion—of their buildings completed, and are busy with work which, while it consumes time, labor and money, still makes but comparatively little demand upon the lumber yards. It is the season, too, when the farmer is busy with other things than making for himself buildings, and when he is content to defer his negotiations with the lumber dealer until his crop is secure and he has money to pay the last bill or put up the cash for a new one. In ordinary seasons, when railroad building is in progress, the dullness of the midsummer season is in a measure bridged over by the demand which begins to be felt in June—a month or two after the work of grading has been commenced—for bill stuff to go into bridges, buildings and the other necessary complements to railroad construction. But there is practically no railroad building in the Northwest. An authority says that up to July 1st, in all the Northwestern States, only nine miles of new track had been constructed. In ordinary years from 800 to 1,500 miles is the record made up to the same date. The natural falling off in trade is therefore felt with more than ordinary force, and although the situation is by no means a discouraging one, the men accustomed to be busy find it almost impossible to avoid finding some fault with their comparative idleness.

THE SOUTH.

The Southern Lumberman publishes a paper read by A. E. Baird before the Commercial Club of Nashville, Tenn., from which we extract the following:

The supply of timber within reach of this market is sufficient to meet the demands of trade for many years. The leading timber is yellow poplar, of a very superior quality, and while this valuable wood always grows scattering, there is still standing within an easily accessible area, many millions of feet that only requires a full appreciation of its value and fair prices to bring to this market. Tennessee poplar is almost entirely free from the gray streaks and black specks which are quite common in this lumber in some other sections. While it is true that the supply of poplar in the immediate vicinity of this market is to a great extent exhausted, still the consequently increasing demand and advance in prices enables manufacturers and dealers to profitably extend logging operations to greater distances, and by this means a constant supply can be secured for many years to come. Nashville is recognized as the center of the poplar market. The home office of the Poplar Manufacturers' and Wholesale Dealers' Association is located here, and all quotations are based upon Nashville prices, and all delivered prices are made on the basis of Nashville freight rates.

In addition to poplar, Nashville has a large and steady trade in walnut, cherry, ash, oak, hickory, gum, elm and red cedar. Walnut and cherry timber has been more nearly exhausted than any other wood in this vicinity, still our dealers manage to handle nearly fifteen million feet annually.

Ash is still abundant, and is largely used for agricultural implements and furniture, and about thirty million feet are handled annually in this market.

Oak of the finest quality is abundant and of a beautiful grain, but a comparatively small amount is manufactured, partly because its great weight and ruling prices will not justify long shipments, and partly because there is but small demand for the low grades.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trades Journal says:

American Black Walnut.—In this a fairly good trade is being done. The better grades of quality are mostly in request. Inferior descriptions, with which most yardkeepers are fully stocked, move off slowly.

We notice a considerable quantity of squares have lately been landed, some of which can only be described as utter rubbish.

American Whitewood.—This trade is experiencing a satisfactory run just now; not only is there a good call for goods of from medium to prime qualities, but inferior stocks are likewise moving off better.

American Satin Walnut.—The demand for some time past has fallen off very much, and is restricted almost entirely to better class stuff, of which, however, there seems to be no stock.

American Oak.—There is a steady demand with fully-maintained prices ruling. Logs are not nearly so salable as lumber; of the latter we notice what appears to be a very prime parcel of planks and large-sized squares just now being landed.

METALS.—The American Iron and Steel Association has prepared the usual statement of the production of pig iron during the first half of the year with comparisons.

The Bulletin of the Association says:

The production of pig iron in the first six months of 1889 was larger than in any preceding six months in the history of the American iron trade. The stocks of unsold pig iron on the 30th of June last were much larger than at the close of any preceding semi-annual period for a number of years.

The total production of pig iron in the United States in the first six months of 1889 amounted to 4,107,899 net tons of 2,000 pounds, or 3,667,767 gross tons of 2,240 pounds. Our production in the last six months of 1888 was 3,886,004 net tons, or 3,469,646 gross tons. The production in the first half of 1889 was 198,121 gross tons more than in the second half of 1888. The production in the last three half years has been as follows, in both net and gross tons:

Production.	Net tons.	Gross tons.
First half of 1888.....	3,382,503	3,020,092
Second half of 1888.....	3,886,004	3,469,646
First half of 1889.....	4,107,899	3,667,767

Our increased production of pig iron in the first half of 1889 was wholly in those kinds which are used for general foundry and mill purposes. There was a decrease in the production of Bessemer pig iron. The following figures show the production of foundry and mill pig iron in the last three half years as compared with that of Bessemer pig iron:

	First half of 1888.	Second half of 1888.	First half of 1889.
Gross Tons—
Total production.....	8,020,092	8,469,646	3,667,767
Bessemer pig iron.....	1,178,508	1,459,351	1,419,351

Foundry and mill..... 1,841,584 2,010,295 2,248,416

Our production of pig iron in the first half of 1889 was divided among the fuels used as follows, in comparison with similar details for the last half of 1888:

Fuel used—Net tons.	Last half of 1888.	First half of 1889.
Bituminous.....	2,595,172	2,883,508
Mixed anthracite and coke.....	800,508	762,827
Anthracite alone.....	169,713	164,584
Charcoal.....	330,551	306,780
Total.....	3,886,004	4,107,899

The stocks of pig iron which were unsold in the hands of manufacturers or their agents on the 30th of June last, and which were not intended for the consumption of the manufacturers, amounted to 502,931 gross tons, against 300,144 gross tons on the 31st of December last, an increase of 202,787 gross tons in six months. The increase in unsold stocks in the first half of 1889 was 4,669 gross tons in excess of the increased production of pig iron in the same period. The exact number of furnaces which were in blast on June 30 last was 283, and the number out of blast was 293; total, 581.

NAILS.—Actual consumption is good, and, if anything, on the increase, with the market more or less favorably influenced. Manufacturers and dealers, however, appear to be a little sensitive and nervous and while rates have a sturdy look buyers have not altogether lost advantage, especially on large parcels. We quote at $1.85@1.90 per keg for car lots, and $1.95@2.00 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—No business of any great magnitude is doing at the moment. In the regular course of trade orders quite a little stock can be placed, but buyers move without hurry and rarely handle more goods than are likely to be used within a period of ordinary credit limits. Supplies are available to full extent of market requirements, yet so well under control as to prevent any serious disturbance of values, on the leading grades at least. Linseed Oil has been in very good demand and firm at 58@59c. for Western, and 60@61c. for City. Spirits Turpentine meeting with quite full sale and ruling firmly at a fractional gain. We quote at 39@40c. per gallon, according to quality, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Some little jobbing trade occasionally presents itself, but as a whole the market is of a light and unimportant character, with values a trifle nominal. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.45 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.
